INCOME TAX WILL BE CUT AGAIN, EXPERT PREDICTS

Treasury Surplus Expected Despite March Reduction in Rates; Public Debt Shrinking, Too

This is the first of a series of six articles by William P. Helm, Jr., dealing with the prospects of further reduction of income taxes by the federal government. Mr. Helm, regarded as an authority upon this subject, obtains his data from official sources. The second article will be published tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Income taxes are to be cut again. The long shadow of an approaching reduction already falls across the Federal Treasury at Washington. Lower rates put into effect last March have buried the estimates beneath a flood of gold, just as they did in 1924, and receipts for the fiscal year now fleeting to its close bid fair to touch the $4,000,000,000 mark recorded when taxes were reduced two years ago.

Washington no longer talks of a deficit during the present year which ends on the last day of next month. The anxiety of March has been changed to rejoicing in May. The year will end with a whopping surplus—not less, it is believed, than $250,000,000, and possibly as much as $350,000,000. The public debt, for the first time since the war, will drop below the $20,000,000,000 mark, as Uncle Sam closes the ledger for the year, and another prospective surplus looms up as a dividend to the income taxpayer in 1927.

THREE FACTORS HELP

A trinity of happy events has combined to produce another Treasury surplus this year, where, less than three months ago, it was apprehended that a deficit might follow the generous tax reduction made by Congress. The first development was that the Treasury experts had failed to grasp the magnitude of the business boom of 1926. Their guesses, like spent arrows, fell far short of the target. The second development was that Congress itself spared the Treasury to an unusual degree, though it ran wild as to proposals for spending money. The third thing was that the government tightened its belt and simply did not spend all the money it was authorized to spend.

As a result, one finds that more money will flow into the Treasury this year of lower taxes than the experts figured would accrue under the higher tax rates. They estimated as their first guess, back in December, 1924, that the government would take in a grand total of $3,641,000,000. A year lat-

FIREWORKS EXPLOSION KILLS TRIO

Plant Working on Order for Sesquicentennial Exhibition Wrecked

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ALLENTOWN (Pa.) May 30.—Three men were killed and one injured today by an explosion that wrecked the plant of the Pennsylvania Fireworks Company near this city.

The plant went up with a rumbling thunder-like roar that was heard for many miles. Those killed were Nicholas Tumini and John Tumini, proprietors of the works, and an unidentified man.

The plant was working on a $250,000 order for the sesquicentennial exhibition at Philadelphia and had already shipped one carload of the pyrotechnics.

TWO ALASKA PLANES FLY TO SEATTLE

Hop From Coos Bay Made by Mapping Craft on Way to Ketchikan

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SEATTLE, May 30.—Two naval airplanes of an Alaskan air-mapping expedition arrived here today from Coos Bay, Or., and left for Bremerton, Wash., to report to Rear-Admiral J. V. Chase, commandant of the Thirteenth Naval District. They return to Sand Point field, near here, tomorrow. There they await arrival of the naval tender Gannet, which carries a crew of sixty, and two amphibian planes. One of the planes coming here on the Gannet was taken aboard at San Diego, the starting point of the expedition. The other is to be loaded on the tender at Coos Bay, where it was forced to land en route here.

Lieut. H. B. Wyatt, commander of the expedition, who arrived here with the planes today, said that it is likely that only two of the airplanes will fly to Ketchikan, Alaska, where the air-mapping work starts. The rest of the crew and equipment, including two of the planes, he said, probably will be taken north on the Gannet.

Lieut. Wyatt said that the expedition will proceed to Alaska by the end of this week.

Two Girls and Man Who Tries Rescue Drown

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MODESTO, May 30.—Three persons are dead here tonight the result of accidental drownings in an irrigation ditch in the west city limits of Modesto at a late hour this afternoon. The dead: Evelyn Cunningham, 12 years of age; Louise Corgait, 16, and C. W. Butcher, a plumber, 37.

The drowning occurred when the younger girl slipped and fell into about six feet of water while playing near the ditch. The older girl attempted to aid her to shore and in doing so slipped in herself.

Butcher, hearing their screams, dashed to the edge of the ditch from his home close by, and dived in with his clothes on. They soon became waterlogged and he perished with the two girls.

Butcher leaves a widow and three children. County Coroner Carl Shannon said.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, May 30.—Some modernists trust John D. Rockefeller far more than they do God, said Rev. John Roach Straton tonight in his sermon in the Calvary Baptist Church. He devoted most of his sermon to condemning the modernism of Mr. Rockefeller and Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the Park-avenue Baptist Church, which Mr. Rockefeller attends. In discussing the northern Baptist convention at Washington during the past week he said:

"I told them in the debate at Washington that money can be a good thing in the kingdom of God but too much of it from a single source may work out wrack and ruin, because of its insidious stupifying influence on the minds and hearts of our leaders.

LIKE TOO MUCH OIL

"It is like too much oil in an automobile. It is ruinous. It fouls the spark plugs, interferes with the ignition, causes carbon in the cylinders and gums the valves so that they cannot work properly—thus interfering vitally with the proper operation of the machine and unless the excess is removed in time it will stop the car and thus destroy its usefulness. That, my friends, is what is happening to us today. There is too much Standard Oil in the Baptist machine."

Mr. Straton said Mr. Rockefeller was a likeable and democratic character but that "ruin is flowing from the Rockefeller money in the educational field and the realm of religion." He spoke of "unbelief" in the University of Chicago and the Union Theological Seminary which Mr. Rockefeller has endowed.

"I do not mean to charge either," he continued, "that Mr. Rockefeller is using his money in the form of bribes to gain a position of absolute domination in the Baptist ranks. And yet the way in which these things operate bring about practically the same result.

"We have reached a point in our denominations already where I believe it is literally true that many of our modernists trust Rockefeller far more than they trust Almighty God. When policies and proposed principles are up for consideration in the denominational counsels the whispered question is heard 'What will 26 Broadway think of this?'"

MONEY CAUSE OF ROW

Dr. Straton declared Mr. Rockefeller's policies were killing the spiritual power of the Y.W.C.A. He said that Mammon was the cause for the troubles of the Baptist church and was the opponent of the pastor in the quarrels in the Calvary congregation.

He quoted the admonition of the Lord: "Beware of false prophets which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves."

He said the fundamentalists won a victory in the Baptist convention in defending reorganization of the church and that the question of baptism by immersion had not been settled.

Dr. Straton declared that Dr. Fosdick had abandoned baptism entirely, had denied the authority of the Bible and repudiated the true Deity, atonement, resurrection and promised return.

Rev. S. Edward Young said in his sermon at the Bedford Presbyterian Church that the attitude of the Northern Baptist convention and the Presbyterian general assembly assured an era of tolerance. The prevailing mood, he said, was brotherly, with certain notable exceptions.

HARDING MEMORIAL BEGUN

Vice-President Dawes, in Presence of Notables, Sets First Stone in Shaft at Marion

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MARION (O.) May 30.—The first stone of the Harding Memorial, which will be a huge sarcophagus of white marble, was set in place here today by Vice-President Dawes. The memorial, to be erected at a cost of $800,000, will be completed in eighteen months. Thousands of persons stood in front of the platform of plain scantling or perched on the rises of ground which surround the memorial site and watched Mr. Dawes spread the mortar for the keystone, as the Republican Glee Club of Columbus chanted "Open the Gates of the Temple."

Twin slabs of black marble inscribed from all sections of the country. It will be the first national attempt to preserve the memory of President Harding and was conceived by members of his official family on the train which bore his body across the country.

GIANT PLANE BEING BUILT FOR FOKKER

May be Used to Inaugurate Passenger Service From New York to San Francisco

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, May 30.—A giant airplane, multimotored, and providing sleeping accommodations for thirty-five to forty passengers, is under construction from designs of Anthony H. G. Fokker, Dutch airplane designer and builder, it was learned today.

The preliminary work on it has been carried on at the Fokker factory in Amsterdam, Holland. The machine, designed primarily for flying in America, may be used to inaugurate a transcontinental passenger service between New York and San Francisco.

The fuselage of the plane, according to the present design, is to be built in two sections, the upper section being made over into sleeping berths at night. The lower section will be equipped with seats as in a railroad parlor car.

There will be at least three motors of sufficient horsepower so that the plane may be navigated with one engine out of commission.

Passes Crisis in Battle Against Rattler Poison

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ITHACA (N. Y.) May 30.—Leonard M. Spear apparently has passed successfully the crisis in his fight for life against the poison injected into his system by the fangs of an enraged diamon-back rattlesnake in the Cornell University Zoological Laboratory Friday.

Serum which was produced in a government hospital at Sao Paulo, Brazil, was rushed to Ithaca by train and automobile, successfully stopped the spread of the poison.

Spear was bitten by the snake when he stirred the reptile with a stick while inspecting the Cornell collection.

DEPOSITIONS SOUGHT IN CLARK WILL CASE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BUTTE (Mont.) May 30.—Notice of motion for the appointment of commissioners to take additional depositions in the will contest over the estate of the late Senator W. A. Clark, brought by two Missouri women and a Denver woman, have been filed by attorneys for the estate and for Huguette Marcelle Clark, daugher of the former Senator.

The motion, which seeks depositions from a dozen persons living outside of the State, will be heard by Judge Lynch Thursday morning.

STORM DEAD IN BURMA TO EXCEED 1200

Entire Villages Swept Away Along Arakan Coast By Tidal Wave

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

RANGOON (Burma) May 30.—The Arakan coast region of Burma, swept by a cyclone and tidal wave last Wednesday evening, which caused the death of hundreds, still is suffering from the effects of the disaster, described as one of the worst in many years.

Entire villages were swept away. The country for many miles is inundated, and it is believed that when complete figures are available the death list will go considerably beyond the 1200 mark.

Because of the breaking down of communications by the storm, which burst on both sides of the Mayu range relief parties have experience difficulty in getting to the scene. There is a scarcity of foodstuffs, and many persons, fearful of starvation, are looting shops whenever they can to get supplies.

Merrick Guard Redoubled by Paris Agitation

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, May 30.—Agitation over the Sacco-Vanzetti murder case in Massachusetts has prompted redoubling of the guards at the American Embassy and the residence of Ambassador Herrick. Six policemen, including a cyclist, are guarding Mr. Herrick's home, while five policemen are stationed at the Embassy.

The full bench of the Massachusetts Supreme Court on Saturday refused a rehearing of arguments on exceptions taken by counsel for the defense of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, who were convicted of murder in 1921. It was intimated that there would be another move to seek a new trial for the defendants in the famous murder case which has stirred agitation by radical organizations throughout the world.

Weather Forces Argentine Flyer to Stay in Cuba

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Weather conditions today forced Bernardo Duggan, Argentine aviator who is en route to Buenos Aires by seaplane, to remain at Guantanamo, Cuba.

Dispatches to the Navy Department said Duggan hopped off at 7:15 a.m., eastern standard time, for Cape Haitien, Haiti, but on account of threatening weather conditions to the eastward returned two hours later.

NEW YORK, May 30.—While racing his yacht in a regatta off Oyster Bay, Long Island, today, Royal Victor, 43 years of age, prominent New York lawyer, dropped dead of heart disease. He was a graduate of Leland Stanford University and of the Columbia Law School. He was vice-president and director of the American Agricultural Chemical Company and a director of several other companies, including the Detroit-Edison Company.

DRY LEAGUE ASSAILED

Tinkham Wants Committee to Learn if Cramton or Others Took Money or Fees

Declares Anti-Saloon Society Controls Government by Fear and Funds

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Creation of a special House committee to ascertain whether Representative Louis C. Cramton, Republican, Michigan, or any other House member "has received money or fees" from the Anti-Saloon League or any other organization interested in legislation pending before Congress, is proposed in a resolution drafted by Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts.

The resolution, which Mr. Tinkham said will be introduced on Tuesday, is prefaced by four declarations, the first of which asserts that Mr. Cramton recently stated to a New York newspaper correspondent that "from time to time he has received money or fees from an ecclesiastical and political organization known as the Anti-Saloon League, or its branches or subsidiaries, which statement was published April 21, last, and has not been denied."

Mr. Tinkham in a statement today making public the proposed resolution, assailed the League as an agency that "controls the government of the United States through fear and by money, so that free government has become a mockery and phantom."

FEARS FOR UNION

"Its strength is such," he said, "that it constitutes a government within a government, and suppresses free action by the American Congress, whose committees cringe and abase themselves before the orders of its agents and servants. It has placed those who believe in liberty and the separation of the church and State in fatal conflict with those who assent to bondage and ecclesiastical political control. The issues which it has introduced cannot be settled by compromise and they threaten the very solidity of the union.

"This ecclesiastical and political organization has packed the Federal bench and has destroyed confidence in its intellectual integrity. It has reached successfully into the Supreme Court, with its sinister propaganda, and it has appointed United States attorneys and has dominated the prohibition enforcement unit."

Mr. Tinkham said the League paid campaign expenses of Andrew J. Volstead, a former chairman of the House Judiciary Committee and author of the Volstead Act, and that "it maintains an unscrupulous professional and highly paid lobby at the Capitol."

LARGE SUMS SPENT

He asserted that "it has been estimated" that the League has expended $100,000,000, and that "the head of its professional lobby has admitted that $2,500,000 was spent in one year and $100,000 in a single Congressional election."

Mr. Tinkham added that no publication has been made of the details of "these expenditures as required by the Federal corrupt Practices Act," nor has a public

COOLIDGE TO HONOR DEAD

President will Give Memorial Day Talk at Grand Army Exercises in Arlington

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Observance of Memorial Day by the national capital will center about Arlington National Cemetery where in the early afternoon President Coolidge will deliver the principal address at exercises conducted by the Grand Army of the Republic.

Earlier in the day there will be a procession of Grand Army veterans and others who will place a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington and decorate the graves of the war dead.

Speakers at the exercises in addition to the President will include Senator Willis of Ohio and Dr. Charles V. Petteys, commander of the Department of the Potomac of the Grand Army of the Republic. The marine band will furnish music and the program will be broadcast by radio.

All government departments will be closed during the day and Congress will stand in recess, while a number of services will be conducted at cemeteries in and about the capital.

The observances were begun here today when the U.S.S. Porpoise left the navy yard and with veterans of the Spanish War aboard, conducted a memorial service on the Potomac, going as far as Mt. Vernon and casting flowers on the waters. A similar service will be conducted tomorrow from the Sylph, the yacht of the Secretary of the Navy, which will have on board members of Admiral Robert E. Peary Post No. 427 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Graves of soldiers, sailors and marines were decorated today by American Legion posts while memorial services were conducted by the Spanish War veterans and by civic, patriotic and military societies.

AMERICAN DEAD IN GREAT BRITAIN HONORED

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, May 30.—The graves of all American soldiers buried in the British Isles were decorated at Memorial Day services today. Special ceremonies were held at various churches and cemeteries.

Representative Americans placed wreaths in the British and Canadian sections of Brockwood Cemetery during the afternoon, while a representative of the British Legion placed a wreath in the American section where 437 American soldiers are buried.

Tomorrow afternoon the American Ambassador and Consul-General with their staffs and as many Americans as are able to attend will gather at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, for memorial services conducted by Rev. W. C. Poole of Christ Church, Westminster Bridge Road, in cooperation with Canon Carnegie.

Later the Ambassador will place a wreath in the name of the American nation on the grave of the unknown British warrior in Westminster Abbey. A number of

INSURGENTS TO STAND GROUNDS

Departed Leaders Praised in Memorial Address

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) May 30. The eight Louisville members who have been opposing the right of the majority of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, today announced that in spite of defeat on every side, they will continue to function as the "ferment" of the federation.

Using their midconvention Sunday as a time of stock-taking, the "insurgents" formed plans to oppose every move of the convention involving States' rights or those of individual clubs. They asserted that they had not lost hope of getting their denied resolution for rescinding majority rule to the convention floor.

"George Atkinson once said there is 'a little bit of ferment in every Kentuckian'—well, we are going to be the 'ferment' of the federation," said Mrs. Shackelford Miller, a leader of the delegation.

WITHDRAWAL DISCUSSED

The motion-picture committee held an informal conference this afternoon and discussed the withdrawal of the federation from the Will Hays committee for better films in 1926.

"Greater freedom to do as we think best," is the reason given for the withdrawal by Mrs. Alfred C. Tyler of Chicago, chairman of the federation motion-picture committee.

"While we were a part of their committee we could go only so far and no farther without being balked," she said. "Now we do whatever we think best, and are more likely to produce results."

Rev. Joseph Fort Newton of Philadelphia and Mrs. Edward Franklin White of Indianapolis, federation vice-president, spoke at memorial services today.

Names of prominent club women who had died since the last biennial were recalled and special mention was made also of the late John D. Sherman of Chicago, Ill., and Estes Park, Colo., husband of the national president.

RECALL MRS. TOLL

Other prominent club women recalled during the memorial services were Mrs. Charles H. Toll, president of the Los Angeles district, and vice-president of the Los Angeles local biennial board in 1924, and Mrs. C. B. Wade, second vice-president of the Oregon State Federation, who died soon after the Los Angeles biennial.

Mrs. George Unnewehr of Berkeley, Cal., won first prize in a contest conducted by the federation for the best list of 100 books for a home library.

A total of 315 women from twenty-nine States entered the competition. The award to Mrs. Unnewehr was $100. She was chairman of literature in the California State Federation.

SPLIT VOTE FORECAST IN PARIS CONTROVERSY

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, May 30.—After a Sunday devoted to intensive lobbying and the formal opening of the tenth international congress of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance, the leaders of the camps of the League for Women Voters and the National Women's Party, American organizations, tonight predicted a split vote of the delegations tomorrow on the question of admitting the National Women's party to membership in the Alliance.

The National Woman's party is in favor of a program of equal rights for men and women in industry, and its membership in the Alliance is being strongly opposed by the other American organization, the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Corbett Ashby of Great Britain, president of the International Alliance, in her address opening the congress, kept the equal-rights program to the fore.

"We need a party in every Parliament fighting constantly and continuously against inequality," she declared. "Women must have industrial, educational and commercial equality."

She indicated that the alliance is seeking a new name, suggesting its equal rights program, and said:

"Our present title no longer corresponds to our effort. We must seek a new title corresponding with the purpose of voting women to seek equality in all respects."

Headquarters of the congress at the Sorbonne was cluttered this morning with groups of women, speaking earnestly and gesticulating, trying to make up their minds whether the vote for admission of the National Woman's party should be by group or individuals. The outcome of their decisions will be known tomorrow, but unofficial information is that many groups indicated that their vote will be as individuals.

Thousands besieged the Sorbonne for admission to the opening of the congress. Every seat was filled and scores were standing. The presidents of suffrage societies of forty countries were seated on the platform.

Traveler Says Savages Find Feminine Flesh Bitter

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, May 30.—Cannibals of Liberia do not like to eat women. Female flesh is too bitter for them, says Lady Dorothy Mills, who recently traveled widely in the interior of Liberia.

"An ordinary, healthy, normal wife costs about $60 on the Liberian marriage market," Lady Mills says.

GOWNS FOR COURT WEAR TO BE WHITE

London Fashion Shops Are Busy Preparing Dresses for Debutantes and Others

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, May 30.—Every little fashion shop in London is having a court of its own. Debutantes who expect to be presented at Buckingham Palace in June are having abundant opportunity to get advance ideas for court costumes. Handsome mannequins wear court gowns in all the leading fashion houses and bow before imaginary queens, demonstrating exactly how the robes will look when worn before the throne.

Most of the debutantes will appear this year at court in white. Next in favor is pale pink. Many other colors also are to be used. But all of them are in very delicate shades. Great quantities of silver and gold lace are shown on practically all the early models of court gowns.

It has been ruled by court officials that all gowns are to cover the calf of the leg. This specific provision removes any quibbling as to the number of inches court gowns may hang over the floor.

MIRACLE CITY OPENS TODAY

Thirty Millions Expected to Visit Philadelphia

Sesquicentennial Will Run Until December 1

Kellogg and Hoover to Give Initial Speeches

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—A "miracle city" of halls and exhibition palaces covering 1000 acres will be opened tomorrow in South Philadelphia. It is the Sesquicentennial International Exposition, commemorating 150 years of American independence. The exposition will continue to December 1, next.

It is estimated that 30,000,000 persons will participate in the six months' celebration. They will visit shrines of American liberty, hear noted personages, native and foreign, see famous athletes in action, participate in parades and witness pageants and exhibits.

Starting tomorrow, shortly before noon, the official program will get under way. Speakers, including Secretaries Kellogg and Hoover, will deliver addresses at the Municipal Stadium, while overhead half a hundred planes will perform stunts.

A parade, swelled by thousands of Nobles of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, here for the fifty-second Imperial Council session of that organization, will precede the opening ceremony.

In the evening there will be an inaugural ball, street dancing and a pyrotechnic display on the exposition grounds.

Thousands of men toiled in the hot sun today within the exposition area hurrying the building and other work to completion.

LOS ANGELES SHRINERS FIRST TO REACH CITY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LOS ANGELES SHRINERS' HEADQUARTERS AT PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—With bells ringing, sirens and whistles shrieking, the two Los Angeles Shrine specials rolled into Philadelphia this morning, the first Nobles to arrive of approximately 300,000 who will attend the fifty-second session of the Imperial Conclave.

Al Malaikah Temple won the honor of unofficially opening the session which will hold sway for the balance of the week. The Los Angeles delegation marched down Broad street to the tune of "I Love You California," led by Potentate Smith in a stage coach of gold-rush days, a vehicle that will serve as his official conveyance in the Quaker City during the conclave.

Wearers of the red fez from the West were greeted by a large committee of Nobles of Lulu Temple, Philadelphia, which escorted the Angelenos to their headquarters. The thousands who crowded the line of march in the city made famous as the birthplace of America's independence cheered the genuine spirit of the West brought to the shores of the Delaware.

Riding with Potentate Smith in the stage coach presented by Tom Mix, motion-picture actor, were the Los Angeles official representatives to the conclave. Band, chanters and patrol, in their flashy uniforms, made an impressive sight as they marched down Broad street to the cheers of the townspeople.

Immediately following arrival of the chanters at the Los Angeles headquarters they were taken to various Philadelphia churches, where they sang sacred numbers. To the Los Angeles chanters the honor of singing at the opening of the conclave has been given.

The uniformed members of the delegation were quartered at the Elks' Club.

The first official function of the convention will be the escort of the Imperial Potentate in a great parade Tuesday morning. That will be followed at once by the opening of the Imperial sessions.

Girl on Way to Marry Killed in Leap Off Train

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LEXINGTON (Ky.) May 30.—While on her way to the village of Happy, Ky., to meet the man whom she was to marry, Miss Lucy Napier, 25 years of age, of York, Leslie county, jumped from a train near here and was instantly killed. Her skull was fractured and her neck broken.

The young woman lived forty miles from a railroad and walked that distance to the nearest station. She was to meet and wed H. D. West, according to a letter found in her possession after her body was picked up. She had never been on a train and it is thought had never seen one before. At the town of Viper nearest the conductor called the station, whereupon Miss Napier sprang from her seat and plunged off.

Her body was brought to Hazard and a messenger sent on horseback forty miles to the girl's home in the Leslie county mountains, that being the only method of getting word of the tragedy to the victim's father, Joe Napier.

Cancer Fatal to Jack Rose, Stage Comedian

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, May 30.—Jack Rose, vaudeville and revue comedian, died today at the Kellogg Sanatorium, Avondale-on-Hudson, following a mental collapse as a result of an operation for cancer last March. He was 39 years of age.

After the operation at Roosevelt Hospital he went to his apartment, where he suffered a collapse late one night. None of his friends could be reached and he was taken to Bellevue Hospital for observation. The report of physicians at Bellevue caused his friends to send him to a sanatorium. Rose was born in London. The family name was Rosen. When his illness became acute his mother and sister came to America, and now are on the Aquitania returning to England.

DRY LEAGUE'S ACTS ASSAILED

accounting "ever been made of the vast sums of money collected by this organization."

"It is known that certain millionaires," he continued, "in conjunction with managers of large aggregates of business capital, have financed this organization and its activities, whose purpose was to destroy the private rights of citizens, yet expecting their rights of private property still to be maintained and safeguarded.

"The league works with money in secret and yet this irresponsible power now governs the United States. This organization stated through one of its principal agents not long ago that it had lied and bribed for the attainments of its ends."

Mr. Tinkham said that Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the league, had not stated "even a half-truth" when he "gave as a reason for not testifying" before a Senate prohibition investigating committee that "every phase of the organization's political activities were revealed by him in an admittedly unauthorized cross-examination by Congressman Tinkham" before a House subcommittee.

Mr. Tinkham asserted Wheeler's statement was "mendacious and misleading," and that when he questioned Wheeler he only asked questions which he thought Wheeler would answer as the league's counsel was not under oath or compulsion to answer any questions.

BORAH OPPOSED STATE REFERENDUMS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BALTIMORE, May 30. — Vigorous opposition to referendums in the State on the prohibition question was voiced here today by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho.

Speaking before the Presbyterian general assembly, the Senator declared that nullification of the Eighteenth Amendment is the course being boldly urged by those who are proposing referendums in the States, so as to leave the construction and execution of the prohibition amendment to the States.

"It is perfectly clear," he added, "that that which is demanded can only be obtained in one of two ways, either by repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment or its complete and shameless violation, its utter nullification.

"That is the issue. That being the issue, there is only one course for a great and law-abiding people to pursue, and that is to live up to their Constitution. Not only according to its terms as it stands but according to the method provided for amending it."

Senator Borah said he is perfectly willing, if the votes were at hand and the procedure was in the orderly, constitutional way, that the prohibition question should again be "considered in the light of these years of experience."

COOLIDGE TO HONOR DEAD

American Civil War veterans will attend this service and will place a wreath at the base of the Lincoln statue on Parliament Square.

Preceding the service at St. Margaret's today, representatives of all American societies in London held a brief ceremony at the Cenopath, where another wreath was placed by Commander Waller Mangum, of the British Isles Department of the American Legion.

DECORATES GRAVES OF AMERICANS IN FRANCE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, May 30.—Nearly 40,000 military graves in six French and one Belgian cemetery, as well as hundreds of scattered graves in fifty-eight other localities, will be decorated tomorrow by delegates of the Paris Post of the American Legion.

Memorial services will be held on battlefield cemeteries during the morning and at Suresnes, near Paris, during the afternoon. Other ceremonies are scheduled for Belleau Woods, where Rear-Admiral Roger Welles is to speak, and at Suresnes, where Ambassador Herrick will take part. The services generally are under charge of the American Legion, assisted by local French officials.

FLOWERS DECK BRAVES OF COOLIDGE'S LOVED ONES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PLYMOUTH (Vt.) May 30.—Memorial Day in Plymouth found flowers in bloom on the graves of Col. John C. Coolidge, father of the President, and Calvin Coolidge, the Executive's son. Several dozen pansy plants and boxes of cut flowers arrived from the White House yesterday, and today Edward L. Blanchard, warm friend of the late colonel, went down to place the flowers on the graves in the little cemetery.

COMMANDER OF HOSPITAL TO BE TRIED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Secretary Wilbur has ordered Capt. Charles M. De Valin, commandant of the Norfolk Naval Hospital, court-martialed on charges of intoxication, use of government liquors, and misuse of a government truck.

Capt. De Valin's executive officer, Commander Robert G. Heiner, preferred the charges against his superior.

The principal charge is intoxication, although the specifications are understood to include the use of liquor sent to the hospital after having been confiscated under prohibition laws.

The charge of misuse of a government truck is in connection with the granting of permission by Dr. De Valin for salvaged material of an old building to be taken away to be used in erecting a cabin for hunting purposes on private property.

MEMORIAL FOR HARDING BEGUN

reera for a quarter of a century were linked with those of Harding; Gov. Donahey, J. S. Prellinghuysen, former United States Senator from New Jersey; Postmaster-General New; George B. Christian, Jr., formerly secretary to President Harding, and others who were associated with him in administering the affairs of government, had a part in the program.

On the speakers' platform, too, were seen the informal felt hats of the Middle West intermingled with silk toppers, for friends from Marion and Morrow counties and other places in Ohio, who had known Warren Harding when he "rode into town on the back of a gray mule," were there to see the first actual step for a national memorial in history.

Dr. George T. Harding, Sr., 84-year-old father of the former President, sat in a place of honor on the platform. He paid closest attention to the eulogies which flowed from the lips of speakers.

Harding was extolled as a President who, taking over the government at one of the most critical periods in history, solved perplexing problems of statecraft in a manner in which there are few parallels in history.

Treaties which resulted from the Washington Arms Conference will "forever keep alive the memory of President Harding," declared Mr. Dawes.

Records and souvenirs placed in the corner-stone included a copy of the Saturday Evening Post, which was being read to Mr. Harding by Mrs. Harding in the San Francisco hotel room when he died. Samuel G. Blythe, author of the article which was furnishing the President much amusement, presented the copy.

Other mementoes included a copy of the centennial edition of the Marion Daily Star, which Mr. Harding sold while he was President; the famous printer's rule which the President carried; copies of speeches made on his Alaskan trip; his Mason'c lambskin apron and other records of his Mason' career and copies of the Declaration of Independence and the United States Constitution.

CO-ED TROOP FEATURE IN MILITARY TOURNEY

GIRL RIDERS SHOW SKILL AT OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE EVENT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CORVALLIS (Or.) May 30.—An Algerian fantasy staged by a troop of co-ed riders was the feature of the fourteenth annual military tournament at the Oregon Agricultural College. Maj. Donald A. Robinson, cavalry officer, who trained the girls, said he attempted several years ago to produce the fantasy for a Madison Square (New York) horse show, but one practice with eastern horsewomen convinced him that they could not do the tribal mounted dance.

The O. A. C. girls, however, showed themselves able to do the difficult maneuver with both skill and grace. They handled their horses admirably.

Another feature of the tournament was the aerial circus directed by Lieut. Oakley G. Kelly, in charge of air forces at Pearson Field, Vancouver, Wash. Adrian Van Ault did a parachute jump playing a few bars of "The Star Spangled Banner" on a trumpet on the way down.

SURPLUS GIVES HINT OF TAX CUT

Flood of Gold Follows Rate Reduction in March

Public Debt Shrinking and Deficit Fears Vanish

BASED ON OLD RATE

But even that estimate was based on the old tax rates—those prevailing last year. Between the time that estimate was made and the present, Congress cut taxes again to an estimated extent of about $450,000,000 a year. Had the experts' guess been correct, the Treasury, under the changed rate, could have expected to receive about $3,655,000,000, the new tax rates affecting one-half of the current fiscal year.

Measuring facts alongside of guesses, however, one finds that the Treasury had already taken in $3,212,000,000 on the 15th inst. By the first of June the Treasury will have taken in a grand total of about $3,500,000,000. The second installment of income taxes, due June 15, next, the rising tide of customs receipts and lesser items will run to at least $500,000,000 in June. They ran to $614,000,000 in June, 1924, and to $401,000,000 in June, 1925, so that $500,000,000 for the coming June is conservative.

On that basis the government will have collected at least $4,000,000,000 at the close of the present year. Its expenses will hardly exceed $3,650,000,000, but for the sake of conservatism they may be boosted to $3,750,000,000 in this estimate. The result is a conservative estimate of $250,000,000 as the year's surplus, all of which, undoubtedly, will be gleefully applied by Mr. Mellon to reducing still further the national debt.

DEBT WHITTLED DOWN

Incidentally, that is a job that has been faithfully attended to in a rather big way during the past few months. Completed figures for March and April show that the Secretary of the Treasury applied $207,000,000 to reducing the debt during those two months. At the end of April the outstanding public debt was (gross) $20,049,193,011, whereas at the beginning of the present fiscal year, July 1, 1925, the gross outstanding debt was $20,516,272,175. Mr. Mellon has been whittling it down at the average rate of $50,000,000 a month during the first ten months of the current year.

If he continued t ohit at that sort of lick in May and June, the gross debt at the end of this fiscal year will be somewhat under $20,000,000,000. The writer's estimate is that it will drop to about $19,875,000,000.

In the reduction of the public debt alone there is accumulating relief from high taxes. Since 1921 the public debt has been reduced more than $4,000,000,000. That means that the American public no longer pays interest on that $4,000,000,000. At the average rate of 4 1-2 per cent, the interest charge saved annually on $4,000,000,000 runs to the tidy sum of $170,000,000, a sum sufficient for a little tax cut all by itself.

TARIFF BRINGS IN GOLD

The rising tide of government revenues this year, sweeping the way to another tax cut next year, contains far more than swollen income tax receipts. For one thing, the tariff law is the channel through which there surges an ever-mounting current of gold to Washington. Last year the government collected $547,000,000 in import duties; this year the customs people are figuring on getting $585,000,000, or nearly $2,000,000 a day for every business day in the year.

That is a mighty pace to maintain and it can be kept up only America's foreign trade continue to flow at its present speed. There was a time when the tariff was not such great shakes as a revenue producer but now it has attained proportions almost as great as the individual income tax. All the income taxes collected by the government during the year from individuals, as distinguished from corporations, are not much greater, in their total, than the duties collected on imports from abroad.

MORE DUTIES COLLECTED

Thus far this fiscal year, collection of duties are more than $30,000,000 greater than they were during the same period last year.

Thus far this year, under the lower income tax rates, income tax collections are nearly $150,000,000 greater than they were during the same period last year.

And thus far this year, also, the odd-job revenue collections from miscellaneous and varied sources are nearly $45,000,000 more than they were during the same period in 1925.

From those three sources alone, the government's revenues this year are $225,000,000 more than they were for the same period in 1925. There are entries on the other side of the ledger, however, among them being a falling off of $110,000,000 in collections of railroad loans, but all told the total collections thus far in the present fiscal year surpass those of the same period of the last fiscal year by nearly $115,000,000.

Out of this stuff is being carved the coming tax cut.

BALLOONISTS OFF IN GALE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

ANTWERP (Belgium) May 30.—Three American balloons, the Goodyear, the S-16 and the Akron NAA—took off today in a high gale and rain, in the International balloon race for the James Gordon Bennett trophy. The French aviator Cordier had to abandon his attempt shortly after starting, and another Frenchman, Blanchet, was obliged to do likewise.

Because of the unfavorable weather, all the pilots were warned to fly low. The Americans departed with every confidence of ultimate success. The Goodyear, piloted by W. T. Van Orman, competing for the fifth time, took the air at 4:45 p.m., disappearing in the mist when barely 50 feet above the ground. The S-16 followed at 5:33 p.m., flying at an altitude of 150 feet. It went to the northeast and was quickly enveloped in low-flying clouds. The Akron, piloted by John A. Boettner and Herbert Maxson, started at 6:30 p.m.

The Americans were met on their way by the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" and the cheering of the crowds. The American Embassy here has provided them with interpreters, Swedish and other officials in territories where they may land.

The Italian balloon, Italia, made a good start at 4:30 p.m.

The newspaper Matin says that the two Italian balloon competitors in the Gordon Bennett race, the Ciampino III and the Ciampino IV, have landed at Ypenweesel, in the Province of Antwerp. The Ciampino III is reported to have been forced to land because of a defective valve. Her pilot, Lieut. Pricolo and Maj. Pessetto, are reported to have returned to Antwerp. Deteriorating weather conditions are said to be extremely bad, and it would be imprudent for the balloonists to continue the race.

RAIDERS SET GANGSTERS' DEN ON FIRE

Stronghold of Underworld Syndicate Put to Torch by Vigilantes

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, May 30.—Three automobile loads of vigilantes suddenly appeared at the dawn of Memorial Day in Forestview, or "Caponeville" as it has been called recently, and applied the torch to Maple Inn, more commonly called "the stockade," the stronghold of the Terrio-Capone underworld syndicate. The place was destroyed.

Thus was accomplished what police and civic organizations have attempted in vain for more than a year.

Forestview was founded as an American Legion memorial to the dead of the World War. Gangsters later took possession.

As soon as it was established that the blaze was started by a group of citizens aroused by the debauch of the town by the Terrio-Capone interests, it was officially promised there will be no prosecution for incendiarism.

The vigilantes, who arrived just before dawn, found only a colored caretaker in charge. He offered some resistance, was thrown into an automobile and, when he reappeared later in Stickney, showed signs of combat and was minus some of his clothing.

The anonymous raiders faded out of the scene as quietly as they had appeared.

FRENCH FUNDING WARMLY URGED

Advocates Ratification of Debt Agreement

Financial Disaster if Pact is Defeated

Daily Report Objects to "Giving Away" Money

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
WASHINGTON, May 30.—With the House prepared to take up the $[illegible],000,000 French war-debt settlement Tuesday, Chairman [illegible] of the Ways and Means Committee, which has jurisdiction over the bill to authorize its acceptance, today made public a committee report warmly advocating ratification of the agreement.

Mr. Green also made public a minority report by Representative [illegible] of Illinois, a Democrat on the committee, opposing acceptance and asserting that he "cannot see how a member of Congress, under his oath, can vote to give away the enormous amount of money that we are asked to in this settlement."

The chairman, who drafted the majority report, reviewed the economic conditions of France and Italy other than to the United States, asserting that France began the war burdened by a debt larger than any other nation in the world.

ENGLAND BETTER OFF

"It is sometimes thought that France is taxed lightly," Mr. Green quoted, "while it would appear that she pays in proportion to the national income is somewhat less than in England, it must be remembered that the per capita income in England is very much greater than in France, and, being above the margin for subsistence the other taxes are paid is much heavier for the citizens of England than for those of France.

"It is quite obvious that if the French national finances are to be put on a sound basis three things must be done: First, the budget must be balanced; second, the debts must be stabilized at some basis so that there may be a reasonable expectation that payments could be made. Those things are so interlocked that a failure in one respect is almost certain to bring failure in the others.

FRANCE WORSE OFF

"It ought to be clear that the position of France is worse than it was a year ago; and that if undue pressure is put upon it, if it should be rendered unable to take the measures which will be necessary to balance its budget and stabilize its franc, it would be idle to expect anything whatever to be paid on the debt owing this nation."

Mr. Rainey asserted it has been reported that as soon as the settlement is ratified a loan of $500,000,000 will be placed by the Morgan and allied banks with France, adding that "it has seemed to me always that these debt settlements are being made and these tremendous sacrifices of the money which belongs to the taxpayers of the United States are being consummated in order that the clients of the New York banks may have opportunities to invest their money in foreign securities, which will yield 2 per cent more than any similar investment."

CAMP FIRE DELEGATES IN PAGEANT

Five Hundred Entertained at Jackson Estate on Girls' Day

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
STOCKTON, May 30.—Representing twenty-one States and attired in the picturesque Camp Fire Girls' uniform, more than 500 delegates to the seventh annual convention of Camp Fire executives, guardians and councillors, were entertained this afternoon at a tea at the beautiful country estate of Mrs. Harriot West Jackson. In conjunction with the tea there was staged a Garnet Holmes musical pagent, "The Foolish Virgin."

During the morning, all of the delegates attended Memorial Day church services in the various churches, and tonight they heard their first convention lecture at the Civic Memorial Auditorium, given by Theodore Acland Harper, author.

Practically all the delegates arrived here yesterday for registration. Yesterday was girls' day and hundreds of girls from all parts of the State were here to welcome the arriving leaders.

Tomorrow the delegates will hear fifteen talks by Camp Fire leaders, embracing such subjects as adolescent psychology, community co-operation, program planning, camp handcraft, summer activities in cities and relation of leaders to Camp Fire girls. In the evening, Dr. Aurelia Reinhardt, president of Mills College, will be the principal speaker at a banquet session.

Heavy schedules of addresses follow for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. On Thursday night the delegates will entrain for Yosemite National Park for a three-day study of nature lore.

MEDLEY WEEK FOR CONGRESS

Program After Recess To be Hodgepodge Affair

French Debt, Birds, Farms, What-not on Program

Meeting Apparently Long Way From Finale

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
WASHINGTON, May 30.—The French debt agreement, migratory-bird legislation, farm relief and the rivers and harbors appropriation bill make up the hodgepodge calendar Congress will tackle this week after its Memorial Day recess tomorrow.

House leaders have arranged a program calling for action on the French debt Tuesday and the transmission of that problem to the Senate, where a long fight is threatened unless resort is made to night sessions to wear down the opposition.

Wednesday the House will seek to clear up many bills on the calendar and will devote the remainder of the week to the $36,000,000 rivers and harbors measure with its highly controverted lake-water diversion section.

Migratory birds will continue to claim the attention of the Senate Tuesday with a movement on foot to force a vote on a proposal to invoke the rule limiting each Senator to an hour's discussion on the bill. This is the second cloture movement at this session, the drastic rule having been applied during the World Court debate.

Unless the bird bill is disposed of speedily, friends of farm relief will insist on calling up the administration's co-operative marketing bill to which has been attached the corn-belt relief measure in a form little different from the Haugen bill, which the House has rejected.

Efforts to get the House Agriculture Committee to frame a modified agriculture-aid measure are to be renewed this week, but the present outlook is that the committee will devote its attention to minor measurs awaiting action by the Senate before undertaking to embark upon another long session to compose differences among the friends of the farmers as to the form a relief bill should take.

With the Army and Navy air-service expansion bills, the Dill radio-control measure and many other minor pet projects in the offing, Congress apparently is a long way from adjournment. The House will be in a fairly good position after this week, but the Senate still will find itself in a muddled situation.

There is certain to be a lot of discussion on farm relief as a number of Senators up for re-election or who will be two years hence will make speeches on the subject largely for home consumption. Several already have gone on record.

EXPERTS TO CONFER ON BITUMINOUS COAL

INTERNATIONAL SESSION WILL DISCUSS ITS USES AT CARNEGIE INSTITUTE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
PITTSBURGH, May 30.—An international conference to consider questions pertaining to coal and the coal industry will be held at Carnegie Institute of Technology here late in November, Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of the institution has announced.

Well-known German, French and English scientists will be invited to take part in the conference, which will last three days. The most important subject to come up will be new uses of bituminous coal.

Leading American engineers and scientists will present papers dealing with distillation of coal, its by-products, new methods of producing energy from coal, smokeless fuels, low temperature carbonization coal, generation of power at the mines, domestic use of coke, conservation of power, and water power versus coal energy.

FEARS BLOW AT ROADS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
WASHINGTON, May 30.—Richard Haldeman of Harrisburg, chairman of the good roads board of the American Automobile Association, says a small group of Senators are trying to administer a blow to the Federal aid policy of the government.

Mr. Haldeman declared eastern Senators fighting the roads bill are acting in direct opposition to the wishes of their constituents.

Scores of protests against the tactics of Senators who are seeking to defeat the passage of the Federal road aid bill in this session of Congress have come to Washington during the past forty-eight hours.

The wires began to hum when a group of eastern Senators, headed by Reed of Pennsylvania, were aligning their forces to prevent a vote on the roads bill making appropriations on an undiminished scale for the fiscal years 1928 and 1929.

INQUIRY PUSHED INTO FATAL FILIPINO RIOTS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]
MANILA, May 30.—Investigations into the cause of riots at San Fernando a week ago when four persons were killed and nineteen wounded, are continuing by agents of the Governor-General, civil authorities and constabulary officers. Preliminary examination of ten constabulary soldiers held in custody on charges of murder have been postponed again until June 7. The disturbance and deaths came as the climax of a brawl originating in a dance hall. One of these killed was a civil policeman.

GOVERNOR'S KIN ADMITS PARDON FEE

Arkansas Banker Charges Money Passed in Freeing Convicted Son

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
LITTLE ROCK (Ark.) May 30. Floyd Terral, brother of Gov. Terral, late last night issued a statement here saying that he had received a fee of $1000 from J. A. Mode of Conway, Ark., for obtaining a pardon for his son, Lee Mode, from acting Gov. S. B. McCall last October.

The Conway Log Cabin Democrat published a sworn statement by the elder Mode, a Conway banker, that he had paid Floyd Terral the $1000.

Gov. Terral, in a statement issued at Fort Smith, however, branded Mode's statement as untrue.

Lee Mode was convicted of robbery. He is now at large and officers are seeking him to take him to the penitentiary.

Mr. Mode's statement said that he had applied to Gov. Terral and that the Governor told him to return to Little Rock October 19. When he returned he said he learned that Gov. Terral had gone to Alabama and that S. B. McCall was acting as Governor.

Mode said he did not know McCall, so he was sent to see Floyd Terral and paid Terral $1000 in currency. "A short time after that," his statement said, "the pardon was delivered to me for Lee."

He said that after the pardons McCall had issued in the Governor's absence were declared invalid, he went to Floyd Terral and demanded a full and free pardon for his son or the return of the $1000. He said that Floyd Terral refused to return the money and urged that no steps be taken until after the primary election.

CAMP MANAGERS NAMED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WATER WARFARE SETTLED

Bitter Dispute Between Federal Authorities and Nebraska Farmers Straightened Out

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
SCOTTS BLUFF (Neb.) May 30.—Today was commemorated as both Memorial and Thanksgiving Day by hundreds of North Platte Valley farmers. Their bitter dispute with Federal authorities over irrigation payments was over after a settlement reached last night and bumper crops were in prospect.

The valley farmers and the government Department of the Interior disagreed as to the terms of maintenance and operating costs of the valley irrigation project, virtually the sole source of moisture for more than 107,000 acres of land in the valley.

The farmers declared the Reclamation Department promised to withhold demand for payment of delinquent dues until the 1926 crops were harvested, but the department demanded immediate payments of all past and present dues or some satisfactory security. During the disagreement all water supply was held from the irrigation ditches.

The dispute became serious in aspect last Thursday night when a crowd of angry farmers hung Secretary of the Interior Work and Hoover, reclamation commissioner, in effigy.

On suggestion from the Interior Department, however, the association last night voted to assume maintenance and operation charges from July 1, 1926, to January 1, 1927, after which a permanent district will be formed. The government, in turn, promises immediate water supply.

SHIP SUES FOLLOWING FIRE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
NORFOLK (Va.) May 30.—Libel for approximately $2,000,000 has been filed in Federal District Court here by the United States today against the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company as a result of the fire aboard the Shipping Board liner America on March 10, last. It is charged that the fire was caused by an open flame torch in the hands of an employee of the company.

Puzzle Mania in England Opens Way for Bandit

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]
LONDON, May 30.—The cross-word puzzle mania hit England late but it has struck and, incidentally, has opened new fields for confidence men and white-collar bandits of London. Even the Englishmen's reserve cannot withstand the desire for conversation, counsel and advice in the search for words to fill the cross-word puzzle squares.

Hotel lounges are the favorite haunts of crooks who wrinkle their brows over a rare Australian bird in three letters, and then lean over to a prosperous squire from the country to ask for aid. Sooner or later the conversation turns to get-rich-quick schemes.

Scotland Yard is on the trail of two cross-word puzzle tricksters who posed as gentlemen farmers and separated a real dirt farmer of Aylesbury from his bank roll. The confidence men are described as suave and well spoken but poor spellers.

MELBOURNE GIRL WEDS AMERICAN LIEUTENANT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
VANCOUVER (B. C.) May 30. Lieut. John Wheeler, United States Navy, and Miss Nancy Wallace, Melbourne, Australia, were married here yesterday. The wedding was the culmination of a romance begun last summer, when Lieut. Wheeler, aboard the U.S.S. Nevada, visited here. Their home is to be in San Francisco, where Wheeler has been ordered to shore duty.

CUMMINS IN FINAL WEEK OF CONTEST

Brookhart's Attempt to Win Iowa Nomination for Senate Watched

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
DES MOINES (Iowa) May 30.—One week of campaigning today faced candidates in the Iowa primary to decide whether Senator Cummins shall carry the Republican banner in the November election, whether he shall make way for Col. Brookhart, recently unseated by the Senate, or whether a compromise selection may be made.

While Republican and Democratic candidates are to be chosen June 7 for Congressional seats and for State offices, the fight of Col. Brookhart for a comeback and that of Senators Cummins to retain the seat he has held for eighteen years has overshadowed all other issues. Brookhart has campaigned in all parts of the State since his seat was given to Daniel F. Steck, Democrat, some weeks ago, while Senator Cummins's campaign has been carried on by political friends.

Howard Clark, a Des Moines attorney, is the only other candidate for the Republican nomination who has made an extensive campaign. His candidacy has added considerably to the uncertainty of the outcome.

Dan Reardon of Council Bluffs entered the campaign as a bone and light wine candidate, and E. F. Eichelberg of Waterloo, seeks the nomination on an "economic" program.

Thus far the bitterness that entered into the campaign of 1924 when Brookhart denounced President Coolidge and Gen. Dawes, now Vice-President, and was in turn declared a traitor to his party, has been missing, although some of the Cummins backers have renewed the disloyalty charge against Brookhart in public statements.

EUCHARIST FETE DRAWS FAMED

Most Noted Catholics Will Meet in Chicago

Congress Expected to Attract Millions of Faith

King-Maker Will be Among Those in Attendance

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, May 30.—Princes of the Catholic church in greater number than ever have congregated before so far from Rome will be here June 3 to 24 for the twenty-eight international eucharistic congress.

Among them will be a king maker, members of parliaments, and chaplain generals of foreign armies. Perhaps the next Pope may be among them.

First honor will be paid to Cardinal Bonanzo, who brings the benediction of Pope Pius. For eleven years he was apostolic delegate from Rome to the United States. He will open the congress with presentation of the papal brief, and close it after the final procession at Mundelein, with the pontifical blessing, for which it is expected more than a million heads will bow before him.

Nearly one-fourth of the College of Cardinals will be here. The total number in the world today is sixty-six, of whom sixteen are expected here.

CSERNOCH, KING MAKER

John Cardinal Csernoch, archbishop of Strigonia and primate of Hungary, is the one king maker among the cardinals. On October 30, 1916, he crowned Charles IV King of Hungary, who later was exiled.

When Pope Pius was elevated to the purple, Cardinal Csernoch won new distinction in championing the request of American cardinals that voting be delayed until they could arrive to cast their votes, too. Cardinal Charnost of France is reputed to be the greatest pulpit orator in France.

Cardinal Reig Y. Casanova, archbishop of Toledo and primate of Spain, is the chaplain-general of the Spanish army, and head of one of the oldest sees in Christendom. His diocese was founded in the first century after Christ.

Another chaplain-general will come from Germany in the person of Cardinal Von Faulhaber, who headed the Catholic chaplains of the German army in the World War.

Cardinal Patrick O'Donnell of Ireland was trustee of the Irish Parliamentary party.

Frederick Hustave Cardinal Piffl of Vienna, primate of Austria, was once a priest among the laboring people in his country. In 1913, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, whose assassination was the immediate cause of the World War, recommended him to the Pope, and he was named cardinal.

OTHERS WILL COME

Louis Ernest Cardinal Dubois, archbishop of Paris and primate of France; Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston; Cardinal Daugherty, archbishop of Philadelphia; Cardinal Hayes of New York, Cardinal Bourne, primate of England; Cardinal Bonaventura Cerretti of Rome, former Papal nuncio to France, and one Italian cardinal.

Pierce Butler, associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, was announced today as one of the prominent laymen who will speak.

Other distinguished lay speakers at the congress include Judge Martin T. Manton of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, president of the Nocturnal Adoration Society, New York; Rear-Admiral W. S. Benton, Commissioner of the United States Shipping Board; United States Senator Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana and Joseph Scott of Los Angeles.

MALARIA WORSE THAN REPTILES

Health Body in Texas Finds Mosquitoes Deadlier Than Snakes

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) May 30.—In 1925 a heavier death toll was exacted in Texas by mosquitoes than by venomous snakes, the State Board of Health announced.

Twenty-two persons died from snake bites while 191 died from malaria, which is transmitted by the bite of the mosquito.

ALARM FELT IN COLLEGE PSYCHOLOGY

Church Report Discusses Tendency to Challenge Spiritual Beliefs

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BALTIMORE, May 30.—The college psychology, which challenges spiritual beliefs is termed a "momentous issue" in the one hundred and seventh annual report of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education. This report, with several others dealing with education and the church, will be presented to the general assembly, in session here, tomorrow.

Pronouncing the question "far more alarming than the issue involved in present theological debate," the report says:

"If this extreme mechanistic psychology should finally dominate the field of education and shape the theories and ideals of our teaching profession, it is not saying too much to affirm that it will rob the next generation of God, eliminate from life all spiritual ideals and reduce morality to mere mechanical reactions under certain nerve stimuli or the pressure of habits inculcated for the sake of social well-being."

Dr. William Chalmers Covert, of Philadelphia, who prepared the report, further stated that the rise of State-controlled education "had made more obvious than ever the need of the college where the Christian atmosphere, the Bible teaching and the normal activities of the Christian religion are expected."

ST. LOUIS LANDMARK GIVES WAY TO HOTEL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. LOUIS, May 29.—Another famous landmark is passing out of existence here with the wrecking of Cicardi's Cafe at Euclid avenue and Delmar Boulevard, in the west part of the city. The structure, which in pre-Volstead days was a rendezvous for society people, is being torn down to make way for an eight-story hotel and store that will cost $2,500,000. The cafe a few years ago was taken over by Belvedere Joe, who ran it for a while, but abandoned it when patronage fell off to almost nothing. The last three years most of the building has been occupied.

HIGH PRICES PAID FOR REBEL STAMPS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, May 29.—Rare old stamps of the South are in much demand in New York. A 3-cent stamp issued at Tuscumbia, Ala., in 1858 recently sold for $520, while a two-cent, semiofficial Charleston (S. C.) stamp issued 1861-2 brought $100. Philatelists paid $105 each for Confederate States of America provisional issues, a Macon (Ga.) five-cent yellow stamp and a Memphis (Tenn.) five-cent red on orange stamp.

PRESBYTERIAN FIGHT SCORED

Moderator Says Consecration Suffers Through Row

Fundamentalism-Modernism Split Brings Jibes

Assembly to Get Report on Educational Work

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BALTIMORE, May 30. — The division of fundamentalism and modernism which has focused attention on the Presbyterian church in the United States of America was dealt sharply with today by Dr. William O. Thompson, newly elected moderator, who delivered a sermon at Brown Memorial Presbyterian Church.

The text of the moderator's sermon was "The Great Commission," and in discussing the service of the church from that angle he said:

"The issue may be raised whether the church has not devoted more energy to controversy than to consecration; whether the winning of men is less important than the winning of controversy."

This expression was interpreted as a reminder for peace as the foremost issue of the one hundred and thirty-eighth general assembly tomorrow. Beginning in mid-afternoon, the remainder of the day will be given over to a discussion of the report of the committee of fifteen, which reported on its effort the past year to effect a program of reconciliation last Friday.

REFRAIN FROM COMMENT

The 1000 delegates to the assembly, have refrained from comment on that report other than to class it as a "scholarly work," or some such general word. The essence of the report was a reiteration of Presbyterian constitutional doctrine with a plea for tolerance in the feeling between opposing groups.

Dr. Thompson did not confine his question of service to the Presbyterian church which he heads, but also generalized the statement in another portion of his sermon.

"We are compelled to recognize that the Protestant pulpit throughout the world," he asserted, "lacks both uniformity and unity in the proclamation of the message. . . . The essence of Protestantism lies, of course, in its doctrines of personal liberty, of personal freedom, of individual responsibility and the right of private judgment."

He indicated, however, that opposing beliefs regarding the actuality of the virgin birth or the authenticity of biblical miracles do not cause him to fear for the future of his church.

"No theoretical debate," he said in summation, "can ever swing us away from the duty of proclaiming our gospel to the ends of the earth."

DIFFERENCES CONSIDERED

He also considered, in his sermon, the differences which have arisen between the school of realists and theological groups.

Saying that up to the present no common meeting ground had been found for the scholarship opposing religion, he continued.

"The last word has not yet been said and may never be said upon many issues involved in psychological research. The results already reached, however, suggest that the Christian world may also join with the scientific world in recognizing the validity of human experience and bring a Christian testimony of tremendous significance."

"The Presbyterian church," he concluded, "has taken some pride in the fact that it is an intellectual church rather than a highly emotional organization."

Dr. Henry Sloan Coffin of New York, a leader of the Liberals, who spoke twice today at churches of other denominations, made no statement concerning the internal affairs of his church, although it had been predicted that he might make a further statement of modernist policies.

REPORTS PREPARED

The extent of the educational work of the church is set forth in two reports which will be presented to the general assembly tomorrow. Dr. Frederick E. Stockwell of Philadelphia, director of the department of colleges, training schools and theological seminaries, and Dr. Lewis B. Hillis, Philadelphia, director of the department of student aid for the Presbyterian board of Christian education, prepared the papers.

The total resources of the fifty-four active and two closed educational institutions of the church are shown as $75,741,875, against $63,281,940 a year ago.

Dr. Hillis's report shows that 853 men and 56 women were aided last year by scholarships to the extent of $89,320, while 171 men and 119 women received aid from the rotary loan fund totaling $39,000.

The total endowment of Presbyterian colleges for the teaching of the Bible and for departments of religious instruction is given as $2,130,000 by Dr. Covert. He reports the total expenses of all Presbyterian college work as $6,743,494.

SURVEY REPORT READY

General indifference to religion by student bodies, with one pronounced "aggressively pagan," is reported in a survey of forty-seven leading universities to be presented to the assembly tomorrow.

The report was compiled by Dr. M. Willard Lampe, general director of the department of university work, Presbyterian Board of Christian Education.

The Colorado School of Mines, where the "Mines Spirit" is given the extreme description, is pronounced "one of the most difficult centers for student work in the United States."

The Memorial Church of Leland Stanford Junior University is compared to the biblical altar to "An Unknown God," while a number of professors at the University of California are said to depersonalize God."

appeal to the good taste—then to the pocketbooks of our customers

In your close observations, in the shop windows, at the restaurants, and along the streets of Los Angeles you probably have noticed how amazingly the American male's eye for color and design has developed in the last few years.

Cars have better lines; the art of old and modern masters is going into furniture and architecture. The same discrimination is found in things to wear.

Men sense the artistry that harmonizes linings with fabrics; the master designing that proportions lines to set off the figure; the woolen craftsmanship that develops fabrics to meet specific needs.

Men consider more carefully—even our younger men in universities and high school—the nice choice of cravat and shirt, yes, even under garments and hosiery, hat and shoes, for a tout ensemble that is more than stylish and in good taste—they wish to express their personality.

We offer apparel that appeals first to this cultivated taste of our customers. We have the resources that enable us to do all this—keep a little ahead of ordinary style trends—and still keep prices well within the reach of our patron's pocketbooks.

MAN, 76 YEARS OF AGE, FACES MURDER CHARGE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

STOCKTON, May 30.—Thomas M. Fay, 76 years of age, asserted slayer of his brother-in-law, Elwood Talbert, was charged with first-degree murder in an indictment returned by the Stanislaus county grand jury at Modesto. Talbert was killed the 9th inst., at Fay's ranch near Modesto, after he had attempted to wrest a rifle from Fay's hands. The Coroner's inquiry brought out evidence substantiating the contention that Fay was mentally incompetent at the time of the shooting.

RICHARDS WINS OVER LA COSTE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, May 30.—Vincent Richards, United States, defeated Rene Lacoste today, 7-5, 4-6, 8-6, in the international team competition at the Racing Club De France. Howard Kinsey, United States, beat Paul Feret, France, who yesterday defeated Richards. The score was 6-4, 5-7, 6-4. Helen Wills, the American woman's champion, beat Mlle. Matthieu, 6-3, 6-4.

DEMPSEY'S CONDITION IMPROVED

Fight Champion Better, But Loses Eight Pounds Through Illness

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

HOT SPRINGS (Ark.) May 30. Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, who was stricken by an attack of chills and fever here Friday night, was reported much improved though considerably weakened, today. Dempsey has lost eight pounds as a result of the ordeal.

JACK DEMPSEY.

The champion spent a fairly restful night and his pulse are again normal, Dr. M. P. Lautman, his physician, announced today.

His left forearm was still swollen from the large carbuncle which Dr. Lautman said caused a general infection resulting in his illness. The carbuncle was lanced yesterday and was reopened today. Dr. Lautman has placed his patient on a soft diet.

THREE BEAR CREWS ENTRAIN FOR EAST

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BERKELEY, May 30.—With the cheers of rooters ringing in their ears, and with the avowed purpose of returning as the rowing champions of the United States, three University of California crews entrained for the East today to participate in the Poughkeepsie regatta, June 26.

Thirty-one sterling young oarsmen, comprising varsity, junior varsity and freshman boats, followed Coaches Ky Ebright and Russ Nagler aboard the train. Two managers completed the party.

Lewis and Cooper Loom as Track Favorites

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—On the eve of the world's greatest automobile classic—the annual Indianapolis 500-mile dash for a purse approximating $160,000 and the international title for this distance — twenty-eight cars and their drivers had completed all preliminaries for the start at 10 o'clock, standard time, tomorrow morning.

EARL COOPER

Peter De Palo, the national speed champion, rolled his new Duesenberg special onto the course today after officials had dispaired of completing the trial. He sent the car, fresh from the workshop, over the ten miles for an average of 96.706 miles an hour.

The champion was followed by John Duff, piloting the Elcar special which figured in the death of Herbert Jones last Thursday. He qualified the rebuilt car at 95.544 miles an hour. Lick Lider, in a Nickle-plate special was the third and last to qualify before darkness, bringing the total number of certain starters in Monday's race to twenty-eight.

McDonough and Foley will qualify the two additional Duesenbergs at dawn tomorrow and Cain, in a K-M special, Morton and Selver in a Selver special will also make their speed tests tomorrow morning. Thus a possible thirty-

EASTERN ATHLETES OUTSHINE WESTERN STARS IN TWO BIG MEETS DESPITE U.S.C. VICTORY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, May 30.—Far-western brawn, represented by the University of Southern California's athletes, has carried off the classic intercollegiate A.A.A.A. title for the fifth time in six years. But eastern speed still dominates the college cinder paths. This is disclosed by a comparison of the performances made yesterday in the fiftieth I.C.4A. championships at Cambridge, Mass., with the feats of Western Conference stars in the "Big Ten" meet at Iowa City.

BUD HOUSER.

Analysis of these two blue-ribbon meets, bringing into competition the pick of talent from three sections, shows that eastern performers excelled in eight of the fifteen events on which the comparison is based, including all six of the running races from 100 yards to two miles. Far westerners set the pace in five tests and middle westerners in two.

Record-breaking honors also were monopolized by the eastern meet, in which six championship marks fell and one was equaled, as compared with three record feats at Iowa City. The East did not gather so much glory here, however, for four of the new marks set at Cambridge were made by invaders from the Far West. Apportioning the honors by colleges, Southern California's stars figured in four of the best performances of the day, Harvard accounted for three and Cornell and Syracuse two apiece. Yale, Michigan, Ohio State and Stanford each were credited with one.

Individual laurels in the two meets went to Phil Northrup, Michigan's all-around ace; Henry A. Russell, Cornell's great sprinter, and Clarence L. (Bud) Houser, Southern California captain and weight man. Northrup tallied the most points, 12¼, by winning the javelin throw with a record toss, tying for first in the pole vault

HOUSE TROJAN CAPTAIN

Star Sprinter Elected to Lead U.S.C. Track Squad in Meets Next Year

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BOSTON (Mass.) May 30.—Edgar House, sprinter, will captain the Southern California track-and-field team during its 1927 season. After winning the intercollegiate championships at Cambridge yesterday for the second consecutive time, the Trojans gathered here today and unanimously voted to honor House with the leadership of the team.

As one of the leading sprinters on the Pacific Coast this season, House earned the esteem of his team-mates. He won firsts in and furlong in all dual meets. His best times this year were :09.9s for the 100-yard dash and :21.4s for the 220-yard dash. He will compete in the national collegiates at Chicago. He did not place in the I.C.4A.

UPSETS FEATURE PLAY

Gladys Patz Defeats Peggy James in Singles Event as Santa Monica Tourney Continues

Upsets featured the fourth week's play in the annual Santa Monica tennis tourney as hundreds of eager tennis enthusiasts witnessed the downfall of some of the various seeded contestants in the men's and women's singles play at the beach city yesterday afternoon. Miss Peggy James, crack junior net star of the Southland and city queen of 1925, was the victim of Miss Gladys Patz, clever senior racketer, who downed her junior rival in two straight sets, 6-3, 6-4.

Jack De Lara, former net champion at the Franklin High School and the 1925 winner of the Ojai interscholastic championship, met his Waterloo at the hands of Dave Ordway, State prep doubles champion for Los Angeles High School in 1924, the latter grabbing a three-set decision, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

DOEG WINS

Johnny Doeg, popular Santa Monica racket star, and the most talented court wizard in prep circles for the past two seasons, displayed his superiority to Paul Kirwan, Griffith Park star, trouncing him at 6-3, 6-4, but it took all that the high-school player could muster together in order that he be returned victor, for Kirwan forced his rival throughout the first set. Bob Laird, Southern Branch freshman, made a convincing three-set victory over Abe Richman, pride of Santa Monica Bay district, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4.

The matches slated for today's bill featuring the holiday will bring together some of the finest talent in Southern California as well as some matches which promise to be the closest fought of any tourney this year. The first match slated for the morning play will find Ed Woodall, Alhambra open champion, opposed to Stan Robinson of Pasadena, in a match that looms as a nip-and-tuck battle.

Following this contest, the enthusiasts will witness a battle to the finish between Miss Midge Gladman and Miss Louise McFarland, the two most talented juniors in this section, with Miss McFarland given the edge over her rival for the first time in the three

ANGELS TURNED BACK BY SHELLENBACK, MULCAHY

Hollywood Hurlers Best Yarrison and Day in Mound Duels; Home Run by Kerr Settles Second

BY ROBERT RAY

Mr. Oscar Vitt's Hollywood Stars, door mats in the early part of the series, became the dirty feet yesterday, nosing out Marty Krug's sometimes soaring Seraphs in both games of yesterday's double-header by scores of 2 to 1. Great pitching by Frank Shellenback and Phil Mulcahy accounted for both Hollywood victories.

Some 15,000 fans were on hand at Wrigley Field for the twin bill and more than got their money's worth out of each engagement. Both contests were real thrillers that left the final outcome in doubt up until the final out. By taking both games the Stars made it three straight over the Cherubs, but they are still one down in the series so far. Today the Seraphs and Stars will put on two more games that are to be separated by luncheon, meaning that one will be played in the morning and the other in the afternoon. If the Stars can win two more today they'll nab the series, but otherwise it will be one more series in the Angel kit-bag.

FRANK SHELLENBACK.

There is quite a bit of doubt as to which of yesterday's games was the more thrilling. The opener had a lot of exciting spots in it, but the second struggle probably had a little the edge.

In the twilight tilt, which was originally scheduled to go seven innings but had to be stretched out two more frames before a verdict could be reached, Rube Yarrison lost a tough hurling duel to Phil Mulcahy after allowing only four hits.

KERR IS HERO

Johnny Kerr was the hero of the Hollywood victory, for it was his home run over the left-field wall in the ninth that gave the Stars the second game. Johnny also saved the game in the eighth when the Angels had the bases full and one out by snagging Weis's line drive and making a double play unassisted to retire the side. Kerr got a big hand as he stepped to the plate to start the Hollywood ninth and he promptly showed his appreciation by swatting Yarrison's offering over the left center-field wall.

For five frames Mulcahy and Yarrison pitched shut-out ball, neither being seriously threatened, but in the last half of the sixth "Jiggers" Stats broke up the succession.

JOHNSON IS FINISHED UP BY LAWSON

Negro Light-Heavyweight Champ Stops Lil Atha in Seventh at Juares

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

EL PASO (Tex.) May 30.—Bob Lawson of New York, negro light-heavyweight champion, scored a technical knockout against Jack Johnson, former world heavyweight champion, at the end of the seventh of a twelve-round bout in the Juares (Mex.) Coliseum this afternoon.

Johnson apparently had a big edge in weight over the New York boy and held him of the first few rounds. Lawson gradually began to land his punches, however, and just as the bell rang at the end of the seventh round, landed a body punch which floored the big negro. Johnson was unable to rise at the beginning of the eighth and was finally lifted to his chair.

THERE'S THE ECONOMY OF QUALITY IN LEVY TAILORED CLOTHES

Is your time more valuable than your appearance?

IF A MAN demand no more from his clothes than warmth and covering, he need spend but little time in their selection.

On the other hand, the few hours each season that you spend with a merchant tailor result in fabrics of exclusive distinction, fit that makes the most of your good points, style that is of the moment—yet individually yours.

You might spend the time more profitably, but never to greater personal advantage.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By Paul Lowry

WELL, well, I have an infallible system now. If I want anybody to win something I simply predict somebody else will be victorious. The system has been proved and not found wanting. It worked like a charm in the IC4A track and field meet at Cambridge. I predicted Stanford would win and registered a hope U.S.C. would triumph. The Trojan success is now a matter of history. It was superb, brilliant, wonderful. Dean Cromwell's boys performed in remarkable fashion after a long arduous trip across the country. With the exception of Lee Barnes, who placed second in the pole-vault to Sabin Carr of Yale, all of the Trojans more than performed up to expectations. Some of them did better. After being shut out in the Coast Conference meet Reynolds hardly figured in the broad jump, but placed fourth. Aleski, who was not taken to Palo Alto, won a surprising fourth in the shot at Cambridge. In the final analysis it was the true to form, or better, performances of the Trojans that won them the meet. The failure of Capt. Bill Richardson, Ted Miller and Sid Meeks sealed Stanford's doom. These men were just as sure shots in their events as some of the men U.S.C. took East, but they failed to deliver. Of course Miller unfortunately fell prey to a bad cold on the chest, and naturally couldn't be expected to figure under such a handicap in a tough race like the quarter-mile.

Despite his apparent awkwardness this frail young fellow from Iowa, Roscoe Hall, is one of the cleverest lightweights operating in Los Angeles rings today. His awkwardness is nothing but camouflage. His seemingly clumsy swings at close quarters screen a sound, two-fisted attack at long range. He is really a skillful boxer. A clever head weaver. His funny blows are feints. He can hit with both hands as Charlie Rosen, a newcomer to these parts, can well attest. Rosen's victory over Hall at Hollywood the other night wasn't exactly undeserved but it was more than he had coming to him. Rosen fought hard enough for it, but Hall was entitled to at least a draw. Both of them were floored during the course of the fight, but Rosen came out of the encounter worse off than Hall. The latter was bleeding about the mouth, but Rosen had a badly puffed left cheek and his right eye was partially closed. It will be easier to appreciate Hall's real ability when local fans see what Rosen, an all-around fighter, does to some of the local favorites in this locality.

Though no one even guessed it at the time Georgie Rivers' victory over Newsboy Brown in the Hollywood arena over a year ago earned him a chance at the world's flyweight title held by Fidel La Barba. While the latter won from Rivers long before he gained the 112-pound championship from Frankie Genaro, the Mexican boxer has since defeated every flyweight of any consequence in the West. On the strength of Newsboy Brown's draw with La Barba and his subsequent defeat of Genaro after the latter had lost his title, he is entitled to a crack at La Barba but, on the strength of Rivers' convincing defeat of Brown, the Mexican seems to have the preference. Talk that Rivers can not be strong at 112 pounds is all bosh. If true the same thing can be said of La Barba, for both he and Rivers have been fighting catchweights at practically the same poundage for the past year and a half. There was certainly nothing impotent about La Barba when he bumped over Genaro for the title last summer, and neither La Barba nor Rivers should suffer in making weight for their titular go in July.

three race cars will face the starter.

Two cars and drivers stand out as the favorites to date in the field in this, the most uncertain of all sporting competitions. They are the two front-drive racers, built and qualified under Harry Miller's motor colors and piloted by Earl Cooper and Dave Lewis. Cooper, with plenty of speed to spare while in his ten-mile race trial at an average of more than 111 miles an hour, and Lewis, driving hard and battling at the wheel of his toy racer over every inch of the difficult two and one-half-mile course, wheeled up an average of 107 miles an hour. Both cars, with their power centered in the front axles, seem to hold the track at high speed better than their rivals, and the two veteran pilots are the only veterans of the speedway who seem perfectly satisfied with their high-pressure mounts. Frank Lockhart, the Pacific Coast graduate of dirt-track racing, is another dangerous prospect for the big prize tomorrow. He is up in another of the Millers, which has shown terrific speed in the trials, and is considered the "wild man" on the big derby day.

WRESTLE TO DRAW

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MEXICANS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER NEW HEAVYWEIGHT MAT ARTIST

Mexican wrestling fans appear to be all excited over the chances of Frank Aguayo, their heavyweight champion, who wrestles Chris Michaels in one of the star bouts of Lou Daro's card at the Olympic Auditorium on Wednesday night.

NICK LUTZE

Jimmy Londos meets Nick Lutze, and Ivan Poddubny grapples Harry Maxwell in the other matches.

Aguayo became the idol of mat fans from the southern republic at the last show when he threw Felix Lopez, claimant of the title, to the mat with a sensational crotch and half Nelson slam that almost sent his Mexican rival into dreamland.

Aguayo, who comes from Sonora, Mex., has been working out in public at local theaters in the vicinity of the Plaza and has been attending numerous entertainments given in his honor. More than 4000 of the grappler's countrymen are expected to file into the arena Wednesday night to see him in his bout with Michaels.

Chris Michaels is one of the best light-hoavyweight ever to step on a local mat. He has not been defeated in the past year and a half of wrestling and he expects to stop Aguayo in his tracks, Wednesday night. They are both clever and plenty fast and the bout stands a good chance to steal the show.

Jim Londos came up from Long Beach, where he is doing his training, long enough yesterday to size up the local training camps and pass his first opinion of Nick Lutze, his oponent, Wednesday night.

Jimmy is all "burned up" over Lutze's tactics in forcing him into a match and he asserts that he is going to give the former Notre Dame football star a good roughing when they meet.

Oakland and Portlanders Split Even

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 30.—Portland and Oakland divided today's bill, the Oaks winning the first, 7 to 4, and the Beavers coming back to take the second, 7 to 3. Heavy cannonading off three Portland pitchers, especially by Arlett, who made a homer, a double and a single, piled up a long lead for Oakland in the first game which a Portland rally in the eighth and ninth, which drove Kunz off the slab, could not overcome.

In the second game the Beavers began hammering Delaney in the second inning, Elmer Smith's homer helping to drive him off the slab. In the third Smith homed again, off McKenry this time, with two on ahead of him, and Freeman finished the game. Arlett drove out another homer in the fourth inning in which the Oaks scored two runs, but Mangum stopped them in every other inning. Score:

and taking third in the broad jump. Houser won the shotput and discus in record fashion, while Russell captured both sprints, equaling the 100-yard record and breaking the 220-yard mark.

Russell's performances stood out as the most sensational of any in a meet which was unparalleled for all-around brilliance of performance in I.C.A.A.A.A. history. The lanky Cornell captain's times were the best made in the East all season and rival those of the Nebraska comet, Roland Locke, who has bettered world's records in both dashes this spring. Russell, incidentally, was the first Cornellian to win the 100-yard dash in fifty years of I.C.A.A.A.A. competition.

Harvard's clean-up in the 880, mile and two-mile runs, with Waters, Haggerty and Tibbetts, marked the first time since 1914 that any college has done this in the I.C.A.A.A.A. meet. Cornell swept these events twelve years ago with Caldwell, Sepiden and Hoffmire.

PRO CLASH AT LONG BEACH

Annual P.G.A. Championship Scheduled to Get Under Way with Qualifying Round Wednesday

Last reports from Jack Malley, president of the Professional Golfers' Association in this vicinity, stated that the P.G.A. championship would be held at the Long Beach municipal course starting Wednesday and concluding Saturday.

Arrangements have been decidedly indefinite, but original plans called for the tentative purse of $700 to be divided as follows: Winner, $300; runner-up, $200; semi-finalists, $100 each, and $100 to be divided four ways among winners in qualifying play.

Willie Hunter

Information regarding the golfing quest for the crown held by George Kerrigan, former Flintridge mentor, has been decidedly lacking, but the new Long Beach municipal course is one of the finest in this country, and Dick Linares, club pro, will have a great chance in the tourney. Henry J. Maurer of Long Beach is reported to be in charge of arrangements.

WALKER WINNER AT MONTECITO

T. C. Walker finished even with a gross 82 to win the match play against par sweepstakes arranged for Montecito members by Paul Scott, professional, Saturday. M. R. Peck, 2 down, with an 80, was second and H. Reynolds, 84, three down, third.

Bert Farrar, president of the Chevy Chase Golf and Country the course being constructed by Billie Bell, architect, would be opened late this summer. Chevy Chase should have a very successful future. The layout is ideal for a golf course and the progressive organization behind the new subdivision is particularly fortunate in having natural beauty and all ser's famous "slammer" spoons, clipped three strokes from par with a 69 to win the special club sweepstakes tourney Saturday. Armstrong, former State and southern champ, was out in 35 and home in 34. Charles T. Latrope finished 2 down for second, and L. M. Boisot, 4 down, was third in the class A play. W. Hunt was 5 down to lead the Class B play and George B. Doan was second, 6 down.

NATIONAL PRO TEST AT LAKESIDE SOON

More than a score of local professionals will medal thirty-six holes at the Lakeside club, the 14th of next month, for one of the two places allotted this district in the national open championship that will be held at Columbus, O., next July. Wee Willie Hunter, State open champ, and one of the twenty low scorers in the last national, does not have to qualify and will be awarded the first place.

CHOOSE COCOOS BENT FOR EL SERRENO COURSE

The new El Sereno golf course is to have eighteen greens sown to "cocoos creeping bent." Eastern critics who have played on El Caballero links have declared that cocoos bent greens afford the very finest texture they ever had the pleasure of playing on.

Grantland Rice, internationally known sports writer of New York, stated that he got the surprise of his life when he played some of Southern California's golf courses last winter and that his greatest surprise was the absolute perfection of the various greens. He especially raved over the cocoos variety. John Duncan Dunn, who is in charge of the designing of El Sereno links, claims that the soil at his command for grass-growing purposes is incomparable.

WASHBURN COPS GIRARD TOURNEY

C. W. Washburn, with a net 66, won the handicap golf tournament of the A. A. Housman & Co. annual event at the Girard Golf Club course last week, according to results just issued after scores had been worked out by a bunch of auditors. Following are the results:

WISE AND OTHER WISE

By Bill Wise

Jess Puryear, wavy-haired rival who has held down the golf job on the other local morning paper for more than one year, severed his connections yesterday and today will assume the management of Victor Girard's Ventura Boulevard layout. Jess was very efficient as a scribe and will be even more so in directing activities at his new location. Jess is just like most of the rest of us—you had to know him to like him, and then, his friendship was just as sincere and complete as any in the world. He will help an already flourishing organization and it is a pleasure to wish him luck—and extend best wishes to his successor, C. L. Fletcher.

Hunter Robbins, one of the most popular winter members of the local colony, with Mrs. Robbins left last week for his home in Michigan. "Charlie" is a mighty fine fellow and a promising golfer and Mrs. Robbins is also capable of a fine eight-handicap game. They permanent return will materially help this vicinity and their home club, Flintridge.

George Cline, the golfing bridegroom of Four Horsemen fame, is again back in the fold—during the day time, at least. Together with Ockie Johnnie Hodge, Frank Delect —who is reported slipping, and Elmer, "Goat" Henderson, the quartet from a tee and green combination that is more than welcome at every tournament. As usual, the wrangling four will be out for glory—and silverware in the annual invitational of their home club, Wilshire, opening next Tuesday.

A. E. D. Trabue's Big Bear Lake course opened yesterday, and scores reported the layout in fine condition.

The Bel-air invitational, planned to usher in a really championship course next July, has been indefinitely postponed, according to Jack Neville.

JOHNSON IN FINAL NET PLAY

Little Bill Favored With Kinsey in Central State Tennis Tourney

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, May 30.—William M. Johnston will meet A. Harrington and "Peck" Griffin will face Robert Kinsey in the semifinals of the Central California tennis tournament, men's singles event under progress here. These and the finals will be played off tomorrow.

Competition has been at a high pitch throughout, but a remarkable feature is that there have been but few upsets. Most notable of these is the finding of Harrington on the semifinal list. His place was expected to be filled by Gaylord Stratford. Stratford at one time held No. 2 position on the University of California net team; Harrington is filling a similar position on the Stanford squad at present. An enthusiastic crowd watched their duel for supremacy.

WOMEN'S SINGLES

First Round—Helen Baker defeated Mrs. Elwell, 6-2, 6-0; Rose Marie Bruns defeated Elizabeth Wild, default; Carolyn Swarts defeated Marjorie Postelwaite, 6-3, 3-1 (default); Pauline Davies defeated Jane Bahr, 6-0, 6-0; Josephine Cronin defeated Josephine Cronin, 6-0, 6-0; Mrs. Golda Gross defeated Margaret Flinn, 6-4, 6-4; Avery Fallest defeated Isabella Smith, 6-3, 6-1; Betty Finch defeated Dukie Gosse, 6-0, 6-1.

HUDKINS MEETS SALVADORE

Ace Takes on Pomona Lightie Before Leaving for Eastern Engagements; May Meet Adams

Ace Hudkins, accompanied by his manager and brother, Clyde, will leave for New York Saturday morning. Friday, Ace is fighting Phil Salvadore at the Hollywood American Legion Stadium and that will be his last appearance in California for several weeks.

Ace believes in getting the coin and with it keeping fit by working. He meets all comers and as long as he hadn't accommodated Phil Salvadore during his two years of boxing in California he thought it best to do so. He might get East and then read where Phil said he had run out on him.

Ace Hudkins

When Ace returns he will be ready to fight Johnny Adams for Tom Gallery at the Hollywood American Legion Stadium. This much is understood between Gallery and Clyde Hudkins. Now Tom Jones will have to be coaxed into signing articles. Adams is signed to fight Charley Rosen at Hollywood in two weeks.

CHAMPS DODGE WIGGINS

Two world's champions and two prime contenders have placed "Chuck" Wiggins, the Hoosier cyclone who meets George Godfrey at the Olympic Auditorium, Wednesday night, June 9, on their taboo list. They are "Tiger" Flowers and Paul Berlenbach, champions, and Jack Delaney and Young Stribling.

All efforts made by promoters in every big city in the country to match the fast-stepping Wiggins against any of the quartet have been to no avail. Berlenbach even refused a $10,000 flat guaranty to box Wiggins twelve rounds, no decision, overweight, on Derby eve at Louisville.

None of the boys like Wiggins because he is altogether too fast and clever for them. "Chuck" has been called the Hoosier Centipede because he steps around at such a clip he seems to have a hundred legs.

When Wiggins came here with his manager, Ray Alvis, he asked to have Godfrey as his first opponent. "If I beat the 'Black Shadow' the other four fellows won't be able to duck me," he explained.

Wiggins also performs his best against the "beef-strong fellas." They generally are too slow to keep up with him and "Chuck" plasters them to a standstill.

SWITCH MADE IN CARD

Billy McGowan, Venice heavyweight who was scheduled to meet "Aeroplane Dave" Taylor in the six-round semi-wind-up at Culver City tomorrow night, walked up to Matchmaker "Sy" Saenz yesterday and politely notified him that it would be impossible to go through with his end of the match against Taylor, inasmuch as he had just signed a contract with the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, to take part in one of their newest productions, as an actor.

Another Venice heavyweight aspirant was immediately substituted by Saenz. His name is Kid Williams and he is handled by the veteran manager, "Pop" Barrett, the same man who handled the original Kid Williams, when he beat Johnny Coulon at Vernon a few years back.

Santiago Zorrilla, the Panama featherweight flash, who meets Henry Faligano in the eight-round main event, will wind up his training today with a little road work along the Venice beach. Four four-rounders complete the card.

BANNING AUTO RACE ON TODAY

Best Known Dirt Track Drivers Take Part in Duel This Afternoon

Many Los Angeles speedfans are going to the Decoration Day seven-race card to be battled over the half-mile dirt track of the Banning American Legion Speedway today. Some of the fastest dirt track pilots in the West will race before the largest crowd that has ever watched a Banning program, according to speedway officials who expect 3,000 persons.

With forty entrants, eighteen of whom will qualify, the entry list to date reads like a "Who's Who" of the dirt track. Several of the leaders are: McDowell Special, Lou Moore or Hollywood; Stapp Special, Bill Stapp of Los Angeles; Fronty Ford, Cliff Wilson of Los Angeles; Chrysler Special, Curtis Chamberlain of Riverside; Hooker Special, Mal Kenealy of Los Angeles; Rajo Special, Speed Hinckley of Pasadena; Front-Drive Frontenac, Sam Palmer of Los Angeles; Evans Special, Bert Spencer of Los Angeles; Hercules Special, Johnny Vickers of Pomona; Speed Special, Harry Howard of Los Angeles.

LOCAL LAUGHS

Each week The Times produces a film entitled "Local Laughs," consisting of the fifteen best jokes submitted by local people. Weekly prizes are paid of $5, $2, $1, and twelve of $1 each. A list of theaters showing the film, together with rules for submitting jokes, are given daily in a coupon in The Times. Prize-winning jokes, and names and addresses of winners, appear only on the screen. Jokes receiving honorable mention will be given a place or honor on The Times' comic page each week-day, and each of those contributors will receive a souvenir of prizewinningness.

English Copeland Spode Dinnerware

REPRODUCING faithfully the charming old Spode "Buttercup" design this dinner service has interest alike for the connoisseur of fine earthenware and for the woman whose table must be beautifully appointed.

This Spode design is printed in claret brown on a body in warm ivory tone, and painted underneath the glaze in yellow, blue and green.

Service for Six, $77.90

Besides the "Buttercup," there are nine other open stock patterns to be had, offering one a wide choice of the designs characteristic of Spode. Interesting among these are the "Golden State" and "Pink Tower" patterns of long-standing fame.

SIXTH FLOOR

Small Sizes In Oriental Rugs

FASCINATING with the peculiarly subtle and yet glowing color the Oriental weaver puts into his designs, these scatter rugs will be a delightful note in the furnishings of a room. Particularly alluring are they at the prices J. W. Robinson Co. are quoting just now.

SAROUK Rugs in a number of beautiful patterns showing a fine sheen are an interesting group.

Sarouk Rugs, approximately 6.8x4.4 feet, $195.
Sarouk Rugs, approximately 5x3 feet, $120.
Sarouk Rugs, approximately 5x2½ feet, $85.
Iran Rugs, approximately 3x5 to 3.6x6 feet, $49.50.
Kemere Rugs, approximately 6.6x5 feet, $145.
Lilihan Rugs, approximately 5x2.6 feet, $45.

Poshti Mats, approximately 2x3 feet, $25.

Summertime Draperies

ESPECIALLY suited to the home in summer are neutral-toned crash homespun and monks' cloth. They are ideal for slip covers, cushions and curtains for the summer home or the year-round home in summertime guise.

Brighten them with gay appliques or finish them simply with fringe, they are very smart and entirely satisfactory. Striped crash, colorful in itself, lends itself readily to good-looking summer drapery.

Plain 40-inch Natural Crash Homespun, yd., 70c.
Plain 50-inch Natural Crash Homespun, yd., $1.00.
Striped 40-inch Crash on Natural Ground, yd., $1.00. Blue, rose, orange and combination stripes.

Handkerchiefs in Pastel Tints, 50c

QUITE dainty and fine enough to be worthy of a higher price are these linen and voile handkerchiefs in pastel and deep tints. The quality of their materials, hand rolled and whipped hems mark them unusual at the price.

And in addition, each handkerchief is prettily embroidered by hand in all four corners. Truly exceptional in handkerchiefs at 50c.

FIRST FLOOR

Children's Rayon Hose at 60c pair

CHILDREN'S frocks, light-colored and dainty of fabric, need pretty hose to complement them. These, of rayon, are quite the thing for summer for they may be had in eight pastel shades and black, as well as the ever-wanted white.

They are made with plain self colored tops in sizes 7 to 9½, and are a very good quality for a price of just 60c.

FOURTH FLOOR

Harmless Method Of Face Lifting

THROUGH the representative of Madame Valentine one may learn how the ravages of time may be eradicated safely and without pain. Her simple and harmless method is the result of years of scientific research in the recreation of youthful contours.

Information is given without charge in the hairdressing section.

SECOND FLOOR

Extraordinary 150 Knitted Coats $16.50

ONE CAN SCARCELY CHOOSE A MORE THOROUGHLY SATISFACTORY TYPE OF COAT FOR SUMMER SPORTS WEAR THAN THE KNITTED COAT. AND FINDING REALLY EXCELLENT KNITTED COATS AT A PRICE OF $16.50 IS SINGULARLY GOOD FORTUNE.

These coats are of mohair and rayon with jacquard designs and have the cartridge ribbed collars and cuffs that add so much to their becomingness. Firmly woven so that they will not stretch or sag, they have, too, the informal, easy smartness of appearance that one treasures in sports clothes.

Choosing for color is simple, as there is a good variety of charming summery shades and combinations: pink, black and white, buff and honey dew, tea rose, beige, Chantilly green, pink and white, and all white. Knitted coats at the low price of $16.50 are shown in sizes 34 to 44.

THIRD FLOOR

Collapsible Sulkies Unusual—$11.75

A SPECIAL price has been put upon these neat, ivory-enameled sulkies.

The brown leatherette hoods and upholstery are attractive in contrast with the creamy ivory enamel, and they add considerably to the youngster's comfort in riding. Rubber tires, too, help to make the small occupant comfortable.

When folded, these sulkies occupy small space and are easily carried about. One will find $11.75 a most reasonable price for them.

Baby Carriages Reversible—$25

POSSESSED of many of the characteristics of higher-priced carriages, these are truly unusual for $25. In appearance, decidedly pleasing with their enamel finish in ivory, grey, fawn or cafe shades.

Fitted with the reversible gear used only on the better carriages and the special release brake that one can adjust without ill effects on one's shoes. They have also a storm hood and full corduroy lining.

FOURTH FLOOR

June White Sales

SUPPLYING one's need for new linens for the home, summer lingerie, white and pastel-tinted materials for baby clothes and lingerie-making is indeed a happy experience.

The White Sales embrace many lines in many departments, as the large announcement in another publication today shows. This paragraph and the three items are only by way of suggestion.

Irish Linen Damask Cloths

FLORAL and conventional designs are available in cloths of beautiful quality. Size, 2x2 yards, $4.25; size, 2x2½ yards, $5.85; size, 2x3 yards, $7.50.

Napkins to match, 22x22 inches, $6.50 the dozen.

SECOND FLOOR

Plisse Crepe, yard, 45c

FOR lingerie and children's frocks and creepers this crepe in white and pink only, priced 45c the yard.

SECOND FLOOR

Silk Gowns, $4.95 and $7.75

GOWNS at $4.95 are very well made and have yokes of beautiful laces; those at $7.75 are of heavier crepe de Chine and available in both tailored and lacy styles.

PRINCES LIVE AS COMMON FOLKS

Joachim Notes Housemaids Night Out

Former Kaiser Has Numerous Kin on Pay Roll

Grand-Duke's Plea for Work Proves Futile

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BERLIN, May 30.—Prince and Princess Joachim of Hohenzollern were having tea at one of the embassies. This Joachim is a second cousin of the former Kaiser and of the same name as the son who committed suicide. The Princess, during a pause in the conversation, turned to her husband and said:

"Don't you think we had better go now? You know I have to put the children to bed."

"O, yes, so you do," he replied. "It's the girl's night out."

Prince and Princess Joachim live simply in a small apartment with one servant, probably on an allowance from the Kaiser who carries forty-two members of the family on his pay roll.

The Crown Prince is not one of those receiving a dole from the head of the house. He has more private property than any other German royalty except his father and Ruprecht of Bavaria.

The four other sons of the Kaiser live comfortably on their allowances of 24,000 marks each from their father. Each is understood to have some fragments of private income and they pay no house rent. Eitel Fritz and his wife have the villa Ingenheim at Potsdam, which was built for the morganatic wife of King Frederick William II of Prussia.

Prince Adelbert bought a house at Homburg and lives there. Prince and Princess August William have the villa Liegnitz in Potsdam. This villa also has a past. It was the resident of the morganatic wife of Frederick William III, a Countess Von Harrach who was created a princess on her marriage.

Prince Oscar, the fifth son of the Kaiser, was expelled from the family by his father under the requirements of the so-called house law of the Hohenzollerns for having married beneath him. His wife was a daughter of Count Von Bassewitz-Levetzow, the Prime Minister of Mecklenburg-Schwerin. However, Oscar was reinstated by his father in 1920. Oscar and his wife also live in Potsdam. He worked until recently in a Berlin bank.

It is not easy for a prince to obtain employment just because he is a prince. One of the young grand-dukes of the Baden family applied to A magneto factory at Karlsruhe for a position. He brought a letter of introduction from an intimate friend of the manager.

"I regret that I can not employ you," said the manager in substance. "We have 2000 men on the waiting list. If we gave a job to a prince they would tear down the factory."

Sigismund, one of Prince Henry of Prussia's sons, has been in Guatemala five years raising coffee.

Most of the princes and princesses of the twenty-five houses formerly ruling in the states of the Empire are living quietly, almost obscurely, on country estates or the old town residences which have been left in their keeping.

SEVEN BURN TO DEATH IN HOTEL FIRE

Four Children and Mother Among Victims Caught in Brooklyn Blaze

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, May 30.—Seven persons lost their lives tonight in a fire which destroyed the old Taaft Hotel in Brooklyn.

Four children were burned to death when their father, Thomas Hughes, a subway dispatcher, failed to reach them after throwing his two other children from the window of their hotel room to persons in the street, who caught them safely.

Mrs. Hughes, mother of the children, and an aged widow known as Mrs. Smith, and J. F. Noland, 65 years of age, also were burned to death.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Thirty-eight artists, headed by Dudley C. Watson of the Chicago Art Institute, will penetrate 365 miles into the Arctic Circle on a painting tour of the northern polar regions.

This will be the first attempt by any art body to paint the polar region. A great part of the distance to the Arctic Circle will be made by airplane.

SHANGHAI ARMED CAMP

Horde of Chinese Hold Anti-Alien Demonstration While Authorities Prepare for New Outbreak

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SHANGHAI, May 30.—As a result of the serious rioting in the foreign settlements three foreigners are in the hospital, seriously wounded, and Shanghai tonight again is an armed camp due to the disturbances on the anniversary of May 30 troubles last year.

Contrary to the orders issued by the native and foreign authorities banning mass meetings, the Chinese radicals staged a meeting this morning in the native quarter, which was attended by more than 10,000 people. Despite the efforts of 500 native troops the meeting was turned into violent denunciations of the foreigners, especially the British, on the grounds that the Chinese demands of last year were not complied with. Millions of circulars were distributed denouncing the foreigners, following which the crowds marched in small groups into the French and international settlements, continuing their handbill distribution and speeches.

Disorder started with the stoning of street cars, automobiles and busses, as a result of, which three foreigners were injured and traffic was paralyzed. The foreign defense units immediately mobilized and the situation now is in hand, but there is an ominous appearance for tonight and tomorrow.

The fire department was utilized for the crowd dispersion and thus far only a few shots have been fired into the air by the police and volunteers. The police and volunteers are avoiding force as much as possible in order not to give grounds for a general uprising similar to last year.

Serious rioting also occurred in Nanking, the capital of Kiangau province, where Chinese attacked the negro crew of a British steamer. One Chinese coolie was shot by a negro sailor as a result of which anti-British demonstrations were held.

ROYALTY AT MOUNT VERNON

Swedish Crown Prince Bends Knee in Tribute at Shrine of George Washington

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Even the Sabbath failed today to slow down the fast-moving program the Swedish Crown Prince and his party has followed since their arrival here Thursday afternoon.

His strenuous round of official calls, interwoven with art explorations and duty assignments, however, was changed in complexion to fit the day. In the forenoon he and Crown Princess Louise attended services at the Luther Memorial Church and immediately afterward visited Mt. Vernon on the Potomac's Virginia shoreline. Guns at the navy yard boomed the national salute as the navy yacht Sylph with the party aboard steamed out.

Upon arrival at the homestead of George Washington, the Crown Prince proceeded at once to the first President's tomb and there, bareheaded and with bended knee, he placed a floral tribute.

Returning to the capital, where another twenty-one-gun salute was fired, the Crown Prince was on his way to the Swedish Chapel where, a few minutes later he began receiving Swedish residents of Washington. These were joined by scores of visitors who had come to attend the dedication yesterday of the memorial to Capt. John Ericsson, Sweden's foremost American emigrant and the man whose brain gave this government its first armored dreadnaught, the Monitor of Civil War fame.

Tonight the Crown Prince and his consort were guests of honor at an official dinner given by the Swedish Minister and Mme. Bostrom. The second reception of the day was held afterward at the Legation.

The Crown Prince will be an outstanding figure tomorrow in the observation of Memorial Day. An early morning visit will be made to the Arlington National Cemetery to permit him to decorate the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. From Arlington the royal party will be taken to the Capitol to be received there by the Supreme Court justices, headed by Chief Justice Taft.

The four-day visit will terminate with a luncheon given by Robert Wood Bliss, American Minister to Sweden, and Mrs. Bliss. The Crown Prince and members of his entourage will leave at 2 p.m. tomorrow for New York.

ROMANCE OF NEWS TO BE SHOWN HERE

Film Will Reveal How Associated Press Brings Daily History to Public

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, May 30.—The "Romance of the News," a film showing how the Associated Press gathers and disseminates the news of the world, soon will be unfolded in more than 2000 theaters in more than 200 towns and cities of the United States, Alaska and Hawaii.

This film, by Pathe, which will visualize for the millions who daily read the Associated Press dispatches the manner in which news is handled will be released for "first-run" houses on June 6, next, and will be shown at other theaters June 20. The film will be shown for six months.

The development of news transmission facilities, as shown in the film, begins with the carrier pigeon, the courier and snail-like vessels and then reveals the use of the present-day telegraph, radio and telephone as methods of communicating news.

To reveal the manner in which a news event is turned into a graphic account, sent hurtling through space in various manners, set up in type and placed in the readers' hands, a catastrophe was selected. The actual example is a simulation of the destruction of Pompeii.

EZ RECEPTION DENIED TO KRIM

Return as Fallen Hero Not to be Allowed

Dramatic Interest, However, Attends Exodus

Wives and Servants Ride Atop His Gold

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RABAT (Morocco) May 30.—The elaborate preparations for Abd-el-Krim's reception at Fez, the French authorities have changed their minds. They now have decided not to let the former chief of the Riff come to the camp of his conquerors and be officially treated as a fallen hero. They are going to be careful not to make him look like a native Napoleon, on his way to some eastern isle, in turban and sandals.

The magnificent palace belonging to one of the former Grand Viziers which had been set aside for Krim will not be opened to him. It also has been decided not to permit a ceremonial function to mark the meeting of the defeated chief's party with the representatives of the Sultan and France.

Not an precaution can detract from the dramatic interest Krim's arrival from the Riff has created in Morocco. Crowds of public officials, army officials, and other dignitaries with their wives and children are leaving this colonial capital today in every available conveyance to go to Fez for a chance of witnessing the spectacle. The wives of the French government and colony are especially anxious to get a glimpse of the little man who kept the armies of two great powers on their toes for more than two years.

Krim is due to reach the big French military post of Taza tomorrow morning and he probably will arrive in Fez before nightfall. While his advent will not be greeted with brass bands nor the path strewn with roses, he will be greeted with perfect dignity and decorum.

There is a strong clamor for colonial pageantry over the slow march from his thatched mud palace at Targuist to the imperial city of Fez—a city he came so near entering as a victorious war lord just a year ago. Like a figure from "Arabian Nights," Sidi Mohammed Ben Abd-el-Krim rides at the head of his caravan. At respectful paces behind him are officers of his French escort, and two squadrons of Spahi cavalry keeping pace, double file, alongside of both—carbines slung and sabers bared.

Then—heavily protected by the guard of an Algerian rifle regiment—come Abd-el-Krim's wives and Abd-el-Krim's gold. The caravan is laden with negotiable wealth mostly in gold and silver coin. The money is carried in small sacks tied to saddle bags. Krim's wives, children, and household servants ride on top of Krim's treasure.

It was not without French intervention that the former emir managed to get all his wealth away from the Riff. The Riffians objected strenuously, declaring the money belonged to the defunct Riffian government, of which Krim had been chosen as executive. They say he stole briefly to prevent his family from leaving in order to make him give back the funds, but their plot failed.

Abd-el-Krim, on the way to Fez, is leaving a bankrupt nation behind him. The caids who ride at his side are religious men. Their presence prevents the Riffians from taking pot shots at their lost leader. Krim's brother, Sidi Mohammed, and Krim's uncle, Sidi Abdesalam, and also Caid Azerkane and Caid Cheddit and Krim's secretary, Sidi Areddi, submitted yesterday morning, and will leave the city with Krim.

FRENCH DENY HEAVY LOSSES IN CAMPAIGN

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, May 30.—The total French losses in the Riffian campaign since April, 1925, have been less than 1500, the Ministry of War officially announced tonight, saying at the same time the reports spread by the extremist press of Paris that the losses have exceeded 14,000.

The figures do not include the number of natives but only the soldiers of the Foreign Legion and the regulars. The number of missing is 334 and the numbered dead from sickness totals 562.

The French do not intend to accede to the Spanish proposal to treat Abd-el-Krim as a vanquished foe, but will grant him all the considerations usually accorded a high-ranking enemy prisoner.

The Riffian leader will be kept in Morocco until the political questions involving the portion of the Spanish zone he controlled is settled, then it is expected he will be allowed to live somewhere in France like many other far and near eastern vanquished potentates.

It is reported Krim prefers to go to Italy or Germany, but in either case he will not receive a subsidy either from the Paris or Madrid governments and it is expected most of the treasure he took during his life will be confiscated, leaving him practically penniless.

SPAIN WANTS KRIM TO BE TREATED AS ENEMY

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MADRID, May 30.—Serious difficulties are expected with France over the treatment to be meted out to Abd-el-Krim, Spain insisting he be treated as a defeated foe, meaning he should be executed. It is admitted here the French favor treating the Riff chieftain as a defeated enemy with privileges customary in France, such as a state allowance, provided he swears fealty to the Sultan of Morocco and pledges never to attempt to foment trouble again.

The Spanish press, public opinion and government insist that the proper treatment Abd-el-Krim is entitled to, on the captured Spaniards during the Melilla debacle in 1921 should be applied to the Riffian—not torturing him, but they indicate he should be hanged or shot.

RAIL EXTENSION PROPOSED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS (Tex.) May 30.—Representatives of the chambers of commerce and other civic organizations of many of the cities and towns of North and East Texas and Southeastern Oklahoma in conference here discussed the proposition of obtaining an extension of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe from Tulsa, Okla., through Paris to Longview, Tex.

DICTATOR RULES OVER PORTUGAL

Commander Cabecadas to Form New Ministry

Army Leaders Will Fill Chief Offices

Is Accomplished With Absence of Bloodshed

[BY WIRELESS AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LISBON (Portugal) May 30.—Portugal is to have a new government as a consequence of the military movement of the past few days which culminated in the resignation yesterday of the ministry headed by Antonio Maria Da Cunha. President Machado has called upon Commander Cabecadas, one of the revolt leaders, to assume responsibility of government until the new ministry is formed.

The garrison in Lisbon signified its adhesion to President Machado today to support the revolutionary heroes. The coup was accomplished without the firing of a shot and seemed to be received by the public with enthusiasm.

The revolutionary committee has issued a proclamation declaring its movement purely Republican and military; that it is the desire to form a government on a non-partisan basis and to save the country from politicians who, it declares, were ruining Portugal.

MILITARY GIVES BACKING

The chief figures in the movement are Gen. Costa, Commander of the air force and Capt. Baptista of the artillery. They are being supported by the naval school on the north bank of the Tagus and the infantry school outside Lisbon, which has heavy machine guns.

Today the garrisons at Lisbon and Oporto joined the movement. Troops at Braga with the commander of an army division there arrived Saturday the President of the republic had a conference with the revolutionary leaders concerning the formation of a new non-Parliamentary government.

The first duties of this government will be the dissolution of Parliament and revocation of laws considered damaging to national interests.

The President called on Cabecadas at the Chief Executive's request, agreed to assume the responsibility of governing the country until the new Ministry is selected. In this Ministry Cabecadas will have the post of Minister of Marina.

MILITARY MEN TO RULE

After he agreed to take over the government temporarily, Cabecadas announced the Ministry will be composed of military men, with some persons who do not belong to any political party. It will be organized in accordance with the opinions of representatives of all divisions of the Portuguese army who have been summoned to Lisbon.

Cabecadas, who is known for his, is the most popular man in the army. Last August he attempted to lead a rising with the same ends as now. He boarded a warship alone during the commandant's absence, being acclaimed by the sailors. His failure then was due to the army's failing to revolt as it had promised.

In 1910 the action of Cabecadas in boarding the royal palace on a ship when Republican forces were almost lost, aroused the people and greatly contributed to the victory and the establishment of the republic.

3 HURT BY GRENADE

Parade of War Explodes During Meeting of Legion

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, May 30.—A soldier grenade exploded in the basement of the Hays Brothers Post No. 438, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Brooklyn, injuring two ex-soldiers and hurling a third fifteen feet through a window into the street.

Joseph King, who was blown through the window, was uninjured except for bruises.

Frank Carbones picked up the grenade, thinking it unloaded. He lighted the fuse and there was a loud and a roar.

MIDDLE WEST NEWS IN BRIEF

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MILWAUKEE, May 30.—A gift to the University of Wisconsin of $6000, to be known as the William Justine Fiske scholarship, has been announced. The fund is provided by the will of Mrs. William Fiske, who died in April, 1925, in the memory of her husband, former president of the Kellogg National Bank of Green Bay and a member of the State Legislature from 1875 to 1878.

Announcement has been made of the marriage on January 16, last, of Miss Gertrude Niquette and Miss Ormel Shimek, members of this year's graduating class at Milwaukee Normal, at a double ceremony at Waukegan. Miss Niquette became the bride of Elmer J. Behringer and Miss Shimek was married to Rudolph J. Kortebein, both of Milwaukee. The marriages were kept secret for more than four months.

A will bequeathing $60,000 to the Lakeside Hospital at Rice Lake, Wis., was declared null and void by Judge William E. Haily on the grounds that undue influence was used upon Francis C. Walker, maker of the will. The Rev. J. W. Irish, executive secretary of the Methodist Hospital Association, was defendant in the suit brought by brothers and sisters of Walker. In his decision Judge Haily said the influences upon Walker was of such nature that Walker did not regain sufficient mental power to overcome them.

Gus A. Walters, president of the Hagermeister Food Products Company of Green Bay, pleaded guilty in Federal Court to charges of shipping carloads of beer to Hurley and Burlington. Peter Thelan and John Neeb, both of Milwaukee, indicted with Walters, also pleaded guilty. Sentence was deferred.

John R. Thomsen, 51 years of age, vice-president of the Thomsen Decorating Company of Fond Du Lac and prominent in business and social affairs of the community for years, was found dead in an auto truck near Peebles. He had shot himself.

Two Northern Wisconsin counties will have women candidates for Sheriff at the primary election next September. Mrs. V. V. Miller, wife of the Sheriff of Rusk county, and Mrs. Robert Erspamer, wife of the Sheriff of Iron county, will seek the nomination. Mrs. Miller is serving as Undersheriff during her husband's administration.

A $4000 hatchery, which will propagate 1,000,000 brook troue annually, will be complete this summer on the Little Brule, branch of the famous Brule River in Douglas county. Sufficient funds are assured through the interest of the Douglas county board, Douglas County Fish and Game League, and the St. Paul Club. The St. Paul Club owns a valuable fishing club on the Brule.

DES MOINES

DES MOINES, May 30.—Horace McCormick, 70 years of age pioneer Des Moines business man, died at his home in Miami, Fla. Mr. McCormick moved to Florida last fall, after selling his home at Forty-third street and University avenue. Mr. McCormick was a member of the firm of Schell, McCormick & Co., in this city, and later conducted the McCormick Manufacturing Company. He also owned the McCormick Complete Book-keeping Company.

Iowa's percentage of illiteracy, the lowest of any State in the country, has been reduced by 1 per cent by the census taken last year, Lou Morgans, census director, has announced. The new low mark is .46 per cent.

Mrs. T. G. Efferding of Dubuque has been elected by the national council of administration of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic to fill the unexpired term of national treasurer, made vacant by the death of Mrs. Grace Seebers of Waterloo.

Alexander Coleman, 67 years of age, whose gift of $250,000 will pave ten miles of road in Lee and Henry counties, will not be present to see the start of the work on the road this summer if his health continues to improve. He is planning to leave soon to spend the summer in Wyoming. The handling of the money is in the hands of a board of trustees.

OMAHA

OMAHA, May 30.—Omaha will be surveyed by John W. Mahan, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, as a possible site for a soldiers' home and hospital which the veterans are asking Congress to establish, Harry K. Chalmiers, commander of a Chicago post, announced here.

Thirty thousand more harvest hands than were used last year and 20,000 more than are used in the average year; will be needed to handle the harvest in the central grain States this year, according to an estimate issued by Charles Boles of the United States Department of Labor employment service at Lincoln.

Jerry Shea, a milk driver, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to sixty days in jail in Municipal Court at Lincoln, after testimony had been introduced to show that he carried liquor in a milk can along with his real milk deliveries.

Arrangements practically are completed to sink an oil well in Lancaster county twelve or fifteen miles south of Lincoln by a group of capitalists, according to announcement by George J. Woods of the Wood Brothers Company, who has supervision of the leasing of several thousand acres of land for the men interested.

KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, May 30.—Col. John A. Cross, veteran Northwest Missouri lawyer, died at his home at Lathrop. Col. Cross, 85 years of age, was the father of five sons, all lawyers. Four of them survive. The widow and two daughters also survive.

Col. Cross, who served four years with the Union Army in the Civil War, was believed to have been the last survivor of the first Democratic State convention after the war. He was prosecuting attorney for ten years and also served in the State Legislature.

Guilty, with punishment of death by hanging, was the verdict returned at St. Joseph by a jury in the case of Ivan Hersh, charged with a statutory crime in which his daughter, 13 years of age, was the prosecuting witness. Hersh is 48 years of age. It was the second trial of the case, the jury at the first trial having failed to agree.

Mayor Stigall of St. Joseph, and a committee of citizens, appointed to act in an advisory capacity, have decided to ask the voters to authorize an issue of $2,000,000 in bonds for the purpose of extending the main sewer system, paving boulevards, grading parks and beautifying the grounds of the new City Hall. A special election will be called in July for submitting the proposal.

Charles E. Hall, 73 years of age, of Russell, Kan., member of the Lucky Seven Oil Company, and widely known member of State political and Masonic Lodge circles, died suddenly yesterday on a train near Wamego. For more than thirty years he was active in community and State affairs.

INDIANAPOLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—Booth Tarkington, Hoosier novelist, Mrs. Tarkington and her sister, Miss Louise Keifer, together with six servants, left today for Kennebunkport, Me., where Mr. Tarkington goes each year to avoid the scorching Indiana summers. He plans to do no heavier work than short stories this summer and says he contemplates no new novels for many months.

The First National Bank of Noblesville has been closed. Directors say checks totaling $119,000 given by H. G. Steinbrenner, president of the Steinbrenner Rubber Company of Noblesville, against his original deposits, were honored, but when the checks reached the Chicago clearinghouse, they were returned marked "not honored." Steinbrenner has turned over to a committee of creditors the company's plant in this city and also all stock on hand said to consist of several thousand automobile tires.

Loss estimated at more than $250,000 resulted at the south plant of the Kokomo Steel and Wire Company there in a fire that started in the cleaning-room of the nail division. The fire is believed to have been caused by an accumulation of dust.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fiebderjohn, 28 and 25 years of age respectively, and their 10-month-old baby were killed at Cox's Crossing, south of Columbus, Ind., when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a southbound Pennsylvania train.

ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, May 30.—A request by attorneys for the defunct Night and Day Bank that they be allowed an additional $10,000 fee for service has been taken under advisement by Circuit Judge Ittner. Attorneys assisting in the bank's liquidation already have received $45,000 in fees, Mayor Miller being one of them.

Charles P. Bland, 46 years of age, real estate dealer, and his second wife, Mrs. Evelyn Fox Bland, 30, were arrested at the Hotel Coronado as a result of a complaint made by his first wife, Mrs. Isabelle H. Bland, 5061 Washington Boulevard. Mrs. Bland said she and Bland had been separated for three years. She said Bland went to Yucatan and obtained a divorce without her knowledge and then married his present wife. She insisted that Yucatan divorces are not recognized in Missouri and she still is Bland's wife.

Culminating a prolonged illness, during which he suffered five paralytic strokes, Judge Henry Lamm, 79 years of age, former Missouri Supreme Court judge, one-time president of the Missouri Bar Association and a Republican nominee for Governor in 1916, died at his home at Sedalia.

A half-score or more Sedalians who purchased cars from the Homer Hall Garage, which has been closed, are learning that the cars that they bought as free of incumbrance are really not their cars, but belong to various loan companies.

LOUISVILLE

LOUISVILLE, May 30.—Mrs. Katie Klapheke, who died the 17th inst., distributed an estate of $90,000 by her will probated before County Judge Henry I. Fox. She divided the estate into six equal shares among her children, J. W. Klapheke, a son, qualified as executor. Jordan T. Stewart named his wife, Annie Stewart, beneficiary of a $25,000 estate.

Word from Owensboro says the worst spring drought in many years is prevailing throughout the Green River district. All farm work is weeks late and if there is not a good soaking within a few days, the loss that will be suffered by the farmers will run into thousands of dollars. In some sections of Daviess county there has been no rain for more than five weeks. It has been necessary for the farmers to discontinue the planting of corn. There is no indication of an early setting out of tobacco plants. All of the tobacco plants are backward. In some sections farmers are hauling water for their young orchards. There probably has been less rain this spring than during any spring in ten years.

A call has been issued to Rev. John Logan, 47 years of age, of Louisville to become pastor of the Madison-Avenue Presbyterian Church in Louisville. He is to succeed Rev. Walker F. Vance, Dr. Vance will assume charge of a church in Freeport, Ill.

Studebaker Big Six "Sheriff" sets astounding new record

With speed as high as 81 miles per hour, stock Studebaker model sets fastest overland record ever established between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City

THE famous Studebaker Big Six "Sheriff" has smashed, by 7 hours and 26 minutes, the best previous record for overland travel between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City.

Bucking heavy winds, drenched in a downpour of rain for 150 miles, fighting roads ripped to pieces by heavy cloudbursts, this stock Studebaker, owned and driven by Ab Jenkins—a Salt Lake City contractor—established a time record which only the aeroplane has equaled.

Leaving Los Angeles at 3 A. M., April 12, Jenkins, accompanied by Ray L. Peck of Salt Lake City, headed the Big Six "Sheriff" from a point in Los Angeles, 250 feet above sea level, to Cedar City, an elevation of 6220 feet. A steady upgrade pull of 413 miles!

Test of Big Six stamina

Over pot-holed roads which would have meant suicide to most cars—up mountain grades made slippery and treacherous by the constant downpour—around washed-out bridges by dangerous detours—the Big Six drove ahead without faltering.

Despite these handicaps, Jenkins checked in at Salt Lake City at 8:17 P. M.—the same day of his departure from Los Angeles. The 781 miles between the two cities had been covered in exactly 16 hours and 17 minutes—an average of 48 miles per hour! To maintain this average under the prevailing weather and road conditions, speed as high as 81 miles per hour was attained!

The car was a stock model Big Six which had been run less than a thousand miles. In spite of the speed, climbing and rugged road conditions, gasoline consumption averaged 12.3 miles per gallon, and only 3 quarts of oil were consumed. No water was added to the radiator during the entire trip.

Log of the Run

Distance covered	781 miles
Time	16 hours, 17 minutes
Average speed	48 miles per hour
Fastest speed attained	81 miles per hour
Fastest train time	24 hours, 25 minutes
Best fastest train	8 hours, 8 minutes
Previous record (Also set by Studebaker)	23 hrs., 43 min.
Best previous record	7 hours, 26 minutes

Power—at a One-Profit price

It is not surprising that the Studebaker Big Six should triumph in this demonstration demanding the utmost in power and endurance. With more than fifty makes of American cars on the market, only seven equal the Big Six in rated horsepower. And they sell for two to four times its price. None, regardless of price, equals the Big Six in long, dependable service—proved conclusively by the hundreds of Big Sixes with records of 100,000 miles and over!

Because of its brilliant performance and unfailing dependability—plus exceptional value made possible by One-Profit manufacture—the Big Six is today the world's fastest-selling high-powered car.

Ride in a Big Six

If you have never driven a Big Six, there's a treat in store for you—a thrill in its surge of smooth power; a revelation in its ease of handling and luxurious riding comfort. We invite you to sit behind the wheel of a Big Six. Come in or phone. You will be under no obligation to buy.

Any one of these Big Sixes may be purchased out of income at time-payment rates as low as any known to the automobile world

Duplex-Roadster, $1785; Sport-Roadster (4-pass.) $1915; Sport-Phaeton ("Sheriff,") $1845; Duplex-Phaeton, $2070; Club Coupe, $1925; Sedan (5-pass.) $2190; Coupe, $2360; Sedan (7-pass.) $2465; Brougham, $2410; Berline, $2545.

All Prices Delivered for Cash in Los Angeles

Studebaker Big Six

is the world's fastest-selling high-powered car

Because—volume production on a quality basis enables us to sell the Big Six for less than half the price of any other car of equal rated horsepower

FEW motor car "manufacturers" have foundries, forges, etc., to make their own engines—yet one-fifth of an automobile's cost is in the engine. Even fewer build their own bodies—yet one-third of a car's cost is in the body.

Studebaker builds all its own bodies, all engines, all clutches, gear sets, springs, differentials, steering gears, brakes, axles, gray-iron castings and drop forgings. Only Ford in the low-price field and Studebaker in the four-car field have such complete manufacturing facilities.

One-Profit value

These facilities enable Studebaker to manufacture quality cars on a One-Profit basis—eliminating outside profits. The savings thus effected are passed on to Studebaker owners in the form of higher quality and lower price.

Always kept up-to-date

Direct manufacturing control enables Studebaker to keep cars constantly up-to-date. We add improvements regardless of the calendar—we do not save them up for spectacular annual announcements which make cars artificially obsolete. For an illustrated booklet, "The Arizona Sheriff," describing Studebaker's service in the maintenance of law and order, and for a beautiful colored catalog of Big Six Studebakers, drop a postal or a letter to The Studebaker Corporation of America, South Bend, Ind. HOLD UP WORK ON CROSSINGS

Glendale Citizens in Favor of Postponement

Desire Flood Question be Settled First

Submit Bond Issue at Next Election

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, May 30.—Postponement for five years of a start on the grade-separation program, covering the proposed crossings over the Southern Pacific tracks between Dayton avenue, Los Angeles, and the northern city limits of Glendale, will be asked of the State Railroad Commission when that body meets on June 4 to consider the method to be adopted to eliminate fifteen grade crossings between these two points.

Resolutions condemning the proposal to start work on the grade-crossing problem until it can be linked up with a comprehensive plan to include flood control and rapid transit, were unanimously adopted last night at a meeting sponsored by the Atwater Improvement Association, the South Brand Business Men's Association and the Los Feliz and Park-avenue Improvement associations, held in the Atwater school, with C. E. Michael, president of the Atwater organization, in the chair.

Councilman Charles H. Randall outlined the plans under way to include a flood-control bond issue on the ballot at the August primaries or at the general election in November, and declared that flood control must be worked out before any practicable solution of the grade-crossing problem can be reached.

J. A. Winans, secretary of the Motor Truck Speedway Association that is behind the movement to build a truck highway alongside the Los Angeles River to tap the San Fernando Valley, declared that the city of Los Angeles would not accept deeds to the proposed right of way for the speedway until the flood-control situation could be settled.

Two plans were embodied in the report of the engineers appointed by the State Railroad Commission to make a survey of the grade-separation question, one calling for the submergence of the Southern Pacific tracks and the other for the individual treatment of each of the fifteen highways where it is proposed to run the roads under or over the railroad tracks. The latter, which has been described as the "gopher-hole" plan, has aroused intense opposition among property owners in South Glendale and Atwater.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

RIVERSIDE, May 30. — With the stars of the Cheyenne frontier day and the Pendleton round-up as the principal attractions, devotees of the outdoor arena from all parts of Southern California are expected to make the journey to Riverside today for the great rodeo to be staged in the Riverside county fairgrounds.

Headed by Hank Potts, of "outlaw" riding fame, the list of star buckeroos who will be seen in action tomorrow afternoon includes such celebrities as Sam Garrett, Cheyenne, Salt Lake and Pendleton lariat contest winner; Ed Wright, for six years trick-riding champion at Cheyenne; Bob Erickson, of steer-riding fame; Bill Yarbone, Ben Corbett, Deacon Whitmore, Ray Kane, Frank Gusky, Andrew Jauregui and others.

A list of famous feminine rodeo stars will be headed by Bonnie Gray, internationally famed trick rider; Vera McGinnis, just returned from a world tour; Mabel Carlson, Thelma Coates and others.

Bob Anderson, who is directing the affair, yesterday completed the assembling of a great remuda of unridden range stock, augmented by new all-star performers in the way of so-called "outlaw" broncos that are expected to bring into play all the tricks of the experts in chaperajoes.

The program of events arranged by Anderson includes not only bronco busting, trick riding and roping, but flat, relay and pursuit races, wild-cow-milking contests, trick-mule stunts, steer-riding competitions and other stunts of a humorous nature.

Anderson has made arrangement through which the entire grand stand and bleachers of the fair grounds will be available to the crowd without increased cost of admission.

NATION GUARDS MAY USE DOUGLAS PLANES

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, May 30.—Possibility that the United States National Guard will be equipped with Douglas airplanes from the Santa Monica factory, was expressed here today by Donald Douglas, president of the concern, on leaving for a month's conference with government officials at the national capital.

Conferences with heads of the navy, army, postal and other departments are on the schedule. The Douglas company has filled large contracts with these departments, and this year's output of the Santa Monica-built airships is said by air authorities to be epochal in the industry.

PLANS FOR ANNAPOLIS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

OWENSMOUTH, May 29.—E. L. Marshall, Owensmouth youth, is planning to attend the naval school at Annapolis. Recently at the training school at San Diego, he passed the competitive examination with high honors. He is well known socially in many of the towns in San Fernando Valley.

HERE'S BACKING FOR BIG FISH STORY

Jack Meyers and His Catch

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HERMOSA BEACH, May 30—A. J. Salter can back up his story of the second largest fish ever caught in Santa Monica Bay with proof, which takes this story immediately out of the usual category.

Salter's catch, a Jewish, was made with a twenty-one-strand line, 12-0 hook, after two hours and forty minutes of angling off the barge Olympic, operating from this wharf.

The fish weighs 612 pounds and is eight feet, nine inches long. The largest on record for Santa Monica Bay waters is 558 pounds.

Second Annual Fair Plan of Valley School

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, May 29.—The catalogue and premium list of the second annual fair that is to be conducted by the Van Nuys High School in a large tent and in the gymnasium of the school, are completed and in circulation. The fair will be held on June 4, with added features over the displays of last year.

Officers this year are C. N. Guellow, D. Smalley, W. McCartney, M. Kibbe and R. Holloway.

The various exhibit departments will be under the direction of W. Dufel, C. Reisig, D. McHenry, T. Martocchi, J. E. Evans, F. Whitsett, H. Naylor, K. Cocke, Edna Etterman and J. Partridge.

All members of the agriculture classes and the agriculture clubs in the school are eligible to exhibit. Awards will be given for firsts, seconds and thirds in all classes.

Among the exhibit departments will be those of rabbits, pigeons, poultry, goats, agricultural field crops, dairy cows, farm mechanics and flowers and plants, and in each department there will be various classes eligible to awards.

STREET RAILWAY TO BUILD EXTENSION

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VERNON, May 30.—The City Trustees of Vernon have passed an ordinance granting the Los Angeles Street Railway Company a franchise to construct a double-track extension on Leonis avenue, which is also known as Forty-ninth street, to the central manufacturing district, which will give an outlet to a district which had a large number of manufacturing concerns and more being constructed, these factories employing many hundreds of people.

The frahchise permits the operation of the yellow cars for a term of fifty years.

Recently Pacific Boulevard was paved and at the Forty-ninth-street intersection, a switch was installed, which will permit connection when the extension is made. The city at the present time is paving Forty-ninth street to the manufacturing district and the center of the street is being left unpaved, thus permitting the laying of trackage when ready without the necessity of disturbing the paving.

DE MOLAY CHAPTERS MEET IN HANFORD

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HANFORD, May 30.—The seven De Molay chapters of the San Joaquin Valley will hold their annual De Molay day in this city on June 5. The program includes a swimming meet and a grand ball. The big silver cup, donated by Hanford chapter, which was won last year by Tulare chapter, will be presented to the newest winner, unless Tulare wins again. Arrangements for the event were made at Porterville, where the Associated De Molay Chapters of Central California was formed to conduct the annual meeting in the future. The next meeting will be held in Visalia June 25.

OPEN VENICE BRANCH OF PUBLIC LIBRARY

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, May 30.—Opening of the Venice branch of the Los Angeles Public Library is promised by July 1, according to a letter from Everett R. Perry, Los Angeles librarian, to W. Y. Thornbury, chairman of the Venice library committee, which has been working on the matter since annexation. The letter reveals that $5000 has been appropriated for books and equipment for the Venice branch. This, added to available books and material, will make a fine start, according to Venetians who have worked for the library. Sites for the new branch, centrally located, are being considered by the committee.

LEGAL STATUS IN DOUBT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, May 30.—What may result in a complete reorganization of the city school system for administrative and tax purposes affecting the present status of the Julia C. Lathrop and the Frances E. Willard junior high schools, is an opinion handed down by Atty.-Gen. Webb to the effect that establishment of junior high schools in the Santa Ana High School District is not authorized by law.

The opinion of the State official is in consonance with a recent ruling of Dist.-Atty. Nelson holding that the Santa Ana Board of Education has no authority under law to establish and maintain junior high schools. Ever since the two junior high schools were established in this city there has been some doubt as to their legal status.

School authorities have maintained that they have a right to operate such schools, basing their stand on opinions handed down by the office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction. A different view has been taken by the District Attorney who in an opinion to the Board of Education holds that it has no authority to create junior high schools. In supporting his opinion the Attorney-General cites the California school law which states expressly that the only high school districts authorized to form junior high schools are county school districts, union high school districts and joint union high school districts, and only upon approval of a majority of the Board of Trustees of the elementary school districts comprising the high school district. Inquiries at the Board of Education offices elicited the information that the opinion will not change the present system of maintaining the Julia C. Lathrop and the Frances E. Willard schools. The seventh and the eighth grades will be under the elementary school law and the ninth grade under the provisions of the high school law, it was explained.

EXECUTIVE OF CHANNEL CITY QUITS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, May 30.—City Manager Haskell has submitted his written resignation to Mayor Adrian, the latter announced today. This is the second step in city politics recently to cause widespread comment. The first was the petition filed with the City Clerk to recall Councilman Sweeney. On resigning Haskell said that he did not desire to be mixed up with the impending political fight.

It was announced yesterday that petitions are out for the recall of Mayor Adrian, and Sweeney is credited with the statement that he understands petitions are being circulated to recall all Councilmen.

The petition against Sweeney is based on his opposition to the action of David Gray, millionaire of Detroit and Santa Barbara, in donating a $110,000 beach pavilion to the city.

OPPOSE SCHOOL PLAN

Member of Board Not in Favor of $90,000 Bond Issue

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ARCADIA, May 30.—Dr. Carrie Eaton, ranking member of the Arcadia School Board, is opposed to the contemplated $90,000 school bond issue, to be voted on June 18, it was learned today when a statement from the school board became public. Dr. Eaton's signature does not appear on the statement of plans for use of the bond money.

Her objections were voiced today to the board's plans for enlarging the First avenue school plant and purchasing ground for a new school in West Arcadia.

Dr. Eaton contends that a West Arcadia school should be erected and eliminate school bus lines, rather than enlarging the centralized plant on First avenue; also that the West Arcadia site, now designated on Duarte Road, should not be on or near a heavily-traveled boulevard.

Dr. Eaton is a veteran leader in school affairs and her opposition is expected to cause a serious split on the bond issue, which was previously voted down by a big majority.

BIGGEST COT SEASON

Kings County Harvests From Four Thousand Acres

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HANFORD, May 30.—The biggest season for apricots in the history of Kings county is now on, with 4000 acres of that crop in the county yielding a fair-sized crop at excellent prices. The California Packing Corporation opens its big packing plant in this city next Wednesday and a three-weeks run, employing a large force, is announced.

On the same day the large Kings County Packing Company's plant at Armona begins on apricots and is expected to continue until peaches come in about the first of July. Several carloads of fresh "cots" are being shipped east daily out of this county.

Drying of "cots" will commence about the middle of June. The good price of 17 cents per pound for dried fruit is being offered, but not generally accepted by the growers. There is a good demand for all kinds of deciduous fruits this year, fresh and dried, and prices are correspondingly high to the delight of the fruit growers and the business people of the San Joaquin valley as well.

TRIED TO HELP TRAFFIC COP

Speeder Drove Fast to Stop Autoist Driving Faster

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

MONTEREY PARK, May 30.—Traffic Officer W. J. Young is accustomed to ordinary excuses from offending motorists and some excuses that may be set down as unusual. But the one he got today topped the list in originality.

Young arrested Lloyd Robinson, Los Angeles negro, for speeding. The colored man agreed with the officer as to the wisdom of the speed limits, assured him that he always traveled at a slow rate but that on this occasion a friend in a car ahead of him was going too fast. So, Robinson, he informed the officer, set out to catch the friend and inform him that he was breaking the law.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

RESEDA, May 29.—Announcement of another payment of 50 cents a hundredweight to baby lima bean growers is made by John H. Walters, manager of the valley association. Payments will aggregate about $10 a sack for last season's crop, it is asserted. The payment will be made on June 15, next, and the final 1925 crop payment will follow as soon as all seed reserves are sold and planting requirements filled.

Growers will not receive as much for the 1925 crop as they did for the year previous, because of poor market conditions at critical times in the selling campaign. The valley association is again renewing its effort to get new members into the organization. The larger bean acreage is constantly being subdivided for ranch homes and small property holdings, and it is stated that the ultimate development of co-operative bean marketing will find its best basis among the smaller acreage growers in this and adjacent sections.

COUNTRY ESTATE TO BE SCENE OF PARTY

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, May 30.—Grounds surrounding the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Kramer, Rosemont avenue, La Crescenta, will be the scene of a garden party to be given in aid of the Episcopal Church at La Crescenta, St. Luke's of the Mountains, on the afternoon of Thursday, June 3, from 2 to 6 o'clock, when the members of the guild will seek to raise funds for the benefit of the church activities.

Fancy articles of many kinds will be on sale, as well as cooked food, home-made candy, flowers and refreshments, and a program of entertainment is also scheduled for presentation.

Mr. Kramer was formerly one of the leading dancing instructors in Los Angeles for more than thirty years, and since his retirement to Las Crescenta has decorated the spacious grounds around his home with what is declared to be one of the finest collections of modern statuary in this region.

COL. HYER NAMED TO SCHOOL POST

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, May 30.—Col. Benjamin B. Hyer, United States Army, retired, has been assigned by the War Department to duty at Polytechnic High School here as commandant of the R.O.T.C. unit, it was announced today. He will succeed Capt. James C. Gunn, the present commander, who is to be transferred to an army post either at San Francisco or Cheyenne, Wyo.

Col. Hyer was graduated from West Point in 1893 and has an enviable record of achievement in the Army. He retired in 1922 at his own request because of illness of his wife. He served throughout the war as a lieutenant-colonel and later a colonel of cavalry.

VANDALS STEAL LIFE-SAVING APPARATUS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SANTA MONICA, May 30.—Regarded as thievery of the class rated lowest in the scale of crime, Santa Monica police are hot on the trail of vandals who stole floats and ropes used for life-guarding purposes at points along the local beach. Several life cans and sections of rope, vitally important when human life is in danger in rip tides, have been taken, and life guards are working with the police. Quick capture is expected in the case.

WILD DRIVERS HELD IN JAIL

Arrest Follows Serious Smash Near Oxnard

Injured Man is Rushed to Hospital

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OXNARD, May 30. — Alfred Turbett, 24 years of age, son of Thomas Turbett, prominent rancher of this district, is in St. John's Hospital here in a serious condition following an automobile accident near El Rio early this morning and Fred Burch and Melvin Sharp, well-known Venturans are in the City Jail charged with carrying concealed weapons and with intoxication. There is also an assault and battery charge involved.

According to witnesses, young Turbett, while en route to Saticoy, stopped at a service station on Vineyard avenue near El Rio to fill the gasoline tank. He proceeded to the highway when a machine, traveling at a high rate of speed came along the road, swerved and crashed into the Turbett car. Turbett was alone in the car at the time. The force of the impact forced him through the windshield and he fell at the side of the road as his car turned turtle against a fence.

Turbett was terribly injured, one of the spokes of the steering wheel causing several nasty gashes in his face. He was cut by broken glass and injured when he struck the ground. The other machine, said to have been driven by Fred Burch, was considerably damaged. Buch and his companion, Melvin Sharp, were only slightly injured. They staggered over to the Turbett car, it was reported, and helped the service-station attendant carry Turbett inside.

Constable Henry Helmold was notified and investigated the affair. He had the injured man taken to St. John's Hospital. Constable Helmold discovered that both Burch and Sharp were armed with heavy-caliber revolvers. Chief of Police H. W. Johnson and Officer Glen Waggoner were called and assisted Constable Helmold after it was reported the two men threatened two motorists who had been left in charge of Turbett's car. Chief Johnson made a search for the concealed weapons and found a German automatic on Burch. Sharp, it was said, threw his gun away when he learned the Oxnard police were on their way to the scene. Both men were brought to Oxnard and locked up in the City Jail. They will be brought before a justice on Tuesday and will have several charges to answer.

Speaker Links Aviation With Good Highways

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, May 30.—Linking up the airplanes with great transcontinental highways such as the Bankhead and Lincoln routes, and the evolution of the airplane from a daredevil's break-neck stunt machine into a mail, passenger and freight carrier of amazing speed and efficiency, will be the topic of Col. W. Jefferson Davis, noted air authority, on the program of the United States Good Roads convention, opening in Santa Monica June 7.

Col. Davis, San Diego attorney with a record in the Army Air Service, was one of the first to urge air-mail service, according to Director-General J. A. Rountree of the United States Good Roads Association. "Following the great southern highway routes, open 365 days of the year, airplanes will follow a course between Washington and the Pacific Coast, which is mapped out beneath them in highway ribbons of white," Col. Rountree declared. He asserted that the information Col. Davis will impart at the convention will be of tremendous interest both to developers of air and land routes. "With Santa Monica an established aviation and highway center," Rountree said, "I feel sure of a large audience to hear Col. Davis.

"Santa Monica is the home of the Douglas company and Clover Field, and also Santa Monica was rated by the California State Highway Commission as the spot carrying the heaviest highway motor traffic during 1925. That land routes are to be linked closely with air routes in the future is evidenced by the increasing interest of railroads and highway organizations in airplane development."

READY TO HARVEST LAKE WHEAT CROP

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

CORCORAN, May 30.—Harvesting will commence this week on the grain crop on the Tulare Lake bed, west of here, and will continue steadily for several weeks till the crop is all harvested. It is ripening the same as fruits, unusually early this year. Samples brought out of the lake by Farm Adviser Wallace Sullivan show grain four feet high with well-filled heads which promise a heavy yield. There are 25,000 acres of this quality grain, which has been irrigated from large pumping plants, some of which were installed this last winter.

GRADUATE JUNE 13

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

MONROVIA, May 30.—The largest senior class in the history of the Monrovia-Arcadia-Duarte High School, numbering 116, will be graduated during the week of June 13. The largest previous class numbered eighty-five. Frank Walter Allen, editor and publicist, will deliver the graduation address on June 17, and Rev. C. R. Montague, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will give the baccalaureate sermon, in his church on June 13.

WHAT FOR IS A HORSE TROUGH?

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SOUTH PASADENA, May 30.—Standing out as a shocking blot on an otherwise spotless civic escutcheon, South Pasadena's horse drinking trough at Meridian avenue and Mission street, right across from the Santa Fe station, is in distinctly bad odor again and is causing no end of community indignation.

The Business Men's Association has pilloried the thing; the Woman's Club has petitioned that it be torn down, and unless action is forthcoming it begins to look as though there might be the very dickens to pay.

You can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink, the saying goes. This isn't the half of it in South Pasadena. In the first place, you can't lead a horse to water when there aren't any horses. In the second place, you can't make him drink when there isn't any water in the fountain.

Finally, in addition to being an antique eyesore in the center of town, the indignant city leaders say, the horse trough collects rain water, which runs down into a cesspool, and the city ordinance distinctly forbids cesspools.

The fountain, so maligned today, was twenty years ago proudly presented to the city by the Woman's Improvement Association as a delicate courtesy to the horses that used to be tied in the square when their masters met the trains.

LIBRARY PASTE IS FAVORITE TID-BIT

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, May 30.—When Will Rogers, in announcing his candidacy for Governor of Oklahoma, pledged himself to the cause of providing more pleasant flavors in postage stamp glue, his admirers pointed to this plank in his platform as evidence of Rogers's singular devotion to the public welfare.

But Will reckoned without the Mexican schoolchildren of Pasadena, and a flaw now appears in his worthy plan. For it seems that the delicate wintergreen flavor of the paste used in the public schools here is so tempting to the palates of the Mexican children in the Junipero Serra school that some of them have taken to eating it in lieu of more conventional forms of sustenance.

F. Roderick Abbott, purchasing agent for the schools, had been congratulating himself on the delightful and superior aroma of the new paste, but now he is seeking a confection not quite so dainty.

NEW MASONIC LODGE TO ERECT BUILDING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LA HABRA, May 30.—Erection of a Masonic Temple in La Habra is expected to get under way by July, according to opinions of members of the recently organized lodge here.

Members of the building committee are discussing plans for the proposed structure and it is expected that their recommendations, scheduled to be made in the next few weeks, will meet with the approval of the membership.

Officers of the new lodge were named at a meeting held this week. Those chosen are: Worshipful Master, W. A. Linsdell; Senior Warden, H. C. Dohrman; Junior Warden, N. M. Launer; A. J. Young, secretary.

Judge Lands Ocean Denizen After Struggle

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, May 30.—After forty minutes of livelier fighting than ever took place in his divorce court, Superior Judge Summerfield yesterday brought to gaff a jewfish weighing 450 pounds.

The judge hooked into the sea monster while fishing off this city in Capt. Henderson's steel fishing barge and then the fun began.

The tackle on which the fish was captured was a twenty-four-strand line and standard jewfish tackle. After the capture the judge received with his customary modesty the plaudits of the multitude.

TO BUILD MOUNTAIN HIGHWAY

County Plans Scenic Drive Over High Peaks North of Upland

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, May 30.—Linking San Antonio and Lytle Creek canyons and penetrating a picturesque virgin country, a road across the crest of the mountains north of Upland will be constructed by prison labor, Supervisor C. E. Grier of Upland announced today.

Work on the road, one of the most extensive mountain projects in years, will begin within a few weeks when the county prison camp will be transferred from its present location in Mill Creek Canyon to Manker Flats. The highway will be an extension of the San Antonio Canyon route leading from Upland and Ontario to Camp Baldy and on to Ice House Canyon in the shadow of Old Baldy.

The prison gang uses modern power shovels and road-building machinery. The road across the summit will traverse the Sierra Club holdings in the beautiful country north of the range and continue into the upper Lytle Creek Canyon. The route will open up a vast territory to motorists, providing a new scenic highway and serving the United States Forestry Department with an artery of transportation during the summer months in case of forest fires.

START NEW CHURCH AT ALHAMBRA

Presbyterian Congregation to Begin Work on New $250,000 Edifice

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, May 30.—Today was a red-letter day in the history of the Alhambra Presbyterian Church when ground was broken for the first unit of a new $250,000 church plant on East Commonwealth avenue between Garfield and First. The ceremony was conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the presence of practically the entire congregation of the church, and was presided over by the pastor, Rev. S. J. Kennedy.

The building, which is to be erected at once, will cost $127,000 and will contain the Sunday-school and educational departments. R. Westcott Company has the contract. The main auditorium will be erected later and will face Garfield avenue. The first unit will be occupied for regular services as soon as completed, as it will contain a large auditorium. The present building on South Second street will be sold.

Today's ground-breaking service included brief addresses by Dr. W. S. Fulton and Dr. W. S. Middlemass. The honor of turning the first shovelfuls of earth went to Mrs. Margaret B. Anderson and Mrs. A. A. Dinsmore.

The Alhambra Presbyterian Church was organized thirty-nine years ago and is the second oldest church in Alhambra.

ROAD THROUGH HILLS NEARING COMPLETION

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

CAHUENGA PARK, May 30.—Work on the extension of South Sherman Way, from Ventura Boulevard, through the Santa Monica hills into the Beverly district is nearing completion. This will be the new route to connect Van Nuys and other parts of Central San Fernando Valley with the beach districts, south of here. When finished the new road will connect with Van Nuys Boulevard that part of Sherman Way that recently was renamed by action of the Los Angeles City Council. It is understood that an effort is going to be made also to name the extension road "Van Nuys Boulevard," as one important thoroughfare to serve to lead traffic from the beach districts into Van Nuys and the San Fernando Valley sections.

Pasadena Tourist Hotels Still Full

Another Proof Advertising Brings Results

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent.

PASADENA, May 30.—Evidence of the successful results attending the campaign of the Automobile Club and other agencies in telling the world about Southern California's charms as a summer resort is already apparent in the extraordinarily large number of guests at Pasadena's big tourist hotels.

Notwithstanding the fact that this summer for the first time the Huntington is adopting the policy of remaining open the year 'round, all of the large hotels report more guests than is usual at the first of June. At the Hotel Green, for instance, Manager J. M. Murfee says that the registration is 50 per cent greater than it was at this time last year.

Many of the visitors are from Eastern States, convinced of what residents here have always known—that Southern California is an ideal summer resort as well as a winter playground, as it is now generally regarded.

Significant Southern California converts are Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Hooker of New York who are at the Huntington with their children and Mrs. Hooker's mother, Mrs. F. Holland. They are seasoned travelers and after having visited most of the globe, have decided to make a protracted stay in Pasadena. Their young son, who already seen more of the world than is the lot of most men in a lifetime, having crossed the Atlantic three times, though only 18 months old.

In addition to the many guests from eastern cities who are now at the Huntington, Vista del Arroyo, Maryland and Green hotels, there are a number of visitors from Pacific Coast cities.

Plan to Tax Oil Derricks in Beach City

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent.

LONG BEACH, May 30.—The City Council has discovered a way to put an additional $35,000 to $40,000 a year into the City Treasury and the license committee of the Council is now at work on a plan to bring it about. Oil operators owning wells and derricks in the Signal Hill and Los Cerritos fields are the objects of the City Hall's most recent attention. Under the money-raising plan it is proposed that the city impose a license fee on all oil derricks within the corporate limits of Long Beach.

There are about 700 derricks in the city, and under the plan, it is proposed to assess derrick owners an annual license fee of $50 for each derrick. It was pointed out to the Council that large sums of money will have to be spent by the city to restore streets in the oil district made impassable by heavy oil trucks and the overflow of waste oil and water. By means of the proposed license fee or assessance, much of this cost will be placed on the oil operators responsible for the street condition, it was said.

Azusa Post Arranges Interesting Program Today

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

AZUSA, May 30.—With only a few days to go, the entire personnel of the American Legion Post No. [illegible] of Azusa, assisted by a special committee from the Chamber of Commerce, is speeding up the arrangements for a man's-size rodeo to be staged at Azusa on July 4 and 5. A tract of twenty acres has been laid out for the grounds of the main events, while an adjoining field will be prepared for the parking of thousands of automobiles.

Manager Roy Arhelger, in signing rodeo headliner, is planning to accommodate approximately 5000 spectators during the two days' holiday. Contracts have been let for bleacher seating to encircle the quarter-mile track, which will insure a splendid view of every event. As this Liberty rodeo is planned to be an annual affair, the comfort of spectators has been made a major item.

MORE PAY FOR ALL CITY EMPLOYEES

LOS CERRITOS AREA YIELDING

Deeper Drilling Brings in Satisfactory Flow

Newest Well Producing Oil is Gem No. 2

Field Shows Promise of Excellent Future

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONG BEACH, May 30.—That the Los Cerritos extension of the Signal Hill field, though by operators for a time to be a short-lived small-production area, filled with disappointments, eventually may come into its own as one of the big fields of the Los Angeles basin, is indicated, operators now declare, by the success of the present deep-drilling campaign.

Eleven wells, drilled to the deeper sand which was discovered a few weeks ago by the McKeon No. 1, have been completed at about 4900 feet and practically all of them are producing satisfactory quantities of oil, it is asserted.

The newest of the deep wells to go on production is the Gem No. 2 at American avenue and Cameron Place. It began flowing by heads Friday night at a rate of about 500 barrels a day. The well was shut in Saturday with a view to building up the gas pressure and increasing the flow. Pressure on the casing was 300 pounds.

A. C. Montenegro, Jr., San Francisco banker, and Secondo Guasti, Southern California vineyardist, both officers of the owning company, were present at the well yesterday.

Three other wells have just joined the ranks of the deep drillers in the Signal Hill extension, with a total of fifty-eight rigs engaged either in producing, drilling or swabbing at the deep level. The O'Donnell No. 49 at Atlantic avenue and Wardlow Road, the California Petroleum Corporation's Green No. 1, at American avenue north of Wardlow, and the Julian Petroleum Corporation, Burnham and Green No. 1 at Linden avenue and Crest Drive, are the new holes to be deepened.

Considerable promise for the future of the Los Cerritos area is seen in the action of the Lacy & McLachlan well on Congressman Walter Lineberger's property. Completed from the deep sand on Friday with an initial yield of 400 barrels, it boosted its production to the 1000-barrel figure yesterday.

LURE OF OIL SHUNNED BY BLACKFEET

Tribe in Glacier Park Sticks to Agriculture Despite Temptation

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GLACIER PARK (Mont.) May 30.—The Indian Department pays high tribute to the stability of the Blackfeet Indians who, even in the face of promised wealth from oil wells, have stuck to their farming program with a steadfastness that has resulted in a remarkable agricultural development for the tribe through the Glacier National Park reservation.

The Indians have good reason to believe that they are apt to fall heir to much greater wealth than Nature bestowed upon the tribes which happened to hold the oil lands of Oklahoma.

Eight thousand acres in the Two Medicine Valley of Glacier National Park, twelve miles southeast of Cut Bank, Mont., have been leased by an oil company which, this spring is beginning its explorations for oil. A well-defined dome has been mapped on the land.

The Indian Department is of the opinion that sudden riches for the Blackfeet might result in the wholesale buying of modern farm implements, but that it never would stampede them into wasting their money, because they have been diligently following a carefully directed agricultural education program during the last four years, under the direction of Supt. F. C. Campbell. As a result they have their minds pretty well set on what they desire to accomplish along this line, the Indian Department officials say.

EXHIBIT OF COPPER TO BE FEATURE

Arizona to Show Ores and Products at Convention of Purchasing Agents

An exhibit of Arizona copper and its products will be made by the Arizona Industrial Congress in the Ambassador Auditorium, commencing June 9 and ending June 13, on behalf of the Arizona Chapter of the American Mining Congress and the Copper and Brass Research Association.

There will be a showing of copper ores, as taken fro mthe mines, and of the stages of progression, through concentration, smelting and refining, to the manufactured stages, with utilization in the automotive, electrical, building and other industries. Additions will be made by a number of Pacific Coast manufacturing firms.

In charge of the show will be Miss Sharlot M. Hall, of Arizona, who will wear a copper mesh overdress made for her by the Copper and Brass Research Association and worn by her in Washington at the last Presidential inaugural.

Following the Los Angeles convention of coast purchasing agents, the Arizona exhibit will be placed in the main hall of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, there to remain till August, when it will be sent east, to be shown at a national manufacturers' convention.

Promising Test in Progress on Kettleman Hills

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

COALINGA, May 30.—The Bolsa Chica Oil Company's test well in the Kettleman Hills is reported to have 1000 feet of oil in the hole, which is the best showing ever found in that part of Kings county. Depth is 1925 feet, with ten-inch casing, and it is the intention to drill about thirty-five feet deeper before making a pumping test for production. There is no salt water present.

The formation of shale and fine sand has been drilled into thirty-five feet, and deeper drilling will be done in the hope of finding a coarser sand which may carry more oil than the fine sand does.

The Bolsa Chica well is located on Sec. 30, 23-13, a little more than a mile southwest of the 6430-foot test well recently abandoned by the General Petroleum Corporation where considerable gas was encountered at 4700 to 5200 feet, with a little oil. Unless a better sand is found in the Bolsa Chica's test present showings indicate only a small pumper of little commercial value.

Five miles northwest of the Bolsa Chica location the Marland Oil Company, at approximately 5500 feet, is making slow progress, no showings of value having so far been encountered.

MOON ANCHOR ACTIVE

Mine Near Hassayampa Shipping High-Grade Lead Ore

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, May 30.—Four miles southwest of the Tonopah Belmont property, the Moon Anchor has taken out and shipped forty carloads of 33 per cent lead ore. The mine is twenty-eight miles northwest of Hassayampa Station on the Southern Pacific, the shipping point.

Early in June is promised operation of the fifty-ton mill of the Hassayampa Placer Mining Company, on its Independence mine, fourteen miles northeast of Hot Springs Junction and six miles south of the Monte Cristo mine. Twenty-five men now are employed. The mill will include a Marcy rod mill, concentration tables and a flotation machine.

VENTURA OUTPUT GOING UP

Operators Expect Field to Yield More Than 50,000 Barrels Daily Before Fall

It appears from present indications that the Ventura-avenue field, at Ventura, will probably be producing as much as 50,000 barrels of light crude per day, before the end of the summer. It is now turning out between 36,000 and 37,000 barrels per day, with a per well average of more than 700 barrels, from fifty-one producers.

The field has one well of gusher indicate possibilities standing banded up, one in course of completion, with casing trouble, another in course of completion, with water trouble, another which should be brought in some day this week, still another which should be completed within ten days, and several which ought to be on production within thirty days. Five new wells might easily run the daily output over the 50,000-barrel mark.

The Associated Oil Company's Lloyd No. 18, on the south end of the field, should have been on production several days ago, but is reported to have developed some water, either from a faulty cement job or because of damaged casing. The crew expects to spend the next few days searching out the source of the water. It may be necessary to recement.

Associated is running tubing into the Lloyd No. 10, up near the center of the field, and getting ready to complete it some time during this week. The Shell company's Gosnell No. 20, down 5400 feet, is reported near completion, and should be in within ten days. Its Edison No. 5, down 5300 feet, should follow the Gosnell No. 20 in a few days later, field reports indicate.

The Bolsa Chica Oil Company has obtained a perfect water shut-off in its Hartman No. 1 on the north dip of the field, at 4386 feet, and is now down 4508 feet in sand and shale. It is expected that this hole will be completed within the next 500 feet.

The General Petroleum Corporation has spudded in its Barnard No. 2-A. The Associated's Hartman No. 3, north and east of many of the Lloyd producers, is down 4900 feet, in good oil sand, and should be a completion of the near future. The Magenheimer interests are down 2500 feet in their Hartman No. 1, on the north side of the field.

The Milham Exploration Company, drilling on the far east side of the field, is down 4750 feet and has cemented the eight and five-eighths-inch casing. The Petroleum Securities Company, drilling Willett No. 1, in the river bottom on the south dip of the field, is fishing at 4325 feet. Its Orton No. 1, near by, is drilling at about 2700 feet. Several miles west, near the shore line, the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company, drilling the Hobson No. 1 wildcat, has finished a fishing job at 4224 feet, and is ready to resume drilling.

ICHTHYOL TO BE DEVELOPED

Company Formed to Exploit Deposit in Texas Declared to Be Largest Known in World

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BURNET (Tex.) May 30.—What is said to be the largest deposit of ichthyol in the world is situated near here and is to be developed on a large scale by the United States Ichthyol Corporation, which has just been incorporated by Dallas and Denver capitalists.

For several years this deposit of ichthyol has attracted the attention of scientists. It has been exploited to some extent commercially, and much has been done in the matter of prospecting a large area where the oil is found exuding from rock formation. As a result of this prospecting, it is estimated that the 900 acres which the United States Ichthyol Corporation has purchased contains an average of 500,000 pounds of ichthyol oil per acre, or a total of 450,000,000 pounds of the product.

The only other known workable deposit of ichthyol in the world is in the Tyrol Mountains of Austria. The oil from that source sells for more than $5 a pound when delivered in the United States, according to J. M. McClave of Denver, who has just finished exploration and analysis of the deposit near here. It is planned by the company to place the ichthyol mined here upon the market at a much lower price than that which now prevails, he said.

"Ichthyol is one of the oldest known alterative properties used in medicines for external application," continued Mr. McClave. "Ichthyol is a brown, syrupy liquid prepared by the dry distillation of bituminous mineral containing fossil fishes. It is supposed that the huge deposit in Texas resulted from the recession of the gulf, when millions of fishes and other sea animals wers left stranded in the soil.

"In addition to the ichthyol in the strata are highly valuable substances which are used as bases for paints, shellac, varnish, dyes, magnesia and other compounds."

Chemists of the United States government have made a thorough investigation of the ichthyol deposit, and McClave received much assistance from them in his work. Besides an office and laboratory which the company will establish at the mines, general offices and a laboratory will be maintained at Dallas. The latter will be in charge of William H. Mise, acting secretary of the company.

No physical difficulties are involved in mining the deposit near here. It is found in a low hill that covers the entire 900 acres. The company will install a large amount of machinery and equipment upon the property and will employ a big force of men, it is stated. Operations will be started as soon as the necessary buildings can be erected.

The location of this ichthyol deposit is about seventy-five miles northwest of Austin, in the heart of a hilly region that is highly mineralized.

Ramseys Add to Lease Holdings in Texas County

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BOISE CITY (Okla.) May 30.—Sixty-four thousand acres of land have been leased for oil and gas purposes in Cimarron county by Ramsey Brothers of Oklahoma City, and Long Beach, who recently completed their contracts with the State to drill two tests on State lands.

Of this, 44,000 acres was leased from individuals and two 10,000-acre blocks were secured from the State on the basis of two test contracts. Representatives of the firm say that the Ramseys feel so sure of getting oil or gas here that they have invested in half or three-fourths royalties on 35,000 acres of the private lands leased.

In view of oil and gas having been found in Texas Panhandle counties to the south and in sections of southern Kansas and southeastern Colorado to the north, and the virtual proving of a gas area in Texas county, Okla., on the east, Cimarron county has become attractive territory for wildcatters. Four tests are contracted for on State lands—two by the Ramseys, one by the Sinclair Oil and Gas Company and one by Middleton and associates of Tulsa.

SEVEN OIL LEASES IN KERN AREA

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, May 30.—Several hundred acres involving cash and bonuses running into thousands of dollars, are embraced in seven oil leases, agreements and assignments have just been filed with the Kern County Recorder.

Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company has acquired leases on 640 acres of Sec. 26 and 34, 27-28 along Poso Creek from J. R. Dorsey, former Kern county District Attorney. Dorsey acquired the property last week from E. A. Murdoch and Eugene Hon.

F. L. Morris has sold the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of Sec. 10, 27-23 six miles west of Wasco to the California Petroleum Corporation.

R. E. Diggins has leased an additional eighty acres in the Poso area from T. R. Hooper. The property is in Sec. 26, 26-27, Drilling must begin within thirty months.

J. O. Bullock has taken an option of 320 acres on Sec. 24, 28-26 from C. T. Miller, and Margaret Claflin has leased two parcels of land eight miles southeast of Famoso to the Petroleum Supply Company. The land is on Sec. 10, 27-27. Mrs. Claflin will receive a cash bonus of $3200 by June 7. Fourteen wells are to be drilled, according to the agreement and operations must begin within ninety days.

Enlarged Plant of Gold Dust to Operate Shortly

The modernized and enlarged milling plant of the Gold Dust Company at Oatman, Ariz., was turned over to the company last week, and after a few preliminary test runs will be placed in regular and continuous commission.

This is said to be one of the finest and most up-to-date mills in the district, its equipment embracing the latest gold-saving devices and gravational feed. Mill returns are to be converted into gold bars on the ground, thus minimizing the cost of handling the final product of both mine and mill; an economic feature calculated to be reflected in company earnings. Mint returns, it is anticipated, should begin to be received within thirty days.

Goldfield Deep Reports Drill Hits Rich Ore

It is reported in Los Angeles that in the performance of exploratory work in the property of the Goldfield Deep Mines Company at Goldfield, Nev., several ore stringers have been cut in diamond drill hole No. 2, which carry rich gold values.

This hole has reached a depth of 450 feet. It was started from the bottom of the four compartment 2160-foot working shaft at an angle of 60 degrees, or at right angles with the dip of the vein; and, according to Elmer Burt, mine superintendent, is proving the same mineralogical and geological conditions disclosed in sinking drill hole No. 1. This condition, Mr. Burt claims, leaves no doubt as to the ultimate success of this big enterprise.

ANGELENOS IN NEVADA MINE DEAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TONOPAH (Nev.) May 31—Representing Los Angeles capitalists, William Gomm has acquired the Tomboy and Carbonate groups at Quartz Mountain, the scene of Nevada's latest mining rush. The Tomboy group comprises four claims in the heart of the field, while the Carbonate contains three claims toward the Broken Hills section. Two companies are to be formed and vigorous work prosecuted. The Divide Junior Company, controlled by Los Angeles interests, has practically closed negotiations for Quartz Mountain holdings.

The excitement at Quartz Mountain has been fanned by intersection of the main ore body on the 250-foot level of the San Rafael mine, and discoveries of fair-grade ore at a depth of fifty feet in the Hasbrouck and West Divide properties. About twelve miles further south a strong ledge of shipping ore has been opened near the old Illinois mine by Harry Springer and associates. Organization of three companies by George Wingfield and New York associates has been announced, and work is proceeding at approximately thirty properties.

Sinking of a three-compartment vertical shaft on the Union Amalgamated at Manhattan has been started by the Cole-Kirchen syndicate, controlled by Thomas F. Cole and associates of New York. The acreage owned by the company has been increased from one to twenty-six claims, adjoining the White Caps and Manhattan Consolidated mines. The shaft of the White Caps Company is near the 1230-foot point, and cutting of a station at this depth will start shortly, preliminary to extensive lateral developments.

The best ore ever found in the Stud group, near Wadsworth, is reported showing in the tunnel, 700 feet from the portal. The vein is thought to be the extension of rich quarts exposed in the upper workings and shows a width of several feet. The Stud is controlled by Cooley Butler and partners of Los Angeles.

President A. J. McNab of the Mason Valley Mines Company states blowing-in of the Thompson smelter has been delayed to July because of unexpected difficulties in placing the Balaklala copper mine, near Coram, Cal., in operation, but that operations will positively start before July 15, next.

HAUSTECA OIL TURNS IN GUSHER

Output of New Producer in Terra Blanca Field 60,000 Barrels

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TAMPICO (Mexico) May 30.—The campaign for new production, in which all the important companies here are taking part, met with considerable encouragement last week, the Huasteca Petroleum Company completing a 60,000-barrel well in Tierra Blanca, in the light oil district; the Mexican Petroleum Company an 8000-barrel well in Ebano, and a 10,000-barrel well in La Dicha, an extension of the Panuco field; the Tampascos Oil Company, a 20,000-barrel producer on its big tract in Panuco; the Mexican Sinclair a 3000-barrel well in a new part of Panuco, fully a kilometer from the nearest previous production; the Cia. Financiera, allied with the Buckley interests of New York, a 500-barrel well in Pacienda; the Transcontinental a 1000-barrel well in Tanchiquin, and the East Coast a 50-barrel well in Laguna de la Milpa. All the wells with the exception of the Huasteca well are in the heavy oil district, in various parts of the Panuco field.

Thirty-four applications for drilling permits have been filed during the last five days.

Shut-in Output Cuts Coalinga Pipe Line Runs

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

COALINGA, May 30.—If every well in the Coalinga field were regularly producing the field's daily oil output would be approximately 40,000 barrels, but the pipe-line runs averaged in April only 21,011 barrels. The 19,000 barrels a day, which are shut in belong to the Shell company and the Standard Oil Company. The production of small operators is being regularly taken into the lines.

The Superior Oil Company has laid a water line to its property in the southwestern part of the Coalinga field and an oil line is being laid to the northern part of the field to pick up a little more crude. The company's No. 7-A well on Sec. 31, 20-15, near the city's oil lease is making about sixty barrels between 2970 feet and 3100 feet, its steady productiveness not yet having been fully demonstrated.

The Superior Oil Company is deepening its No. 2 well on Sec. 6, 21-15, and its No. 7-A, just to the north on Sec. 31, 20-15, the 180-acre property it bought several months ago. The Shell company is deepening its No. 38 on Sec. 14, 19-15, the Seneca Oil Company is deepening its No. 7 on Sec. 12, 20-14, and the Section Seven Oil Company is redrilling its No. 3 on Sec. 7, 20-15, all in the western part of the field.

PEAK REACHED IN OIL EXPORTS

Thirty-seven Tankers Leave With 2,687,279 Barrels

England to Get Heavy Order for Summer Tourists

Atlantic Side Takes More Than Pacific Ports

Petroleum exports from Los Angeles Harbor hit the high mark for the year thus far during the closing week of May, thirty-seven tanker loads totaling 2,687,279 barrels. This mark for a single week has only been reached a couple of times before in the harbor's history.

A feature of the week's shipments was the fact that 822,625 gallons of Los Angeles gasoline went to England and Germany. This is summer-vacation fuel for motorists. The Atlantic side took more oil than the Pacific side, the comparison being 1,426,885 against 1,260,394 barrels.

Pacific domestic trade took 864,999 barrels, consisting of 632,119 barrels of crude, 66,880 barrels of fuel and 166,000 barrels of gas. The Pacific foreign trade called for 393,395 barrels, consisting of 328,295 barrels of fuel and 65,000 barrels of gas.

The Atlantic domestic trade took 851,656 barrels, composed of 512,825 barrels of crude, 342,833 barrels of fuel and 94,998 barrels of gas. Atlantic foreign requirements took 577,229 barrels, consisting of 111,604 barrels of crude, 142,000 barrels of fuel and 823,625 barrels of gas. The shipments were as follows:

PACIFIC DOMESTIC

Richfield to Oakland with 20,000 barrels of gas for Richfield Oil Company.
La Placentia to Martinez with 76,477 barrels of crude for Union Oil Company.
H. T. Harper to San Diego with 20,000 barrels of gas for Standard Oil Company.
D. G. Scofield to Richmond with 78,000 barrels of crude for Standard Oil Company.
La Purisima to San Diego with 18,000 barrels of gas for Union Oil Company.
H. M. Storer to Richmond with 104,000 barrels of crude for Standard Oil Company.
Lio to Portland with 23,000 barrels of gas for Associated Oil Company.
J. C. Fitzsimmons to Richmond with 79,000 barrels of crude for Standard Oil Company.
La Purisima to Olsen with 18,000 barrels of gas for Union Oil Company.

PACIFIC FOREIGN

Tidewater to San Antonio with 65,000 barrels of fuel for Associated Oil Company.
Capt. P. A. Peterson to Kobe with 36,000 barrels of fuel for Standard Oil Company.
R. J. Hanna to Sydney with 65,000 barrels of gas for Standard Oil Company.

ATLANTIC DOMESTIC

W. S. Rheem to Baytown with 116,625 barrels of crude for Standard Oil Company.
Arvilla to Baytown with 92,000 barrels of crude for Atlantic Gulf and West Indies Steamship Company.
F. G. Ramsay to Baytown with 110,190 barrels of fuel for Standard Oil Company.
Standard to New York with 117,000 barrels of fuel for Standard Oil Company.
Sonoma to Philadelphia with 47,000 barrels of crude for City Service Refining Company.
Agwistone to New York with 125,000 barrels of crude for Tidewater Oil Company.
A. G. Bedford to New York with 116,884 barrels of fuel for Standard Oil Company.

ATLANTIC FOREIGN

Fred W. Weller to Montreal with 111,884 barrels of crude for Standard Oil Company.
Thalia to Hamburg with 105,000 barrels of gas for Standard Oil Company.
Inverness to London with 65,000 barrels of fuel for Rudline Trust and Transportation Company.
Atlantic to Land's End with 50,000 barrels of gas for Shell Company.
San Ramon to London with 82,000 barrels of gas for Shell Oil Company.
D. G. Scofield to Cristobal with 73,000 barrels of fuel for Standard Oil Company.

WEST PENN TO TEST AT CAT CANYON

Newest Entry Into Oil Game in California Has 3000-Acre Tract

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA MARIA, May 30.—A new operator in California is the West Penn Producing Company, which has just obtained a permit to drill its Shields No. 1 in Township 8, Range 31, southeast of Santa Maria, near Sisquoc, at the outlet of the Cat Canyon. The company has a block of about 3000 acres. Eastern capitalists organized the corporation to operate in Oklahoma.

The R. & G. Oil Co. is nearing completion of its well in Cat Canyon. From 4300 feet down to about 4800 feet, good sand has been found. In the same neighborhood the Marland Oil Company is putting its first well on the pump after a long siege of water and other troubles. It is about a sixty-barrel pumper as it stands, 4300 feet deep.

The Standard Oil Company must start a well by July 1 on its Cat Canyon acreage, it having 1800 acres obtained from the Palmer Oil Company, a pioneer of the Cat Canyon field, and from Charles Smith of Santa Maria. The new location is northeast of any production. Wells in the deeper sands of Cat Canyon make 200 to 250 barrels of lighter crude than comes from the upper sands.

The Pan American Petroleum Company has abandoned six more of its Casmalia wells, making a total of nineteen abandoned this month.

RECTOR TO WED WAITRESS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DORCHESTER (Mass.) May 30. Rev. Arthur Webber Perry Wylie, rector of the All Saints' Episcopal Church, and Miss Rosa Beatrice Dodds, waitress in a Boston restaurant, will be married Tuesday. Their marriage is the result of a romance that dates back thirteen years to when Dr. Wylie went to Boston to complete his theological studies.

NEW HANDS TO DEVELOP MINE GROUP

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KINGMAN (Ariz.) May 30.—The Calumet and Arizona Copper Company has entered Mohave county, in a deal for fifty-seven claims, on which a development fund of $100,000 is to be expended. In charge is Richard Malik, who has been operating the group in the past. The property is a copper producer, thus far opened up by shafts and tunnels and by a number of drill holes, and is about twenty miles north of Kingman.

At a recent meeting of shareholders of the Katherine Gold Mines Company and of the New Comstock Company, the directors were ordered to organize a new corporation under the laws of Delaware, with 2,505,000 shares, of which 5000 will be preferred $100 stock, to be offered present stockholders.

Heavy surface machinery is being placed on the Silver Creek Bonanza near Oatman, where good milling ore is reported in large quantity on the 150-foot level. J. J. McCarthy is in charge.

The George Washington mines in Mineral Park have been sold to H. D. C. Richards of San Francisco, by the Mowie brothers.

United Western is unique in Oatman through the fact that its ore shows free gold in quartz. Drifting on the vein on the 700-foot level now has a length of about 140 feet, in ore said to sample around 134.

D. A. Treckell Chosen Head of Mines Company

Following the announcement a few days ago that C. E. Miller, secretary and treasurer of the San Francisco Gold Mines Company, had sold his interest in the company to Frank D. Treckell, president of the Commercial Bank of Phoenix, Ariz., the vacancy in the board was filled by the election of Don A. Treckell as a director, and his appointment as secretary and treasurer of the company.

Don A. Treckell is a son of Frank D. Treckell, and is reported to have purchased a large block of the treasury stock of the company, which is said to be amply financed. George R. Colton of Los Angeles, owner of the noted Duplex gold mine at Searchlight, Nev., retains his position as president of the company.

The San Francisco Gold Mines Company owns the King Solomon mine at Randsburg. In its development the shaft is to be sunk to the 1000-foot level, and the ore bodies blocked out in the sulphide zone below water level, where secondary enrichment is anticipated. The milling plant at the mine will be kept in continuous operation, treating commercial ore of good grade, of which there is said to be a sufficient supply available for all present requirements.

LAVIN WELL IN TAFT AREA PLUGGING BACK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TAFT, May 30.—The Lavin well on Sec. 28, 32-22, back of Twenty-five Hill in the Midway fields is still bailing and plugging back in an effort to eliminate the water which has been entering the hole. Bottom of the hole is 2007 feet and from the top of the ground to that depth some exceptionally fine showings are said to have been picked up. It is the plan of the organization controlling the property, headed by Ralph Lavin of Taft, to give the well a production test as soon as the water is shut off.

SALE OF INDIAN OIL LEASES SET

Navajo and Ute Tracts to be Offered at Auction

Lands Located on New Mexico Tribal Reservation

Total Acreage in Offering is Approximately 30,000

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—A sale by public auction of oil and gas leases on the Navajo and Ute Indian reservations in Northwestern New Mexico has just been announced by the Department of the Interior.

The auction will be held at Santa Fe, N. M., at 10 a.m., on June 15, the leases to be awarded to bidders offering the highest cash bonus, including the regular royalty to be paid to the Indians on all oil produced.

The areas to be offered for lease on the Navajo reservation include exploration tracts of 4300 acres in the Chimney Rock structure; 2120 acres on the Biltabito structure; 2560 acres on the Royal Ann structure; and 3200 acres on the Little Rock structure, where no development has yet taken place.

The areas adjacent to developed oil lands on the reservation to be sold at the auction include four tracts of 640 acres each adjacent to the Hogback structure; three tracts of 160 acres and one tract of 200 acres adjacent to the Ratliesnake structure; two tracts of 360 acres each and one tract of 400 acres adjacent to the Toad structure; and one tract of 80 acres adjacent to the Table Mesa structure.

Two tracts are to be offered for lease on the Ute reservation, containing 4820 and 4560 acres, respectively.

ARIZONA MINE GROUP BOUGHT BY BELGIANS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CASA GRANDE (Ariz.) May 30.—Belgian capital has purchased the well-known Reward group, thirty-four miles southwest of Casa Grande, at a price reported to have been $400,000. These mines, heretofore worked for gold and silver, are wanted especially for their zinc, said to be present in several veins sampling 18 per cent of the metal. Statement is made that a 500-ton mill is to be used for reduction, the concentrates to be shipped through Casa Grande and Los Angeles, straight to Belgium.

BAILINGS OF BOWIE WELL HELD PROOF

More Than 500 Feet of Oil Sand Reported Cut at 3800 Depth

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON (Ariz.) May 30.—Late reports from the Bowie well say that oil of good quality has been demonstrated by bailings, at a depth of 3800 feet. According to G. H. Heder, the bore is to be sunk 150 feet deeper before shooting. It is claimed that over 500 feet of oil-bearing sands have been cut.

At the Willcox well, a string of tools was lost in quicksand on the side of the well, but drilling now is past this obstruction. At 1500 feet of depth, a flow of very hot water was found, forced by gas to the surface, together with quantities of brown oil residium.

Oil is declared to have been demonstrated in an entirely new field in the Mohawk district of Yuma county, extending down to the Mexican border. A large area is being located by Arizona men, who plan drilling.

From Holbrook comes word of completion of the cementing of the Great Basin well, now 4600 feet deep, and of continued drilling at the Adamana well. In the latter, at a depth of 2300 feet, delay was caused by necessity for drilling through some old casing.

Near the Arizona line, eight miles west of Gallup, the Maryland Oil Company has suspended drilling at 1400 feet, owing to difficulty experienced in the heavy flow of water. This is to be eased off, and drilling then will be resumed.

HARDSHELL MINE MAKES RICH STRIKE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PATAGONIA (Ariz.) May 30.—Ed Bellinger, mine manager for the Richardson Company of this place, reports the finding of a large deposit of ore in the Hardshell mine, with assays up to 660 ounces silver. In a 150-foot shaft has been developed six feet of ore sampling 30 ounces of silver and 13 per cent lead. This mine is one mile north of the Big Jim, which lately started a new mill, reported to be making very satisfactory extraction.

H. J. Grohs of Los Angeles, associated with the Bell Syndicate, has purchased from E. D. Farley an interest in the Homestake group, in which is reported a nine-foot vein, carrying good lead and silver values, with some copper and gold. Mr. Grohs will deepen the shaft by 200 feet and expects to build a mill on the ground this fall. He will concentrate by jigs.

J. W. Kelley of Los Angeles, operator of Randsburg, has recently purchased the Rand group of claims near Patagonia and is reported to have found high-grade lead-silver ore. The pioneer Mowry mine, which operated before the Civil War, is making large shipments of lead-silver ore to El Paso. The Chief mine is being opened up by Los Angeles capital, and the Dixie is being developed under the management of George H. Elliott of El Paso.

Standard Gets Near Gusher in Maricopa Area

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MARICOPA, May 30.—Near the center of the south line of Sec. 21-23-22, adjoining Sec. 33 on the west, the Standard Oil Company has a near-gusher in its No. 16, deepened only a few feet to 1920 feet.

The well started flowing about 2000 barrels and gradually increased until it was flowing 3100 barrels of clean oil. The Beverly Oil Company's forty-two acre E. G. Lewis lease corners at the northeast with Sect. 21 where the Sunset Railroad passes, and near Kerto siding. The Beverly company is now moving in to offset the Standard's No. 16 as close as the railroad right-of-way will permit. The Standard started deepening its No. 16 when Beverly No. 5 began flowing a month ago after having been drilled fifty feet deeper to 2170 feet. It is now flowing 435 barrels. The Standard well is the largest producer drilled in Kern county since the Obispo Oil Company's No. 6 blew in last August and made 7400 barrels a day for five days.

Contrary to expectations and geological "dope," the shallow sands have proved more productive than the deep horizons embedded in brown shale.

Jurors Now Hear Witnesses

Most persons called to the witness stand are having an entirely new experience and an unwelcomed one. They are compelled to occupy a conspicuous place which is very disagreeable and being unused to such a situation they are unable to give their testimony in a tone of voice which will carry over the large room. The jurors often have difficulty in hearing the answers given by such witnesses and the value of their evidence is often impaired thereby. To overcome this condition, a microphone has been installed in front of the witness box in a Brooklyn courtroom with sound projectors over the jury box so that the jurors are now enabled to hear the word of the most timid witness on the stand. The innovation has been entirely successful.

Brick and cement are to be used chiefly in the 10,000 buildings proposed for Madrid and Malaga, Spain.

PIPE LINE TO BOOST FIELD

Completion of Project Into San Juan Basin Expected to Solve Problem of Oil Transportation

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FARMINGTON (N. M.) May 30.—Oil development in the San Juan Basin, which has made slow progress during the last four years, owing to lack of transportation facilities, is expected to go forward at a rapid pace during the late summer and fall.

Some time during June the Continental Oil Company of Denver expects to complete its ninety-five-mile pipe line from the Rattlesnake structure to Gallup, N. M., and after completion of the carrier line it will begin delivering light gravity San Juan Basin crude to take cars on the Santa Fe Railway at the rate of 6000 barrels per day.

This oil will be taken by the Humble Oil Company to its refinery at Baytown, Tex., where it will be mixed with low gravity Texas crude for refining. It is reported that the Humble organization has agreed to pay $2.55 per barrel for the San Juan Basin oil, which tests from 55 to 65-deg. gravity. This should give the Continental an income of approximately $20,000 a day with which to further develop its Rattlesnake and Table Mesa structures.

In the past, because of poor transportation facilities, it has not been possible to let the basin wells produce at full capacity. There have been times when all the wells in the basin were not allowed to put out over 1000 barrels a day, because there was no place to store it and no way to ship it in large quantities.

For some weeks interest in the basin has centered around the Erdman & Hall tests that are being made on the Red Mesa structure. Cavings in the Hall well caused it to close down to await casing, and it was generally believed that the casing would not be run if the Erdman well should fail to get production. Some days later the Erdman well was making a hopeful showing, the oil seepage from the shale being heavy.

Drilling was going ahead when a heavy flow of salt water was encountered in what was believed at the time to be the upper Dakota sand. The water rose to within 200 feet of the top, although encountered at a depth of 3464 feet. Drilling was stopped immediately.

An analysis of the water shows it to be salty, with a showing of sulphur. Some geologists assert that it is 100 feet above the Dakota sand. They call attention to the fact that where water is found in the Dakota sand here it has been uniformly fresh, and that in a number of holes salty water has been encountered a short distance above the Dakota. They say it is usually in a stray sand at the base of the Mancos shale, which is unquestionably marine. It is likely that further drilling will be done to test this theory.

No test has yet been made by pump in the New Mexahoma No. 1, which was brought in ten days ago. The New Mexahoma No. 2 has been spudded in 600 feet northeast of the No. 1 and is now drilling at a depth of 300 feet. Both wells are located on Sec. 9, 30-11, adjoining the town of Aztec on the west.

Victor Cotner of New York, representing the Binney & Smith Company, visited the field this week and brought with him a miniature carbon black plant with which he tested the gas in the New Mexican Eagle Oil Company well on Sec. 22, 28-11, in the Coots Canon district. The test is being made with the object of establishing a carbon black plant here. The samples taken were sent back to New York City for further tests.

Misogyny

Lewis M. Milbourne, State Auditor of Maryland, blames the crime wave on woman's demand for the costly life of night clubs.

"To most men," Mr. Milbourne said at a dinner in Baltimore, "woman is a sealed book, but now and then a man appears who is able to read this book."

Mr. Milbourne paused, then he added:

"Such men are called misogynists."—[Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

Scheg to Quit Oil Bulletin for New Deal

Albert A. Scheg, for the last four years advertising manager of the Oil Bulletin, the official magazine of the California Chamber of Mines and Oil, has resigned his position, effective June 1, to become part owner and general manager of The California Oil World, a weekly oil newspaper, published here.

ALBERT A. SCHEG.

Mr. Scheg has a wide acquaintance among the oil interests and the oil-well supply firms, as well as in the trade publication field.

The California Oil World was founded in Bakersfield, seventeen years ago, and later moved to Los Angeles. It has been, during that time, the only newspaper devoted exclusively to the California oil industry.

In his new connection, Mr. Scheg will be in complete charge of all departments, and will control the policy of the paper as well as its practices.

United Western Forging Ahead on Mine Estate

The United Western Mines Corporation, of Oatman, Ariz., is reported to be meeting with gratifying success in the extensive and systematic development of its domain, adjoining the United Eastern, and W. K. Ridenour, president and manager, states that on the 700-foot level of the property the ore body has been developed a distance of 140 feet along its strike, the ore carrying good milling values.

Progress in drifting on the vein has been made at the rate of nine feet daily, during the past few weeks, but with the installation of the big air compressor, and the 100-horse-power electric motor, now about ready for service, advance should now be made into virgin ground at double that footage.

Manager Ridenour states the ore being blocked out in the mine looks exactly like the product of the United Eastern, that assays run as high as $35 to the ton, and that everything coming from the shaft pans more or less in gold.

The Astor Place Riot

The Astor Place Riot occurred May 9, 1849, while Macready, the English actor, was performing "Macbeth" at the Astor Place Opera House in New York City. A mob of 20,000 persons attacked the theater, broke the windows with paving stones and scattered the police force of 300 men. The Seventh Regiment was called out and after a pitched battle dispersed the mob and restored order. One hundred and forty-one of the regiment were injured, thirty-four of the mob were killed, and many wounded. The riot grew out of a feud between Edwin Forrest, the American actor, and Macready. The incident is sometimes known as the Forrest-Macready Riot.—[Kansas City Times.

RECORD WELL STILL ON JOB

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BRECKENRIDGE (Tex.) May 30.—With a record of oil production of a total value of $4,750,000, the E. C. Ward well, situated one-half mile southwest of Breckenridge, is still doing fifty barrels of oil and 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day, and is said to be paying an annual dividend of 100 per cent to its owners.

The production of this remarkable well has brought fortunes to a group of nine Dallas men, who own a one-half interest in a seven-eighths royalty from its oil and gas. In appreciation of the wealth that has come to them the royalty owners celebrate the anniversary of the completion of the well each year with a barbecue and picnic near here.

It was on May 22, 1920, that the well was brought in. For the first seven months it produced 5000 barrels a day. The oil sold at that time for $3.50 a barrel. The original owner of the well was the Plateau Oil Company. Ownership later passed into the hands of the Reclamation Oil Company, which still has it and the eighty-acre lease upon which it is situated.

The royalty owners in Dallas who profited so largely from the well, and who participated in the recent anniversary celebration here are A. S. Laird, T. W. Moore, Dr. T. G. Bradford, Joe Bob Cave, Percy Lockett, Perg. Thomas, C. W. Buffington, John Saner and Bob Saner.

DELANO TEST IS ABANDONED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DELANO, May 30.—The Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company, which has been endeavoring for over a year to get a water shut-off in its Quinn No. 1, on Sec. 20, 25-27, east of Delano, has announced that it will abandon the hole and start a new one near the old one.

The first hole was started in 1923 by the Sentinel Oil Company—M. G. Magenheimer and Col. Foster. The first oil showing was said to have been struck at 1100 feet. About a year ago the C. C. M. O. took over the property and is said to have found an oil sand, but was unable to get a water shut-off. Considerable leasing and selling of land in the vicinity resulted from favorable reports which emanated from the activity at the well.

SAN FERNANDO WELL POSSIBLE

Project Near Chatsworth Good Prospect

Other Work Under Way in Entire Valley

If there is any oil to be found in the San Fernando Valley, the present drilling program covering half a dozen different localities in that region should at least give some indication of it. The Standard Oil Company, Petroleum Securities Company, and Superior Oil Company are the principal developers, with several smaller syndicate working in other areas.

Geologists believe there is a possibility that petroleum exists in the San Fernando Valley, but only locally—that is, in areas of small extent, and probably of small production. One of the wells now drilling in the valley may find such a localized field.

The Superior Oil Company's project near Chatsworth is generally considered to have the best projects at present. This well was started by the Russell Petroleum Company, and is said to have found more than 150 feet of oil sand and shale, with the bottom at about 4200 feet.

SEEKS TO LOCATE WATER

At present the Superior is trying to locate the water which is interfering with a successful test of the showings. The well is in the hills in the northwest part of the valley, about four miles due north of Chatsworth.

The Petroleum Securities Company is building a derrick on the Porter ranch near Zelzah, and will call the well the Sesnand No. 1. This is in the western part of the valley.

The Standard Oil Company's University No. 1 well, located at Pacoima Wash, has been drilling in hard conglomerate ever since it started. In a month it has penetrated less than 1000 feet. This well is in the eastern part of the valley.

WELL SHUTS DOWN

In the northern part of the valley the Brubaker Oil Company shut down its well a few days ago at 2650 feet. The well has been reported to have showings, but careful investigation discloses no ground for such reports. The derrick has oil all over it, caused by the crew circulating with oil in a fishing job, field scouts assert.

Besides these wells there are several others of minor significance, most of them financed by syndicates of property owners, desirous of developing oil on their ranches. So far none of these has had anything definite in the way of showings.

Harriman-Jones Oil Fishing at King City Test

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KING CITY, May 30.—The Harriman-Jones Oil Company, at the last report, had a fishing job in its No. 1 well while drilling below 4100 feet. The first showing of oil, that for a time looked like a fair pumper, was in sand from 3990 feet to 4004 feet and what appeared to be a ten-barrel pumper was found at just below 4100 feet, but deeper drilling failed to improve it. The second well, half a mile east of No. 1, in the narrow Arroyo Seco twenty miles northwest of King City, was suspended soon after it was spudded.

E. Schweninger's test on the Smart ranch, Section 3, 20-7, west side of the Salinas River, has reached a depth of about 2000 feet, after a water test.

Angelenos Join Forces to Work Mine at Jerome

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

JEROME (Ariz.) May 30.—The new Jerome Superior Copper Company has been organized under the laws of Nevada by Charles T. Lindsey, Ernest H. Moore and J. E. Stockdale, all of Los Angeles, for the purpose of working the Jerome Superior mine at this point. The corporation has 5,000,000 shares.

The Dundee Arizona Copper Company has had its annual meeting, at which it was agreed that no active work would be continued pending development in the United Verde Extension and United Verde operations in the vicinity of the property.

Announcement has been made that the Arizona Binghampton mill near Mayer is to be started in the near future by Squires & Gemmill, who have been operating the Prince Consolidated mine at Floche, Nevada.

Life's Complications Increase

KERN ADDS TO LIST OF PRODUCERS

Eleven New Completions in Various Localities Reported for Week

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, May 29.—A week of active drilling has just added eleven new producers to the list of new wells in the Kern county fields. While the most interest is still centered in the newly proved district north and northwest of the old Kern River field, the Midway, Sunset and Elk Hills are getting their share of the development.

George Buchner has begun drilling the farthest north well in the new Poso Creek district on Sec. 20, 26-28. This is the first well to be drilled by Mr. Buchner. Other first well spudded in during the week were the Petroleum Securities Company No. 1 on Sec. 28, 28-27 and Wing & Skakel No. 1 on Sec. 34, 28-28 in the Kern River district. Another first well is test of the San Emidio district, on Sec. 21, 11-22.

In the Midway district the Standard Oil Company has begun drilling its No. 12 on Sec. 32, 31-24 as well as the No. 6 on Sec. 29, 31-24. The Balboa Oil Company has spudded in its No. 53 on Sec. 24, 31-23 in the Midway, and the Honolulu Consolidated has begun its No. 2 on Sec. 4, 32-24.

The Union Oil Company has spudded in its No. 15 on Sec. 26, 30-24 and the Pan American Petroleum Company has begun its No. 4-1 on Sec. 1, 31-24, both in the Elk Hills. In the Sunset field the Pacific Oil Company has started the drill in its No. 93 on Sec. 30, 12-23.

MINE HEAD HITS DUTY ON COPPER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, May 30.—Arizonans are far from being united on the proposal to place a 6-cent tariff on imported copper bullion. James S. Douglas, president of the United Verde Extension Mining Company of Jerome, in a recent address, declared that the demand for a tariff "should come from leaders in the copper industry and not from meddling politicians." He expressed belief that such an impost would cause retaliation by foreign nations and, in a number of ways, would be injurious to Arizona's leading industry.

Other miners of prominence deny the stories that have been given publicity in Washington alleging deplorable conditions in Arizona's mines, and show that copper costs now are down to figures that give decent profits in all the leading camps, though not bolstering activity in the smaller development projects. Production now is about three-fourths of normal in most of the mines, while some, such as New Cornelia, are running far ahead of even rated mill capacity and are paying very satisfactory dividends. Only a few company managers are understood to be favoring the proposed tariff, others expressing opinions that the future of the industry in the Southwest depends mainly upon betterment of extraction and reduction processes. Notable advances have been known in both respects within the past few years.

Hope is expressed that a saving may be made in the shipment of Arizona copper through Los Angeles Harbor, to which the present rail rate is nearly half the rate to the Atlantic seaboard. Suggestion is made that the change sought would be facilitated were a copper refinery operated at the west coast seaport.

Angeleno Group to Work Idaho Placer Tract

La Trinidad Mining Company of Los Angeles, owning a large tract of gold placer diggins on Black Warrior Creek twelve miles west of Atlanta, Idaho, has begun active work preparatory to placer mining operations on a large scale.

A sawmill is in course of installation. This will supply lumber to be used in the construction of the first mile of flume of the six miles ultimately to be placed in commission. This first unit, it is estimated, will be available for the handling of adjacent gravel deposits valued at $600,000, the material to be sluiced running about $1.40 to the cubic yard in coarse gold.

Two hydraulic giants will be employed to begin with, the creek, it is said, furnishing a head of 2000 miner's inches of water which can be used for the operation of the giants. It is planned to be ready to begin sluicing operations about August 1.

County officials are building a twelve-mile wagon and auto truck road from Atlanta to the diggings, and through the courtesy of the Forestry Service a telephone line is being run to the company's camp. A lighting plant is also to be installed.

Providing for Tourist Appetites

A modern ocean liner preparing for a 'round-the-world journey carries enough food to supply a large city for many days. A big vessel with a full passenger list will store away about sixty-five tons of beef, mutton and veal, beef greatly preponderating. In addition to this there are thousands of domestic and wild fowl, tons of potatoes and canned vegetables and fruit, some 300 barrels of flour with eggs, butter and milk in correspondingly enormous quantities. Of the smoked meats bacon ranks first, 17,000 being about the average consumption on a world tour.

SUN OIL LATEST TO ENTER FIELD

Eddy and Lea Counties to be Scene of Activity

Company Reported as Having Large Area Leased

Contract for 3500-Foot Hole Already Awarded

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ARTESIA, (N. M.) May 31.—The Sun company is the latest of the major producing companies to enter Southeastern New Mexico. A large amount of government land in a solid block, is reported to have been obtained by the Sun in Southern Eddy and Southwestern Lea counties. A well is to be drilled on Sec. 21-25-30, a contract having been made with Hugh Burch, a Fort Worth drilling contractor, which calls for a hole to a depth of 3500 feet.

Drilling continues slowly in the deep test of the Maljamar Oil and Gas Corporation Baish No. 1 on Sec. 31-17-32, in Lea county, hole being down 3850 feet. Broken formations continue to be picked up, with the next sand expected at 3850 feet, corresponding with the upper New State's land found on Sec. 4-18-33, north of the Artesia field.

Another test is ready to be spudded in by this company, it being the No. 1 on the Grace Mitchell permit on Sec. 5-17-32. To the south of the Maljamar's gasser, the crew on the Covert test, on Sec. 15-21-33 is underreaming the twelve and a half-inch casing at 375 feet.

North of the Artesia pool, the Texas Company's No. 5 is attracting attention. This well, located on the Bobb permit in the center of Sec. 17-17-28, two miles north of the Navajo Oil Company's producer, struck gas at 1846 feet. The hole is new drilling at 1950 feet.

Good time is being made in the No. 1 of the Empire Oil and Gas Company on Sec. 35-17-27, the hole being down 405 feet. This test is west of the producing area.

After unsuccessfully fishing for several weeks for a string of lost pipe, the Arkansas Gas and Fuel Company has abandoned its deep test on the Manning Dome at 3330 feet.

On Dunken Dome, the Texas Company has succeeded in straightening the hole and has resumed drilling at 275 feet, it being necessary to plug back from 450 feet.

After testing sixteen feet of sand found at 2422 feet in the No. 3 of the Twin Lakes Oil Company on Sec. 28-13-23, which contained little free oil, the hole will be carried down as a deep test.

A pumping test made in the Rogers et al No. 1, on the Purcell permit on Sec. 15-11-26 in Chaves county, showed slightly better than four barrels, this coming from a stand between 1230 and 1236 feet. Lane et al, who have been active in the Artesia pool, are drilling a test close to this shallow producer.

Considerable interest is being shown by several of the larger companies in Chaves, Curry, De Baca and Roosevelt counties, although little active drilling is now going on. The Capital Oil Company, in Roosevelt county is drilling at 1150 feet in the No. 1 on the Mesa structure. This well is located on Sec. 4-1-30. In Curry county the Sanders No. 1 on Sec. 11-5-35 is rigging up to drill deeper bottom of the hole now being 837 feet. The McAdoo test, located on Sec. 16-1-37 in De Baca county, is reported to have been taken over by the Navajo Oil Company of Los Angeles.

He Knew

"Women," declared the quiet little man in the corner sea, "endure pain more heroically than men. I know it from experience."

"Are you a doctor, may I ask?" queried a fellow passenger.

"No, sir, I am a shoemaker," replied the little man.

DRILLERS BUSY IN BAKERSFIELD

Four Permits of Week Cover Untried Territory

Elk Hills Section Deepening Former Dry Wells

Dip of Strata Encourages Production Hopes

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, May 30.—Of the eleven permits to drill new wells in Kern county issued last week four were initial wells for the leases as follows: Shell Company Edidio No. 1, on Sec. 21, 11-22, five miles southeast of the nearest Maricopa Flat production; George O. H. Buchner, No. 1 on Sec. 20, 28-28, Poso Creek district, four miles northwest of the Shell Company's pumping well; Wing and Skakel, No. 1, on Sec. 24, 28-28, nine miles south of the Shell well and north of the Kern River field.

The Springs Company (General Petroleum Corporation) has abandoned its test on Sec. 28, 31-24, at the edge of Buena Vista Lake bed, in the Eastern Midway district, at a depth below 5000 feet. The 640-acre lease was taken over from the Southwestern Petroleum Company.

The California Petroleum Corporation has abandoned its Dorothy No. 4, on Sec. 34, 32-24, at the northwest edge of Maricopa Flat. It was drilled to about 5700 feet but failed to find oil although in the midst of producing wells. In the southwest part of the same section the same company's Gordon No. 1 has failed to get a water shut-off after cementing five times.

TEST WELL PLANNED

Material is moving in for a test on Sec. 17, 27-27, by George F. Getty, Inc., on the 1000-acre block taken over from the Marland Oil Company. The location is a mile north of the Getty test on Sec. 20, and about six miles southeast of Famoso.

On Sec. 22, 27-28, about two miles north of Poso Station, R. W. Siden, president of the Fortuna Oil Company, is starting a well on a 440-acre government permit he took over from J. W. McGrath. The location is about two miles south and a little east of the Shell well on Sec. 9. In the same neighborhood the Chansler-Canfield Midway Oil Company has taken over from J. R. Dorsey 320 acres on Sec. 24, 26-28, and 320 acres from Eugene Moon on Sec. 26, 27-28, north of the Shell well.

Tegeler No. 6, on Sec. 22, 28-27, for George F. Getty, Inc., has been completed as a 100-barrel pumper. The No. 7 will be started at once, two extra drilling crews having been transferred from Los Angeles basin fields to Kern county, one of them to work on the test on the northwest quarter of Sec. 17, 27-27.

The Pan American Petroleum Company is starting a new well in the Elk Hills. It is the Crampton No. 4-I, on Sec. 1, 31-24. The company is deepening Crampton No. 2-D, on the same section. The St. Helens Petroleum Company, Ltd., is redrilling No. 2-B on Sec. 22, 32-24.

SEEK NEW DEPTH

The Union Oil Company is starting its No. 15 on Sec. 26, 30-24, in the Gross pool on the north slope of the Elk Hills, and is deepening its International No. 7, on Sec. 4, 11-23, on the Maricopa Flat. In the Elk Hills the Standard Oil Company is deepening its No. 7, on Sec. 31, 30-24, and its No. 26, on Sec. 31, 12-23, Maricopa Flat, near its 3100-barrel well just completed by deepening a few feet. Sec. 31, which the Pacific Oil Company drilled only along part of the line, seems likely now to become a valuable property.

The Kendon Petroleum Company is redrilling and deepening its No. 1 well on Sec. 35, 32-23, in the Hovey Hills. The sand dips sharply on the north slope of the hills—from 1600 feet down to 3400 feet in less than a mile. No production has been developed in the deeper level. It was on this property that a variation of 427 feet occurred between the top and the bottom of a 2550-foot hole, the tools following the dip of the formation. Of the three wells drilled one made 150 barrels at about 2100 feet.

PLACER MINERS TO SHIFT RIVER

Rich Sands of Stanislaus to be Uncovered

Central Eureka Strike Held Mother Lode's Best

Yreka Coal Deposits to be Extensively Worked

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, May 31. — The Calaveras Copper Company has announced that the Stanislaus River is to be diverted from its bed near Melones for about three miles, to facilitate mining in the old channel. The stream will be turned from its course by a 4000-foot tunnel, so that gravel known to carry high gold values can be worked. Broad areas along the river were worked by placer miners seventy years ago. The Calaveras Copper Company operates large copper mines and a smelter near Compo Seco.

Sensational gold showings on the 4500-foot level of the Central Eureka have been officially confirmed. The ore body varies from twenty to forty feet wide, with shoots of sulphide and free-gold quartz mingling with the milling material. Streaks, spots and spangles of solid gold are plainly visible, with broad bands of the yellow metal, two to six inches wide, occasionally showing. It is semiofficially reported over $350,000 has been taken out in the past two months from the bonanza stope. The ledge apparently extends above and below the 4500-foot workings, and is considered one of the richest ever found on the historic Mother Lode.

After fourteen months of idleness the mill at the Moore mine, near Jackson, has resumed operations. Ten stamps are dropping on excellent ore from the 1800-foot level, where a new vein was recently opened in virgin territory. The ore has been exposed for fifty feet with the drift still advancing on the vein. The company is largely controlled by Los Angeles and San Francisco people.

Plans for comprehensive development of the Ager coal field, near Yreka, are rapidly being consummated. Bert Lloyd, formerly connected with important coal-mining enterprises in Colorado, states the field is exceptionally promising, with the coal of excellent coking quality, but that extensive work is necessary to determine magnitude of the deposits. If a sufficient quantity can be developed, the coal field is expected to become an active competitor of crude oil in the industrial region around Oakland and San Francisco.

Too Many Masters

Italian Consul Gualtiero Chilesotti, at a Denver dinner party, said:

"Italy needed Fascism. Before Italy got Fascism her attitude toward other nations and toward the Soviets was too much like the attitude of young Gabriele Carosa.

"Gabriele Carosa sat with two women on the terrace of the Cafe Roma. It was a warm night, and a waiter, noticing that his glass was empty, said to him politely:

"'Another beer, sir?'

"Gabriele looked at his wife.

"'Shall I have another beer, my love?' he asked.

"His wife frowned and turned to her mother.

"'Shall he have another, mamma?' she said."—[Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

RIG ERECTED ON KRAEMER LEASE

Continental to Drill Deep Sand Test Hole

James C. Nugent Company Prepares First Well

General Petroleum Active in Richfield Area

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YORBA LINDA, May 30.—The Continental Oil Company of Denver, operating at Richfield under the name of E. H. Keoghan, trustee, has completed the rig for its second well on the Kraemer lease of the Wonder Oil Company. It is reported that this hole will be a deep-sand test. The location is south of the Wonder No. 4, an old producer. The Continental's Kraemer No. 1, completed about six weeks ago, is said to be yielding 365 barrels a day.

The James C. Nugent Oil Company, which has been leasing large blocks of acreage south of here, is preparing to build a rig for its first well. It will be drilled on a ninety-acre lease obtained from C. F. Klingberg and Mrs. Emma Webber. The land reached south from Yorba Linda Boulevard to the J. H. Enright ranch.

Mr. Nugent has just purchased, for a reported consideration of $8500, the eleven-acre ranch owned by Mrs. Mary Sweitzer, located just east of Yorba Linda Boulevard.

The Chicksan Oil Company, which holds 170 acres of leases here, has just completed its Robertson No. 1, in the Brea-Olinda field, at a depth of 4183 feet. The well is reported to be making 200 barrels of clean oil a day. It is reported that the Chicksan organization will start a new hole shortly.

At Richfield the General Petroleum Corporation is preparing to drill its Thompson No. 1-A, the Union Oil Company has rig up for its Chapman No. 25, north of Kraemer avenue, and the Standard Oil Company is drilling its Kraemer No. 22 as an offset to the Chapman well, which stands just across the road from it.

Ask the Young: They Know

Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale, was talking about books.

"The young men and women who are now writing our books for us," he said, "make me think of the old professor on the train.

"The old professor was bored for three hours on the train by a young fellow who sat down at his side and talked about everything under the sun—talked very much as our young Freudian writers talk in their books, you know. Finally the old professo said:

"'Young man, I believe that between us two we know everything.'

"'Do yo ureally think so?' said the young fellow, with a gratified smile.

"'Yes,' said the old professor. 'You know everything except that you're a fool, and I know that.'"—[Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

The Secret

Nicola Tesla, at a dinner in New York, had explained one of his numerous inventions.

"You see how simple it is," he ended, "once it's explained. It's like the old minister's explanation of his long pastorate—a pastorate of forty years.

"'You see,' he said, 'when I'd get mad and want to go, they wouldn't let me; and when they got mad and wanted me to do, I wouldn't go. We both never got made at the same time.'"—[Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

RUN OF CRUDE SHOWS DROP

Daily Average for San Joaquin Valley and Coalinga Fields Off 19,326 Barrels Over April, 1925

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERFIELD, May 30.—Pipe-line runs of crude oil from the San Joaquin Valley fields in April totaled 5,130,793 barrels, a daily average of 171,026 barrels from 6377 wells. Coalinga, in Fresno county, supplied 21,011 barrels a day and Kern county accounted for the remainder, or 149,992 barrels daily average in April.

The Standard Oil Company statistics a month ago that its shut-in production was slightly less than 24,000 barrels a day, while the Shell company's shut-in production is approximately 13,000 barrels a day, other shut-in production in Kern and Fresno counties being estimated at about 8000 barrels a day, or a total shut-in production of 45,000 barrels a day in San Joaquin Valley.

Pipe-line runs from the same fields in April, 1925, were 169,318 barrels; pipe-line runs in April, 1926, having been 19,326 barrels less, daily average. Most fo the shut-in production was closed in beginning in June, 1925, all of it in Kern county and some at Coalinga. An analysis of the pipe-line runs in 1925 and 1926 indicates that San Joaquin Valley production has held steady, new wells offsetting declines of old wells. Thus in April, 1925, pipe-line runs totalde 190,958 barrels and in April, 1926, the total runs were 171,026 barrels, daily average, or a decline of 19,940 barrels daily. Adding the shut-in production, it appears that total developmed daily crude-oil production of the San Joaquin Valley fields on April 30, 1926, was 216,026 barrels, and on April 30, 1925, it was 216,958 barrels, estimating shut-in production. The fact sought to be stressed is that San Joaquin Valley production is holding steady.

The analysis of crude oil pipe-line runs, with approximately 45,000 barrels of heavy crude shut in, favors the belief that so far as California's heavy oil production is concerned, price advances do not appear probable—at least until shut-in production is all opened and demand is absorbing it to the point where stocks cease to accumulate and begin to be drawn on for current demands of consumption. As long as heavy grades of crude oil remain at 75 cents a barrel, the average independent producer will do only such drilling as offsetting compels, at least in the San Joaquin Valley fields.

Pipe-line runs in May will vary so slightly from those of April that the difference is wholly negligible, thus taking the petroleum situation in California up to the first half of 1926 with an average daily production of slightly in excess of 500,000 barrels. Various experts seeking to prognosticate definite declines of crude-oil production in volume sufficient to alarm the price-makers and cause them to advance quotations, have quite generally missed their guesses rather widely, even as to the item of light oil production. There seems at present to be no known place where California oil operators can open new fields of commercial importance. This situation ordinarily might cause an advance in crude-oil quotations were it not for the fact that California oil sands are world beaters for sustained production, even the light oil fields failing to decline as rapidly as those of all other areas in the United States.

Of the 7000 wells in the San Joaquin Valley less than 200 are flowing; and of the total number a negligible number produce crude of 30 deg. gravity or better. More than half of the 7000 wells produce crude of a gravity below 20 deg. and a large percentage of the remainder produce crude of below 25 deg. gravity. During April the destruction of 8,214,864 barrels of stored crude oil, of which less than 3,000,000 barrels was below 20 deg. gravity, and nearly 1,000,000 barrels of heavy crude discovered that had not previously been reported, leaves on April 30 in excess of 86,000,000 barrels of heavy crude in storage in California.

The unexpected output of recent completions in the deep zone at Los Cerritos, northwest of the Signal Hill field at Long Beach, has boosted the production of that area to nearly 18,000 barrels a day, according to production estimates. Whether this production will continue to increase as the present deep drillers go down, or whether new production in the deep zone will counterbalance the decline in the upper zone, is the question which is now occupying the minds of production statisticians.

Of the approximately sixty wells now drilling for the lower zone, not more than thirty-five or forty are likely to reach it successfully, in the opinion of operators. Most of the deepening projects either are not in mechanical condition to produce from the lower zone, or are not sufficiently financed to get a proper completion.

The McKeon Oil Company, which has been the prominent pioneer in deep-well development at Los Cerritos, has its No. 6 and No. 8 wells on the way to the deep zone. McKeon's No. 9 well presents the peculiar situation of producing 800 barrels a day from a single foot of oil sand. Casing was set at 4818 feet, and the hole is down 4819 feet. The oil is clean, and tests 32.6 deg. gravity. Jack McKeon, who drilled the well, ascribes its phenomenal output to the fact that there are no other wells in the same sand in the vicinity.

The McKeon No. 7, the first producer in the deep zone, is still making 350 barrels a day, clean oil.

Gets Good Well

The Standard Oil Company has completed another well on its Howard & Smith property in the Montebello field, and is getting about 250 barrels a day from its Howard & Smith No. 3, according to official reports. This well is in the western part of the Montebello field, on the lease offsetting the Superior Oil Company's Manz property.

Brubaker Shuts Down

The Brubaker well in the San Fernando Valley is idle at 2650 feet, according to field reports. The well shut down a few days ago, and it was reported in San Fernando that it had struck oil, but investigation disclosed that there was no ground for the reports.

The Brubaker well is about four miles east of Chatsworth in the northern part of the San Fernando Valley.

Wildcat to Start

The Barnsdall Oil Company expects to spud in its wildcat well on the Merlo ranch at Avocado Heights, near Puente, in the next few days. The crew is installing boilers and machinery for a deep-test well.

Finish Small Wells

The Chansler-Canfield Midway Oil Company and the Shell company completed two small wells in the old Torrance field last week, it was reported yesterday.

The Chansler-Canfield brought in its Torrance No. 89 well, at a depth of 3615 feet, with an initial production of sixty barrels a day.

The Shell company placed its Torrance No. 5 on production for the second time after redrilling it, and got a gross output of about ninety barrels a day, but one-third of this production was water. Bottom is at 3600 feet.

OREGON GETS LOT OF WORLD WA RRELICS

CAPTURED GERAN CANNON WILL BE PLACED IN PARKS OF CITIES

A multitude of murderous looking cannons, muskets, machine guns, sabres, gas masks, anti-aircraft guns and other war paraphernalia captured from the Germans on various fronts during the World War arrived in Portland recently on the American-Hawaiian steamer Panaman from the Raritan Ordnance Reserve Depot at Metuchen, N. J., and are now being shipped out to various Oregon cities where they will decorate official lawns, parks and statue bases as reminders in the midst of peace of the grimness of the late war.

The shipment is the first of several that probably will be made of the large quantity of this ordnance material allotted to Oregon, a large quantity of which still remains at the Raritan depot. The shipment weighed several tons and was sent to Oregon at an estimated cost of $1500, to be paid by the recepients. Those receiving allotments of the ordnance had only to guarantee the shipping cost.

More than fifteen large cannon, some of them still in almost perfect working order, were included in the shipment. Astoria has ordered the biggest cannon of the lot, a huge 250-millimeter gun of the Hungarian mortar type. The gun going to Redmond, a 70-millimeter piece, is the next largest. —[Portland Oregonian.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analyses will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or ½ in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Three Specimens

LOS ANGELES, May 14.—Question: Sample No. 1, diatomaceous earth. No. 2, silicate; Under separate cover specimens of the above (purported.) Please give complete analysis and advise specifically if of marine origin, and whether it contains radiola or clay, and probable commercial use. No. 2 complete analysis, and probable commercial use; the specimens are from Inyo county. No. 3, vanadium ore; Los Angeles county.

C. & B.

Answer: Qualitative analyses only. No. 1 is diatomaceous earth; whether of fresh water or marine it would be necessary to examine the entire geological formations of and at the locality; it is probably of fresh-water origin. No 2 is a mixture of carbonates and silicates and was not tested for magnesia. Lime silicate, aluminum silicate, some tremolite and silica found. No. 3 does not react for vanadium.

Chrysotile

ATASCADERO, May 14.—Q.: I am mailing you herewith a sample of asbestos of which we think we have an appreciable quantity on our ranch. I would like very much to have the opinion of your mineralogical department on the quality of this asbestos and on the commercial possibilities of this mineral.

C.

A.: The sample is serpentine asbestos (chrysotile.) It is of silky, very short fiber, and it not of so great a value as the white Amianthus variety, which occurs sparingly in California.

The sample occure in layers divided by serpentine. The serpentine is of doubtful commercial value and your problem is to separate the asbestos from the serpentine. If this can be done at no great cost, a market should be easily found for the asbestos product.

Canada mines and sells quantities of chrysotile and the grade is better than yours.

Barium

LOS ANGELES, May 15.—Q.: Please let me know the uses of barium metal, also is it difficult to change sulphate of barium into metal? Is the metal of any value? Could one find a market? P

A.: Politely, be it stated that your questions are somewhat unusual! Barium can be prepared by decomposing the fused chlorides by the electric current; it is a yellow malleable metal and decomposes water at common temperature. The chloride is formed by dissolving the carbonate in hydrochloric acid and evaporating the solution. The solution of the chloride is a useful laboratory reagent. Sometimes, this department of The Times receives the metal from enthusiastic correspondents, by whom it is positively stated that "this is native gold." The metal barium has but few, if any, commercial uses.

Barium sulphate (heavy spar) occurs abundantly in nature and when pure is a good base for forming barium sulphide by heating the powdered mineral highly in contact with carbon; the result of this method is that a valuable barium sulphide occurs which is soluble in water, and by passing it carbon dioxide through a solution of the sulphide obtained as above stated. From barium carbonate the principal (so-called) barium salts are obtained and the chloride can be formed by dissolving the carbonate in hydrochloric acid and evaporating the solution.

It therefore appears that it is a somewhat easy task to form the metal by the information given in this paper.

For the benefit of those interested in baryte products (not the impure variety of earthy "cawk") the native barium sulphate is a very useful and valuable commercial mineral, and our friends in the United States Geological Survey refer to it as a pigment in mixed paints, in the manufacture of lithophane—a chemically prepared white pigment consisting of zinc sulphide and barium sulphate—in the preparation of barium salts, such as the nitrate, used in pyrotechnics for green fire, and as a base upon which the lake pigments are precipitated. It is also used in the manufacture of white rubber goods, asbestos cement and artificial ivory, in giving weight to paper, and in the preparation of fertilizers, boiler compounds, insecticides, peroxide of hydrogen and artificial driftwood salts. Some varieties take a high polish and are used in place of marble.

Baryte occurs at several localities in California and Nevada, and of grade sufficient to form a good-paying industry. Some of these days commercial interests will probably see the advisability of forming a strong corporation for the development of the baryte industry. The wonder is that such an industry should not be working successfully today. At all events this department of The Times calls attention to the matter at the cost of considerable space.

Two Samples

HOLBROOK (Ariz.) May 16.—Q.: I am sending you two samples of mineral from a locality some distance from Holbrook, Ariz. They are both from the same ledge. Please classify both of them.

A.: Sample No. 1 is a mixture of arsenides including those of iron and manganese. No. 2 is chiefly calcite reacting somewhat for strontium and arsenic. Zinc present.

High Grade Ore

WEST COAST, May 16.—Q.: Please classify the inclosed local specimen; it is from a big deposit and available transportation facilities.

C.

Free Gold Absent

LOS ANGELES, May 17.—Q.: I've been stirring up Southern Oregon again. Herewith find two samples: No. 1 near Grant's Pass and the sample appears to border onto a quartz-monsonite. Does it contain metallic elements of any kind? No. 2 a sedimentary; any phosphates or salts of any kind?

J.

A.: Sample No. 1 is probably quartzitic rock carrying no metals of value. For the past two decades it has been claimed that platinum is present in such rock; the metal being obtainable by a "new process" on the order of a waking-dream, or that of changing mercury to gold. No. 2 runs high in silica; magnesium silicate present with traces of iron, manganese, no reaction for phosphoric acid, and brucite (hydrated magnesite) traces found.

Doubtful Ore

CHAMBERS (Ariz.) May 17.—Q.: Inclosed find sample from the Navajo mining district near Lupton, Ariz. Is the sample representative of any commercial

A.: The specimens are fragments of pitchy iron ore mixed with limonite, and traces of brown zinc ore. Manganese in low percentage; some silica, altered feldspathic matter, and free gold absent.

Altered Rock

LOS ANGELES, May 18.—Q.: Assay for silver, gold, radium, or anything of commercial value.

H. B.

Free Gold Absent

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—Q.: I send you two specimens from the mountains near Palmdale, Calif. I shall be very glad to have you classify the samples for me.

A.: Samples 1, 2 and 3 are impure, shale-like lime carbonate heavily impregnated with iron oxides; manganese present, and a little hornblende. Celestite (strontium sulphate) found in very low percentage.

Not Franklinite

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—Q.: Herewith a sample I am undecided as to whether it is a garnet formation or the zinc mineral Franklinite. Please classify it and oblige.

MISS B.

ARROWSMITH
by Sinclair Lewis

DR. MARTIN ARROWSMITH, graduate of Rushmore University and of general practice in Nautilus, N. D., now acting director of the department of Public Health in Nautilus, is married; possessed of a flair for original research; and is believed by an ardent few to be a genius.

DR. ALMON PICKERBAUGH, formerly district health officer of the department, is a blow-hard who is now in Congress for the district.

LEORA TOZER ARROWSMITH, Martin's wife, is a pump-handed primrose, deliciously keen in dress and speech and manners. Her home is the posh-bah of Wheatsylvania. She is one of the most charming ladies ever seen in the prairie states.

ANGUS PICKERBAUGH, nineteen and a half, of course to attentions from young women, though they are married. Martin once had them dispersed when he had no brains, but now, by R. K. JORDAN is the political boss of Nautilus.

DR. SOLBERNIL is the president of the Consolidated Life Insurance Company of Nautilus.

DR. RUTH OCKFORD, Witherspoon graduate, is Martin's assistant.

MYRON PUCH is a disciple of Jordan.

DR. GOTTLIEB, the settlement of the battle between Chicago and Nautilus for baby and the anti-vivisection league, is a hemmed-in manner with generous nature; had scheduled, the time which he and "Doc" Pickerbaugh's health show, but failed his operations until afternoon hours.

MAT TREDGOLD is the president of the Steel Windmill Company of Nautilus and leader of its social set.

JOHN DUER, a former classmate of Martin at Rushmore, an who never squandered an hour of his freedom, is now a rising young surgeon in the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn.

DR. HYDE WATTERS, another classmate of Martin's, is practicing medicine in Nautilus. He has acquired him by his methods. Watters has four remarkable children.

DR. SIDNEY HIRSCH, has been football coach, debater, professor of hygiene, chemistry, French and German at Mugford Christian College.

DR. ROVINE, is the pastor of the Jewish Temple of Nautilus.

DR. CHESTER CASTELLOW, parish liar among the clergymen of Nautilus.

Martin had completed his paper on the streptolysin research, and took a day off to go to Chicago to talk it over with an editor of the Journal of Infectious Diseases. He left Nautilus he was content. He had caught himself seeking that he was free of Wheatsylvania and bound for great Nautilus. Time bent back, progress was obliterated, and he was mazed with delight.

The editor praised his paper, accepted it, and suggested only one change. Martin had to wait for his train. He remembered that Angus Duer was in Chicago, with the Rouncefield Clinic—a private organization of medical specialists, having costs and profits.

The clinic occupied fourteen floors in a twenty-story building constructed (or so Martin certainly considered it) of marble, gold, and rubies. The clinic reception-room, focused on a vast stone fireplace, was like the drawing-room of an oil magnate, but it was not a place of leisure. The young women at the door demanded Martin's symptoms and address.

A page in buttons aped with his name to a nurse, who flew to the office. Before Angus appeared, Martin had to wait a quarter hour in a smaller, richer, still more abashing reception-room. Only now he was so awed that he would have permitted the clinic to operate on him for any fee which at the moment they seemed to fancy.

In medical school and Zenith General Hospital, Angus Duer had been efficient enough, but now he was ten times as self-assured. He was cordial; he invited Martin to step out for a dish of tea as though he wasn't steamed it; but beside him Martin felt young, rustic, inept.

Angus won him by pondering, "Hyde Watters? He was Digam? I'm not sure I remember him. Oh, yes, he was one of those boneheads that are the curse of every profession."

When Martin had sketched his work at Nautilus, Angus suggested, "You better come join us at Rouncefield, as pathologist. Our pathologist is leaving in a few days. You could do the job, all right. You're getting thirty-five hundred a year now? Well, I think we could get you forty-five hundred, as a starter, and some day you'd become a regular member of the clinic and get in on all the profits. Let me know if you want it. Rouncefield told me to dig up a man."

With this resource and with an invitation for Angus, Martin resigned to Nautilus and open war. Mayor Pugh returned he did not challenge Martin, but he appointed over him, as full Director, Sarah Gaugh's friend, Dr. Bissex. Dr. Marshall, coach and health director of Mugford College.

Dr. Bissex first discharged Rufus Gould, which took five minutes. Then sent and addressed a Y.M.C.A. meeting, then bustled in and invited Martin to resign.

"I'll like hell!" said Martin.

"Oh, no honest, Bissex. If you want to fire me, do it, but let's do things straight. I won't resign as long as you like. Only, in the interests of economy, I recommend your salary to eight hundred dollars a year!"

"All right, reduce and be damned," said Martin.

He sounded particularly fine and free when he said it, but less when Leora and he found that, as they should rent fixed by their lease, they could not by whatever means sometimes live on less than a thousand a year.

Now that he was free from responsibility he began to form his plans, to save the department. He gathered Rabbi Rovine, Dr. Costello, Ockford, who was going to remain in town and practice, the secretary of the Labor Council, a banker who regarded himself as "fast," and that excellent fellow, the dentist of the clinic.

"When people like that behind you, you can do something," he explained to Leora. "I'm going to do it. I'm not going to have my D.P.H. turned into a Y.M.C.A. Bissex has all of Pickerbaugh's faults without his honesty and energy, and I can beat him! I'm not afraid of an executive, but I was going to visualise a D.P.H. that would be solid and not gaseous—that would save kids and prevent pneumonia. I won't give it up. You believe me!"

The committee made representations to the Commercial Club, and a time they were certain that the reporter of the Frontiersman was going to support them, and as he could get his, editor was not scared of a row. But Martin's belligerency was weakened when for he never had enough money to meet his bills, and he was not used to dodging irate grocers, receiving dunning letters, standing at the door arguing with impertinent bill-collectors.

He, who had been a city dignitary a few days before, had to endure, "Come on now, you pay up, you dead beat, or I'll get a cop!" When the shame had grown to terror, Dr. Bissex suddenly reduced his salary another two hundred dollars.

Martin stormed into the mayor's office to have it out, and found F. X. Jordan sitting with Pugh. It was evident that they both knew of the second reduction and considered it an excellent joke.

He reassembled his committee. "I'm going to take this into the courts," he raged.

"Fine," said Father Costello; and Rabbi Rovine: "Jenkins, that radical lawyer, would handle the case free."

The wise banker observed, "You haven't got anything to take into the courts till they discharge you without cause. Bissex has a legal right to reduce your salary all he wants to. The city regulations don't fix the salary for anybody except the Director and the inspectors. You haven't a thing to say."

With a melodramatic flourish Martin protested, "And I suppose I haven't a thing to say if they wreck the department!"

"Not a thing, if the city doesn't care."

"Well, I care! I'll starve before I'll resign!"

"You'll starve if you don't resign, and your wife, too. Now here's my plan," said the banker. "You go into private practice here—I'll finance your getting an office and so on—and when the time comes, maybe in five or ten years from now, we'll all get together again and have you put in as full Director."

"Ten years of waiting—in Nautilus? Nope. I'm licked, I'm a complete failure—at thirty-two! I'll resign. I'll wander on." said Martin.

"I know I'm going to love Chicago," said Leora.

He wrote to Angus Duer. He was appointed pathologist in the Rouncefield Clinic. But, Angus wrote, "they could not at the moment see their way clear to pay him forty-five hundred a year, though they were glad to go to twenty-five hundred."

Martin accepted.

When the Nautilus papers announced that Martin had resigned, the good citizens chuckled, "Resigned? He got kicked out, that's what happened." One of the papers had an innocent squib:

Probably a certain amount of hypocrisy is inevitable in us sinful human critters, but when a public official tries to pose as a saint while defaulting in every line, and tries to cover his gross ignorance and incompetence by pulling political wires, and makes a holy show of himself by not even doing a first-class job of wire-pulling, then even the nonchalant of us old scoundrels begins to holler for the meat axe.

Pickerbaugh wrote to Martin from Washington:

I greatly regret to hear that you have resigned your post. I cannot tell you how disappointed I am, after all the pains I took in breaking you in and making you acquainted with my ideas, Dr. Bissex informs me that, because of crisis in city finances, he had to reduce your salary temporarily. Well, personally, I would gamble a year on the D. P. H. for nothing a year and earn my keep by being a night watchman than give up the fight for everything that is decent and constructive. I am sorry. I had a great liking for you, and your defection, your going back to private practice merely for commercial gain, your selling out for what I presume is a very high emolument, is one of the very greatest blows I have recently had to sustain.

CONCERN OF FLORIDA BANKRUPT

Floranada Club Founders File Petition Admitting $8,581,576 Liabilities

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

JACKSONVILLE (Fla.) May 30. A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in Federal court here late yesterday by the American-British Improvement Corporation, developers of Floranada Club, Floranada, Fla., one of the largest developments in the State.

The petition listed assets of $2,551,518.58 and liabilities of $8,581,576.41. Federal court attaches said the petition involved the largest amount of any similar petition filed in this district in the last ten years.

The petition sets forth that the agreement to apply bankruptcy adjudication was made at a meeting of the board of directors on the 27th inst., when F. A. Usina, vice-president, was authorized to file the petition. Walter A. Hall, secretary of the petitioning corporation, and Mr. Usina are the only officers named in the petition.

The petition will probably be presented to Federal Judge Call for adjudication tomorrow. Edwin R. Williams, clerk of the court, said tonight.

SHIPPING and Los Angeles Harbor NEWS

FREIGHT SETS SUNDAY MARK

Total of 100,000 Tons Entered Port Yesterday

Lumber and Oil Industries Leading List

Manchuria on Way East to Sail at Noon

One hundred thousand tons of shipping entered the port of Los Angeles yesterday, said to be the busiest Sunday on record. There were thirty-two arrivals, with the lumber and oil trades leading the list.

Twelve lumber steamers from the Pacific Northwest brought in approximately 15,000,000 feet of lumber, while nine tank steamers arrived from all corners of the globe to load out 700,000 barrels of California petroleum. Five steamers in freight service came in and there were six passenger arrivals.

Heading the passenger list was the Manchuria, 24,000-ton flagship of the Panama-Pacific Line, from San Francisco for Havana and New York. She will sail south at noon today with 475 passengers and 7000 tons of California products, the greater portion of both lists having been taken aboard at this port.

Among the Manchuria's Southern California passengers are: Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Crenshaw, Alhambra; Burton W. Chace, Long Beach; Miss Marjorie Gardner, Riverside; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Gregg, Whittier; Mr. Martha D. Bowers and Miss Martha S. Bowers, Miss Helen D. Cappell and Miss Sara G. Tieff, Santa Barbara; Mrs. Louise Anderson, Miss Ida Bolnay, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Clancy, Mrs. Ailce M. Dean, Miss Aleha Dean and Master Fred Dean, Miss Mabel Dilleher, Miss Mabel English, Mrs. Camille Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Goddard, Rev. F. A. Kasprowics, Miss Molly F. Kehoe, Miss Jeannette Kelson, Miss Nettie McThane, Mrs. Nellie B. Meehan, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Morrison, Rev. John Pavlovski, Miss Helen Rampa, Mr. and Mrs. Mark W. Shawn, Miss Rosemary Short, Mrs. C. W. Storm, Mrs. Lillian Van Brunt and Miss Van Brunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Wachter, Mrs. Emily Willis and Mrs. S. E. Yount, all of Los Angeles.

At daylight this morning the Dollar around-the-world liner President Monroe will arrive from the East on her eighth successive circuit of the globe, bringing 125 passengers.

Among her passengers who are circuiting the globe are Mr. and Mrs. August Hahne of Newark, N. J.; Dr. Louise Carter and Dr. and Mrs. N. B. Rairden of Los Angeles; Dr. Martha Clark, also of this city, and F. M. Rauck of San Francisco. Other Angelenos returning on the President Monroe include: A. M. Edelman, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Krenwinkle and Miss Agnes Krenwinkle, Mrs. A. Yeeand, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Austin, N. B. Barhydt and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Chadwick.

Also coming in today from Puget Sound, bound for North Europe, is the Royal Mail Steam Packet motor liner Lochmonar. She will sail for the United Kingdom tonight after loading passengers and cargo here.

SIX LARGE TANKERS WILL ARRIVE TODAY

Six of the largest tank steamers in operation on the Pacific will come in this morning from the east coast, the Orient and South America to load for the return. They include the Standard Oil tanker John D. Archbold from Batavone, the Sabine Sun from Philadelphia, the Listero of the General Petroleum fleet from Maracaibo, the K. G. Kingsbury, Standard Oil, from Honolulu; the Shell tanker Costella from Tahuitsima, and the Eagle Oil's San Lorenzo from Buenos Aires.

On her maiden voyage to the Pacific, Swayne & Hoyt's new steamer Point Bonita is due this morning from the Negro River. Va., to enter the company's new Pacific-Atlantic-Gulf service. She was formerly the Shipping Board steamer Point Judith, and is the first of three sister ships to be delivered here.

Another newcomer will also visit the harbor this morning, the Admiral Line steamer Admiral Rogers, on a trip from the north with a cargo for the Pacific Steam Company. This vessel was formerly the Shipping Board freighter Lake Superior, one of two ships recently purchased by Pillsbury & Curtis, local firm of marine surveyors.

Swayne & Hoyt's Australian-New Zealand liner West Conob, under command of Capt. John Rees, will arrive from the north this morning to load for her maiden voyage to the Antipodes. She will load oil for Auckland, N. Z., 15,000 cases of gasoline, a cantonment of wallboard and general freight. She was recently transferred to this trade from the Pacific-Argentine-Brazil fleet, sold by the Shipping Board to the Moxsee-McCormick interests.

The West Nilus, on her last voyage from South America under command of Capt. Hoyt edney, will arrive at Los Angeles Harbor June 8 from Buenos Aires and way ports with 2000 tons of coffee, 1000 of sisalkraft and hides. Three other units of the fleet are also in the south on their last voyages before being turned over to the Moxsee-McCormick Line: the West Camargo, West Gamba and West Cadiza.

GOOD BOOKS

When you are young, you ought to read
The good old books, for those, indeed,
All cultured people ought to know.
Just ask your teacher what, for so
You'll learn good taste, and like what's best.
Let Goops read trash that you'll detest.

THINK BODY OF SLAIN OIL OPERATOR FOUND

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

LAREDO (Tex.) May 30. — The body of a man believed to be that of Sterling Huntley, oil operator murdered on the road between Zapata and San Ignacio, Zapata county, four days ago, was taken from the Rio Grande near Zapata last night. Sheriff Condren said that two men, one an American and the other a Mexican, are now in jail in a near-by county suspected of having killed Huntley.

DEALINGS IN COTTON LISTLESS

Past Week's Fluctuations Confined to Narrow Range and Business Restricted

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, May 30. — The trading in the cotton market the past week was a dull and listless affair with the fluctuations confined within a comparatively narrow range and business for the most part on a greatly restricted volume.

In the extreme advance July sold at 18.45 cents; October, 17.69 cents; December, 17.60 cents; January, 17.59 cents, and March, 17.64 cents. They show an advance of about 8 to 13 points from last Saturday's final quotations. The low levels were reached in the early part of the week when July sold at 18.23 cents; October, 17.50 cents; December, 17.41; January, 17.32 cents and March, 17.41 cents. Thus from the high quotations to the lowers there was established a decline of about 18 to 23 points.

The market closed the week with a net gain of about 2 to 9 points with July ending at 18.40 cents; October, 17.63; December, 17.56 cents; January, 17.50 cents and March, 17.60 cents. The weather conditions dominated the trading and the changes which transpired in these from day to day were chiefly responsible for the range of prices as mentioned above. The absence of rain in the Atlantic and gulf States, where more needed and lack of undesired moisture to develop in the western half of the belt, particularly in the central, southern and eastern portions of Texas and in Louisiana, tended to hold any bearish activity of importance in check. Then, too, the cheapness of the price of cotton contracts and the well-liquidated position of the market made short selling seem inadvisable and the trade generally was more inclined to buy cotton.

In former years there has always been a government crop condition report on cotton as of the 25th inst. By the act of Congress the Weather Bureau was instructed to defer making either an estimate on the average condition or prospective crop until the June 25 condition. This report is due to be given out July 2. It will also contain the first estimate of the acreage of the crop for the season. Last week the agricultural bureau revised its estimate of last season's acreage to a total of 48,090,000 acres against its estimate put out July 2, last year, as of June 25, which made the acreage then 46,448,000 acres. That had exceeded the previous highest record by several million acres.

It made the acreage picked the past season as high as 46,053,000 acres, producing 167.2 pounds on the average of lint cotton per acre, bringing the total crop for the season up to 16,086,000 bales of the gross weight of 500 pounds of cotton. That came very close to the previous greatest crop in history produced in 1914—just before the outbreak of the World War.

A number of private crop reports on the acreage and average condition of the crop are, however, now due, with about seven having been issued thus far. Among these the condition (which in most instances was as of the 18th or 21st inst.) ranged from 65 to 72 per cent, with the former by Clement, Curtis & Co. and the latter by J. W. Jay & Co., with the decrease in the acreage from 1.7 to 2.5 per cent. The acreage was placed at 47,710,000 acres by Fairchild and 48,165,000 by Clement, Curtis & Co. Reports by Norden & Co., the Memphis Commercial-Appeal, Watkins Bureau and Southern Cotton Company were others among the seven published. There are usually about fifteen of such private crop reports published prior to the publication of the government's report on July 2 in an attempt to forecast what its figures will be. The average of them will give the trade a good line on both the acreage and the condition of the crop. Until the government's first combined crop report of the season appears about a month from now. Private reports so far indicate a small decrease in the acreage from last season's record area—probably about 3 to 5 per cent.

Planting operations have been two to three weeks late on the average for the last month and this delay has not been caught up with. Usually all the crop is planted over the latest producing sections of the belt in the northern districts by this time. Excessive rains in parts of Louisiana, Southern and Eastern Texas have caused considerable replanting. So that, on the whole, this season's crop has started with some handicap as against the good start last year, which was a very important factor in the proper development of the crop producing the two largest American cotton crops on record.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

Por el Profesor R. Guerrero
DEL DEPARTAMENTO ESPANOL DE "THE TIMES"

Número 436

En la última parte del segundo párrafo de la Plática 435, hay que cambiar "del adverbio o conjuntivo de 'porque'", por "del adverbial o conjuntivo de 'porque'".

En el género neutro, continúa diciendo el señor Bello, "lo que" alterna frecuentemente con "lo cual", y ambos son hoy preferidos al simple "que". Nada más común que las expresiones "a lo que", "de lo que", "por lo que", en lugar de "a lo cual", "de lo cual", "por lo cual". En nuestros clásicos se encuentra a menudo "lo cual"; a veces en el mismo sentido, "lo que", y a menudo, "que". Ejemplos de "lo que" en el sentido de "lo cual": "Temo (dijo el italiano) que por ser mis desgracias tantas y tan extraordinarias, no me habéis de dar crédito alguno. A LO QUE respondió Periandro. &" (Cervantes); "El capitán acudió a ver la balsa y quiso acompañarle Periandro, de LO QUE fue muy contento" (el mismo). Ejemplos de "que" en el sentido de "lo cual": "Servir a Dios, de QUE depende nuestra felicidad eterna, debe ser el fin que nos propongamos en toda la conducta de nuestra vida"; "Llamáronla (los españoles) 'Isla de San Juan de Ulúa', por haber llegado a ella el día del Bautista, y por tener su nombre el general; en QUE andaría la devoción mezclada con la lisonja" (Solís). Pero después de las preposiciones de más de una sílaba, o de preposiciones precedidas de adverbios o complementos, "lo cual" debe preferirse a "lo que": "para lo cual", "según lo cual", "mediante lo cual", "acerca de lo cual", etc.

Debe evitarse que el relativo sea precedido de una larga frase perteneciente a la preposición incidente o subordinada: "El magistrado, en conformidad a las órdenes del cual"; "Aquiles, al resplandor de las armas del cual", no se toleraría. "Cuyo", simplificando esta frase, pudiera hacerla aceptable: "Aquiles, al resplandor de CUYAS armas"; pero aun con este posesivo no se toleraría: "Aquiles, espantados con el resplandor de cuyas armas huían precipitadamente los troyanos".

Termina sus observaciones el señor Bello diciendo que en lugar de "que" o "el cual", cuando se trata de personas, se dice frecuentemente "quien", sobre cuyo empleo, agrega el citado sabio, nos hemos extendido lo bastante en otros capítulos.

Por juzgar de bastante importancia para el estudiante angloamericano de español el estudio que hace el señor de la Peña en su Gramática sobre las construcciones incorrectas del relativo "que", me permito transcribirlo a continuación:

Se usa incorrectamente el reproductivo "que", cuando puede referirse a dos o más antecedentes, pues en este caso la frase resulta anfibológica. Esto se verifica en el pasaje de Fr. Luis de Granada transcrito a continuación: "Me lo envió confirmado (el milagro) con el testimonio de las madres más principales de aquel monasterio, que hoy día tengo en mi poder". Este período, atendiendo a su estructura, parece prestarse a los sentidos siguientes: que el escritor tenía en su poder el testimonio de las madres acerca del milagro; que tenía en su poder el monasterio mismo; y aun admite todavía otro sentido. El piadoso autor se refirió al testimonio de las madres.

Es asimismo incorrecto referir a un mismo nombre un pronombre relativo y el posesivo "suyo", "suya"; o bien emplear el relativo en caso distinto del que le corresponde. Uno y otro vicio afean esta construcción de Cervantes: "Habló de las letras humanas, QUE ES SU FIN poner en su punto la justicia distributiva". Como el relativo "que" reproduce la expresión "letras humanas", y de éstas es fin la justicia distributiva, el relativo "que" exige hallarse en genitivo. Pero expresada también la idea de posesión por el pronombre "su", resultaría un pleonasmo reprensible si, dando al relativo el caso que le corresponde, se modificara la redacción en estos términos: "Habló de las letras humanas, de las que es su fin, &". Toda incorrección desaparece si reemplazamos el relativo "que" y el posesivo "su" por el pronombre "cuyo", que desempeña ambos oficios: "Habló de las letras humanas, cuyo fin es poner en su punto la justicia distributiva".

Según la Real Academia Española, no siempre se indiferente emplear el relativo "cuyo" o su equivalente "de quien", "de quienes", "del que", "de los que", etc. "Lo es de ordinario con el verbo 'ser', pues lo mismo podemos decir: 'aquel de quien fuere la viña' o 'aquel cuya fuere la viña'; pero los demás piden forzosamente 'cuyo', 'cuya'. No son buenas locuciones, 'los clientes de quienes defendemos los derechos'; 'mi hermano de quien la salud está quebrantada'". La incorrección que censura la docta Academia subsiste si en las frases citadas, en lugar de los genitivos "de quien" y "de quienes", ponemos estos otros, "del que" y "de los que", escribiendo: "los clientes de los que defendemos los derechos", en vez de "los clientes cuyos derechos defendemos".

No obstante la regla dada por la Real Academia, se presentan numerosas construcciones correctas, a pesar de haberse resuelto el relativo "cuyo" en los genitivos "de quien", "de quienes", "del que", "de la que", "del cual", "de la cual"; al paso que las citadas por la Academia son notoriamente viciosas.

Sin duda son correctas estas locuciones: "Otros atribuyen este primer catecismo a Fr. Juan de Rivas, franciscano de quien se citan sermones y diálogos en mejicano" (Menéndez y Pelayo); "Son éstos . . . el llamado Augusteo, del que sólo se conservan unos 260 versos" (D. Eugenio Ochoa): "Es preciso . . . fijar nuestras miradas en la doctrina misma, en la filosofía primera, de la cual vienen a ser consecuencias o exposiciones populares esos mismos libros suyos de índole más literaria" (Menéndez y Pelayo).

Cotejado las construcciones correctas con las incorrectas, se advierte que es vicioso la resolución del relativo "cuyo" en el genitivo de cualquiera de los otros relativos, siempre que el sustantivo que rija a ese genitivo vaya precedido del artículo "el", "la", "los", "las", o del pronombre posesivo "suyo", "suya". Por lo mismo son incorrectas las construcciones siguientes: "Es un bálsamo de quien tengo la receta" (Cervantes). Además es arcaico el uso de "quien" referido a "bálsamo", que es nombre de cosa, puesto que, conforme al habla actual, el antecedente del relativo "quien" ha de ser nombre de persona. La frase será correcta si se suprime el artículo "la" antes del sustantivo "receta" y el "quien" se convierte en el relativo "que", en esta forma: "es un bálsamo de que tengo receta"; pero es preferible este otro giro: "es un bálsamo cuya receta tengo". Esta frase "eran personas de las cuales se hacían sus elogios o los elogios", quedará ajustada a las reglas gramaticales si, suprimiendo el posesivo "sus" o el artículo "los", se dice: "eran personas de quienes se hacían grandes elogios". Algún excelente hablista dijo: " . . . obras conocidas de que vayan escaseando los ejemplares"; nada habría de censurable si hubiera dicho: "obras conocidas de que vayan escaseando ejemplares, o cuyos ejemplares vayan escaseando". En una publicación periódica se lee: "se ha dirigido al Emperador de Austria la siguiente petición, de la que el telégrafo nos dio sucintamente la noticia"; nada habría de incorrecto si, suprimido el artículo, se hubiera dicho: "la siguiente petición, de que nos da sucinta noticia el telégrafo". Está a la vista en los ejemplos propuestos cómo resulta viciosa la frase por la presencia del artículo definido antes del nombre que rige al relativo puesto en genitivo.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, May 30.—Two rum vessels bearing more than 700 cases of assorted cordials valued at $200,000, seized by coast guardsmen off East Hampton, L. I., were brought to the barge office dock today. The crew of 100 asserted British seamen on one of them avoided capture by diving overboard and swimming about 200 yards to shore. Five men on the other were arrested.

The vessels were the two-masted fishing smack "Helen W. McLean," of British registry, and the gasoline sloop "Pinta," said to have been owned and operated by Daniel Grimshaw of East Hampton. Grimshaw and a crew of four were arrested.

WANDERS IN HILLS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

STOCKTON, May 30.—Wandering aimlessly about in the hills near Sonora suffering from loss of memory and unable to state clearly whence he had come from and how, Thomas Harris, between 65 and 70 years of age, was found by O. D. Childress, a Blanket Creek farmer. Harris was taken in charge by Deputy Sheriff J. A. Luddy and removed to the County Hospital in Sonora.

Arizona's Two Senators Fail to Agree on Bill

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, May 30.—A degree of disagreement appears to have developed between Arizona's two Senators, heretofore apparently well in accord. Senator Ashurst has written the Paradise Valley landowners that Senator Cameron's bill that seeks to lengthen the time of their financing "is only an empty gesture, and were I to support the same I simply would be raising in the breasts of many of our citizens false hopes that would surely be dashed to the ground." The Cameron bill, according to Ashurst, "has not even the shadow of a chance to become a law." Senator Ashurst stating that he fully supports Representative Hayden's attitude on this question.

The Senator declares, "It would be a gross deception on my part if I were to pretend that the landowners of the Paradise Valley Irrigation project could get water to irrigate their lands other than by co-operation with the Secretary of the Interior and with the Salt River Valley Water Users' Association."

SALE TO FORD AUTHORIZED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PREFERENCE SHOWN FOR BAY STATE

Theft Suspect Recalls What Connecticut Did to Gerald Chapman

NEW YORK, May 30.—William Downey, whose calling in life, according to police records, is following for bank bills with a gumstudded cane, through bank commissioners' windows, begged the Pinkertons and the New York police to send him to Massachusetts and not to Connecticut. Both States want him as a bail jumper.

Downey, the police of New Haven say, entered the First National Bank in that city last November after an outside confederate had called the teller to a booth. Armed with his sticky cane abstracted a package containing $1600. He was caught and turned loose on $7500 bail, which he abandoned.

In Massachusetts Downey is under sentence of one and one-half years in prison for a similar theft. He was released, pending appeal, on $5000 bail, but failed to give himself up when the appeal was denied.

"Massachusetts really has the first claim on me," pleaded Downey to Detective William Wagner of the Pinkertons, who has been hunting him for six months. "They send me to Connecticut. Look what they did to Chapman."

ARIZONANS TO ATTEND QUARANTINE HEARING

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

PHOENIX, May 30.—A large delegation of Arizonans will be present in Washington on Tuesday, the first start of a hearing before the Federal Horticultural Board, which will consider an official recommendation that quarantine be put on Arizona cotton or upon cotton produced in a Southern Arizona area within which has been found the native Thurberia weevil. Tucson representatives appear to have accepted the findings of Federal experts with regard to the weevil, but dispute the severity of the situation and the need of Federal aid in ridding the borders of the plants that shelter the insect. All Southern Arizona cotton-growing sections will be represented at the hearing.

LAST THOUGHTS OF AIMEE TOLD

Lecture Preaches Sermon Prepared by Evangelist

Radio Wafts Words Over Ocean; Search Continues

Memorial Services Held; Radio Operator Sought

Aimee Semple McPherson's last sermon, the one she was preparing just before she disappeared more than two weeks ago while in swimming at Ocean Park, was delivered over the waters where she was last seen as part of the Memorial Day services conducted last night at Angelus Temple under the direction of her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy. Meanwhile the search along the beach for her body was continued by followers who firmly believe she drowned.

Another search, conducted with equal vigor, was in progress by investigating officials who are seeking Beach U. Ormiston, formerly radio operator, for questioning in the trail of Ormiston, who vanished suddenly in Los Angeles last week, answered a few pertinent questions by police and was sought chiefly in Santa Barbara. He is last believed to have been seen there Sunday night. The search for him was renewed with the disclosure of several new facts regarded by the authorities as highly important.

POEMS PRAISE HER

At the Memorial Day services at Angelus Temple two poems praising Mrs. McPherson's work, life and character were read, and two were written to familiar tunes by members of the temple choir.

The audience seemed most pleased when Thomas Johnson sang "Asleep in the Deep." Mrs. Kennedy said her daughter had often said she would prefer to go to sleep and be cold rather than to die after a long illness.

Four thousand persons attended the services. Short addresses were given by a soldier and sailor in uniform, both members of the congregation, telling of the service of those who had died for their country and interpreting their patriotism in religious terms. Patriotic songs were played by the Temple band.

Police in Santa Monica police court asked last night by Mrs. Minnie O. Wright, one of the church representatives at the meeting, to see what they could do to stop the sale of portraits of Aimee McPherson by beach curio dealers.

OBJECT TO COMMERCIALISM

"The death of our dear leader should not be commercialized," said Mrs. Wright. "We object to the sale of these reproductions, not because the members of Angelus Temple are now at the height of their grief and partly because it might be thought we have some connection with the sale of them as a money deriving revenue from them."

Police said they will interview the venders and present this view to them, though pointing out to Mrs. Wright that the shopkeepers are within their legal rights.

Hundreds of the watchers soared constantly when the highest tide of the evangelist's disappearance was at 10:49 p.m. yesterday. Police patrols covered their posts with increased vigilance, keeping a careful watch all along the beach. Last night a search for Ormiston was centered at Santa Barbara after he had been traced from Salinas, from which point he had mysteriously headed in a car accompanied by an unidentified woman, heavily veiled and wearing goggles, according to informers.

Two hours after Ormiston had left Salinas, where he admitted his identity to investigators, an automobile said by investigators to bear the same license number as that issued to Ormiston arrived in San Luis Obispo, and the man and woman passenger went to the

WALTER LUTZ, BANKER, DIES

Financier Long Prominent in Business and Social Life of State Passes Suddenly at Balboa

Walter H. Lutz of 302 Palmetto Drive, Pasadena, vice-president and cashier of the First National Bank of Los Angeles and one of the widely known bankers in California, died suddenly of an acute attack of angina pectoris at Balboa yesterday. Having been troubled for the past three weeks with incipient attacks Mr. Lutz, accompanied by his wife, had been spending some days on the south coast in an effort to regain his health.

Prominent among the old families of Southern California, and was a member of the exclusive Valley Hunt and Caldron clubs of Pasadena.

In 1898 he left the National Bank of California to become receiving teller of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, and during the past twenty-eight years his progress in the First National has kept steady pace with the growth of that institution, for he served as receiving teller, as auditor, as assistant cashier, as assistant to the president, as junior vice-president and as cashier, and finally as vice-president and cashier.

In addition to the widow, Mr. Lutz leaves a sister, Evelyn R. Lutz of 155 South Orange Grove avenue, Pasadena.

Mr. Lutz's body has been removed from Balboa to the late residence in Pasadena where funeral arrangements are being made. There will be two services. The first will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the chapel of Turner & Stevens for the benefit of his banking friends who cannot attend an afternoon service. The second will be conducted at 4 p.m. Wednesday at the home.

Dr. Robert Freeman of the First Presbyterian Church of Pasadena will officiate at both.

MAESTRO OF ITALY HERE FOR VISIT

ISIDORE BRAGGIOTTI.

Maestro Isidore Braggiotti, famous vocal coach and operatic authority of Florence, Italy, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday. He was greeted at the station by a number of Angelenos who have studied with him abroad and by a number of officials and members of the chorus of the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association.

Through the efforts of Merle Armitage, the maestro is making his first trip here. Heretofore he has journeyed each year from his native country to Boston, but this summer he will conduct a master class in this city.

During his stay here he will be feted in musical and social circles. Among Braggiotti's past and present pupils and friends are Emma Eames, Patti, Nordica, Melba, Edouard and Jean De Reszke, Puccini, De Gorgorza, Massenet, Gounod and others of equal note.

VAN VORST DEATH RITES SCHEDULED

Services for Furniture Manufacturer Announced to be Conducted Tomorrow

Funeral services for Charles Bowen Van Vorst, long prominent in Los Angeles' industrial circles, will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p.m. in the Van Vorst home, 355 South Lucerne Boulevard. Burial will take place in Inglewood Cemetery.

C. B. VAN VORST.

Mr. Van Vorst was president and treasurer of the C. B. Van Vorst Furniture Manufacturing Company, and was president of the Western Furniture Company, also a manufacturing firm. He was a charter member of the Los Angeles Athletic Club and was a member of the Los Angeles Country Club, Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, furniture trade organizations and others of a similar kind.

For several months Mr. Van Vorst has not been well but he made occasional business trips to his office as late as last Thursday. Death came unexpectedly Saturday about 9:30 p.m. from an internal disorder not yet identified, relatives said. He was at his home at the time.

He leaves a widow, a son, George

THEATER OWNERS TO MEET

Board of Directors Will Hold Session Preliminary to Convention Opening Tomorrow

Following completion of registration of delegates tonight, the board of directors of the Motion-Picture Theater Owners of America, will go into business session to determine policies and rules governing the seventh annual convention of their organization, opening here tomorrow. Sydney S. Cohen, chairman of the board, with other officers of the association, arrived here Saturday night aboard the New York special train that brought more than 100 delegates to Los Angeles.

Many important matters affecting the exhibition branch of the film industry will come up for discussion at the conference and it is anticipated that a better understanding between the picture showmen and the producers and distributors will result.

Delegates will be taken on a sight-seeing tour of Los Angeles this morning by the California Division of the M.P.T.O.A., and they will be given an opportunity to view the homes of the screen stars. In the afternoon, the Whittier State School Band will play a concert on the lawn of the Ambassador, where convention headquarters are established, in honor of the visiting exhibitors.

Following the board of directors' meeting this evening, Will Morrissay's "Music Hall Revue" will put on a special show in the Ambassador Cocoanut Grove after they have concluded their regular performance at the Orange Grove Theater.

The initial regular business session of the convention will open tomorrow noon when Mayor Cryer will deliver an address of welcome to the delegates. The El Patio Ballroom Orchestra, led by Carlyle Stevenson, will give a concert and John Henry Lyons of Pasadena will lead community singing immediately preceding the first day's conclave. At the same time several screen stars, including Anna Q. Nilsson, Lloyd Hughes and Lewis Stone will be introduced to the exhibitors.

FINANCIAL STATUS SUBJECT OF LECTURE

"The Public Budget" and "Our Financial Status" will be explained by Roy A. Knox, City Efficiency Director, at the open forum of the Affiliated Improvement Associations to be conducted in the committee rooms of the Chamber of Commerce Building on the night of Wednesday.

CITY IN TRIBUTE TO WAR HEROES

Memorial Day Observed in All of Southland

Civic Organizations Join in Special Programs

Today's Schedule Includes March of Veterans

Honor to the nation's dead is being paid in Los Angeles and neighboring communities in Memorial Day programs which began yesterday and will continue today. In Los Angeles the feature of today's observance will be the veterans' parade, which will march through the Coliseum at 2 p.m. The Battle Fleet today will conduct ceremonies in memory of the Navy's dead.

In churches, parks, at the beaches and at the headquarters of the civic and fraternal organizations, memorial programs were given yesterday. The heroes of the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Mexican, Civil, Indian and Spanish wars, and those who fought in that great conflict, the World War, were honored by ceremonies in which leading public officials, civic organizations, school children, the churches and military organizations took part.

TABLET UNVEILED

One of the features of yesterday's services was the memorial exercises held at Veterans' Memorial Hall, Santa Monica, where a large delegation of veterans from the Old Soldiers' Home attended the unveiling of a tablet. Mayor Cryer and Judge Charles S. Crail made addresses. Before the ceremony a large parade made up of the veterans' war organizations and Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls marched through the business district to the veterans' hall.

A special program dedicated to American soldiers and sailors in days of peril was given by Roberts Golden State Band at Lincoln Park. Vocal and dancing numbers were included in the program.

FLOWERS SCATTERED

At 10 a.m. yesterday as the music of the chimes floated over Avalon Bay, an airplane scattered thousands of Catalina wild flowers on the water as a tribute to the sailors of the nation who lost their lives. At the amphitheater the choir of St. Catherine's Church and the Catalina Apollo male quartet with Boy Scouts acting as honor guard, gave selections.

Scores of other services were held in the city and various Southern California communities.

PARK PROGRAM

Services were conducted at Roosevelt Memorial Park. One Hundred and Eighty-second street and Normandie avenue. The program included an organ concert under the auspices of the Gardena, Compton, Torrance and Redondo posts of the American Legion. There was also a flag service by the Gardena Boy Scouts.

At Inglewood Park Cemetery a plot was dedicated to the veterans

U.S.C. GRADUATES HEAR BACCALAUREATE SERMON

University Head Addressing Class

DECLARING the religion of the youth of today to be one of spirituality, with the younger generation seeking more and more the purposes and outcome of life, President Rufus B. Von KleinSmid delivered the Baccalaureate sermon before members of the graduation class, members of their families and friends yesterday in the Coliseum. The impressive and colorful service marked the opening of commencement week at the University of Southern California.

Headed by their faculty, numbering 500, the 1200 members of the graduating class in their caps and gowns marched solemnly into the huge bowl for the service. Entering at the east gate of the stadium the graduates, led by the college band, flag and standard bearers and William La Porte, chief marshal, formed two long lines in the center of the field. Members of the faculty, the deans of the college, trustees, and the president's party, marching up the center of the field between the two lines and taking their places before the speaker's stand. The class members led by Barton Hutchins, senior class president, and Evalyn Ross, vice-president, then went to the section reserved for them in the stadium.

INVOCATION PRONOUNCED

Before the audience of nearly 5000 persons invocation was pronounced by Rev. E. F. Gates, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Santa Monica, who presided as chaplain of the day.

"Scholars today do not deny the existence of God as much as they ignore Him," President Von KleinSmid declared. "It is as senseless as it is wicked to place before the minds of youth and men the lesser things that they may not see the greater truth involved in mankind. Our sciences today may not be more leading than those of yesterday but the modern science gathers hosts of truths which we find no reason for being.

"Religion interests us only as it has certain outstanding factors. Probably the foremost of these is honesty. The creed of tomorrow will be a creed of honesty," he said.

FLOOD OF SPIRITUALITY

"There never has been a more careful search of the spirit than we find in the program of youth today. Out of the heart of this army there will come a flood of spirituality which will make the world move along just a little better, a little faster, and a little surer. Religion rises to meet issues with all the forces of young manhood and young womanhood. Youth's obligation today is recognized as a religious obligation."

Hundreds of persons lined University avenue to view the procession as the students, garbed in their traditional academic insignia, marched from the university campus to Exposition Park.

Preceding the baccalaureate sermon, the assembled throng sang "America" and the hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy." Benediction was said by Chaplain Gates at the close of the service.

DIPLOMAS SATURDAY

Perhaps the most impressive of the events scheduled for the week will be the commencement exercises in the Coliseum Saturday afternoon when diplomas will be awarded. Saturday at 7 p.m., an alumni reunion dinner is to be given.

The commencement of the college of music will be held tonight in Bovard Auditorium, Thursday evening the school of speech re-

BOY MEETS DEATH IN SURF

Dozen Bathers in Peril at Crowded Beaches; Human Life Line Saves Man with Cramps

Death of a boy in the surf at Manhattan Beach, apparently from heart disease, and the rescues of a dozen bathers from different sorts of predicament in the water, were features yesterday of the season's biggest day so far along the Pacific sands. Two bathers were rescued at Redondo after getting tangled in a cable of a stranded ship.

The dead bather was Earl Nelson, 14 years of age, who lived with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Livingstone, at 927 Enterprise street, Inglewood, and worked at the Fifth Street Store. He had been in the water only a few minutes when another swimmer, Billy Stewart, 13, heard a feeble cry for help from him and gave the alarm. Other bathers brought the boy to shore and the pulmotor squad from Redondo was summoned, but could not revive him. A physician expressed the opinion he had not drowned, as his lungs appeared to be free from water, and an autopsy may be ordered to determine the cause of death.

The boy's father, Lou Nelson, lives at Trenton, N. J. He had gone to Manhattan Beach for the day to visit another uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Spitzer. The body was sent to the Beaver & Matson undertaking rooms at Inglewood.

PAIR RESCUED

The names of the pair, a man and a woman, rescued at Redondo, were not obtained by the police. They were saved by life guards in a skiff and were able to go home. Details of how they happened to be caught in the cable were not obtained.

In a daring rescue made by Venice lifeguard, Frank D. Beane, 35 years of age, an insurance salesman of 426 East Eighty-fifth street, was brought ashore in a semiconscious condition off the foot of Brooks avenue.

Beane, several hundred feet from shore, was being mauled by a riptide when his distress was noted by Officer Maule. Maule gave the alarm and City Lifeguard Wolf and Lifeguards Barnes and McNean swam out to aid him. After an exhausting struggle they got him ashore and he was revived by the use of an inhalator.

Dr. Phelan pronounced him out of danger.

SEVERE TIDE

Another and unusually severe tide rip took place a short time later, carrying out eight or more bathers, most of whom were rescued by Life Guards Green and Koze, of the Ocean Park Plunge. In rescuing Loyd Jurney, one of the swimmers, the two guards and Jurney were carried under the Lick pier by the rip. Jurney suffered cuts of his legs from barnacles on the piling. None of the bathers was in a dangerous condition when brought ashore.

More than 100 men formed a life rope line at Laguna Beach to complete the rescue of J. C. Jordan, Los Angeles real estate broker, by his brother, Gail Jordan, and Ernest Hill, both University of California students living at Santa Ana.

Jordan was seized with cramps, his cries attracting the attention of his brother and young Hill. They went to his aid, and cried to the crowd for help. For some time there was no response, other bathers thinking the calls were in sport.

Jordan was revived by the two students.

BROTHERS OF VETERAN SOUGHT BY BUREAU

The Los Angeles chapter of the American Red Cross is trying to locate David and Joseph ReVley, brothers of Nathan A. ReVley, deceased ex-service man, for the United States Veterans' Bureau. The Veterans' Bureau is holding compensation due the estate, and the brothers are eligible to their share, it is stated.

HAMBURG SAILS FOR BAY CITY

German Cruiser Departs With Official Word on Beer Sales Lacking

The German cruiser Hamburg left the harbor at 11 a.m., yesterday for San Francisco after a thirteen-day stay. Up to the time of sailing, it was said, no word from any official source regarding the reported sale of beer on board had been received by Capt. Otto Groos.

The Hamburg will remain at San Francisco four days, and then depart for Honolulu on its voyage to the Orient. The Hamburg is in the course of a thirteen-months' training cruise for midshipmen. She carries 391 men, including 100 midshipmen.

The personnel of the Hamburg, the first German warship to visit here since prewar days, was the recipient of many entertainment features. The officers were tendered official courtesies by the battle fleet and army officers, German-American citizens of Los Angeles saw to it that the time of the visitors was well occupied. The officers of the ship repaid courtesies with a reception Friday night.

PRESS WANTS RICHARDSON

Majority of Newspapers in Interior of State Support Governor's Re-election

A petition was sent forward from Ventura county yesterday from all but two of the publishers of that county asking Gov. Richardson to be a candidate for Governor at the November election. This was in line with petitions that have been sent during the last two weeks from the newspaper publishers of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties. A similar resolution also has been sent representing the publishers of the San Fernando Valley.

The Ventura county publishers who have joined in this movement, now quite general among the publishers of the State, are: A. H. Davis, publisher and owner Ventura Morning Post; Oscar Conklin, publisher Ventura Free Press; J. J. Krouser, owner and publisher Oxnard Daily Courier; Leo Smith, owner and publisher Santa Paula Chronicle; Calvin Hoffman, owner and publisher Moorpark Enterprise, and R. E. Smith, publisher Fillmore Herald.

Ninety-five per cent of the country publishers of Southern California have voluntarily declared their preference for Richardson. A leading county is Orange, where twenty of the twenty-one newspapers are for the return of the Governor to Sacramento. The only county in the State to surpass this record is Napa county, where every publisher has joined the Richardson ranks. In Sonoma country every publisher but one is reported to have declared for the Governor.

Many individual editors in Los Angeles county have asked the Governor to allow his name to go before the voters again this year. Four years ago in Orange county there were only three active newspaper supporters for Gov. Richardson before the August primary. With twenty out of twenty-one this year, it is quite evident that the Orange county results will not be in question.

The same sort of report comes from most of the other counties in the north as well as the south, particularly in the agricultural districts.

As an indication of the increased strength for Richardson in the interior districts, the only newspaper among the larger dailies openly supporting Gov. Richardson four years ago was the Riverside Enterprise, while there was an open and strenuous opposition to him on the part of the San Bernardino Sun, Redlands Facts, Riverside Press and Santa Ana Register. In contrast, in the same territory this year the following daily papers are for the Governor: Riverside Enterprise, San Bernardino Telegram, Ontario Report, Pomona Progress, Pomona Bulletin, Corona Independent and Colton Courier.

At the same time, the group of dailies formerly solidified against the Governor is now badly split. The San Bernardino Sun is supporting Goodcell. The Riverside Press has taken an independent position, acknowledging the probable victory of Richardson in the primary on account of the number of candidates who will split the antiadministration support. The editor of the Redlands Facts, Lyman King, is a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor and is keeping out of the Governorship contest. Paul Moore, business manager of that newspaper, is known as one of Richardson's heartiest supporters this year. This leaves only the Santa Ana Register of the entire group of inland dailies in complete support of C. C. Young for Governor.

STREET CHANGE APPROVED

The ordinance of intention for the improvement of Commonwealth avenue between Sunset Boulevard and Fountain avenue has been adopted by the Council and June 22, next, set as the date for hearing protests.

FLEET WILL HOLD TEST TOMORROW

Battle Squadron Will Fire Force Practice After Three Delays

After being three times delayed by thick weather, the battle fleet tomorrow will attempt again to fire force practice, the ultimate test of the fleet's battle efficiency. So much rests on the outcome of the practice this year, fleet officials point out, that the Navy Department desires that it be fired under as nearly perfect conditions of visibility as can be obtained. Details of both the first and second phases of the action this year are different from those of any previous practice.

Such important forward steps in naval warfare are being attempted in tomorrow's exercise that, if successful, they will greatly increase the long-range effectiveness of the American battle squadron.

On account of last week's delays this week will be a very busy period for the fleet. Upon the completion of force practice the U.S.S. Tennessee and U.S.S. Pennsylvania both must fire long-range battle practice and certain anti-aircraft practices, with other units of the squadron serving as towing and observation ships.

All units have been operating at least three weeks on an intensive gunnery schedule without machinery overhaul and the fleet is therefore badly in need of an "at anchor" period. Next week will find all ships at anchor, overhauling machinery, taking on stores and preparing for the summer cruise to Puget Sound via San Francisco, on which they depart June 15.

ASSESSMENTS CONFIRMED

The following assessments have been confirmed by the Council: Improvement of Kearsarge street between Chayote street and Norman Way; Norton avenue between Wilshire Boulevard and Eighth street, Orlando avenue between Rosewood avenue and Beverly Boulevard, Hope street between Sixth and Washington streets and Witmer street between First and Sixth streets.

ON MEMORIAL DAY

BY ANNE CAMPBELL

If I could place a rose upon your grave,
Or drape a flag about its wooden cross,
Some measure of sweet comfort I would have,
And healing tears would help me bear my loss.

But under far-off skies you sleep, my son,
And if the poppies bloom above you now,
Some other hand has sown them, one by one,
As other fingers soothed your pain-lined brow.

Dear, I will seek a lonely grave today,
And in your name sweet blossoms I will strew.
Perhaps you'll pause, on your celestial way,
And gather my heart's offering to you!

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

IF AIMEE SEMPLE McPHERSON is still living, she must be getting a lot of high entertainment.

I can think of nothing that would be more gratifying to human vanity than the sight of the long sea beach patrolled by anxious and tearful watchers.

Mrs. McPherson, being a woman of sterling character, has probably conquered such petty faults; but any Hollywood actor would be willing to perish to get such a thrill.

IT MIGHT HAVE HAPPENED

A British army officer is quoted as expressing his undying gratitude that the general strike did not come to street fighting between the troops and the mobs.

It would have been terrible beyond description. Among the strikers were hundreds of ex-soldiers, versed in every form of hand-to-hand trench fighting; whereas most of the men in the British regular army are now inexperienced boys. He intimates that the army would have been licked.

TWO HARD BLOWS

His first notable effort was to proclaim over the radio the fact that the Prince of Wales can't speak the English language. It appears that His Highness says "Dooka Yawk" when he means Duke of York; "howp" for "hope;" and indulges in other cockney tongue slips.

Having given the public time to recover from this one, Mr. St. John Ervine now declares that no woman more than 40 years of age should be allowed to go to the theater more than twice a year. He says the women are the cause of the prosperity of dirty plays.

A GOOD SPORT

Just at present, however, our hearts are warm toward princes — whether or not they sound their "Rs."

The Crown of Prince of Sweden has shown himself to be a good sport. Even to the extent of answering all the silly questions the reporters asked him when he got off the steamer.

He graciously raved about New York against the sky line; and declared his passionate longing to see Babe Ruth—although afterward admitting, that he had never heard of the swat king.

RAMPARTS OF POWER

At that, it does not require much graciousness, or soft deception to rave about the sky line of New York.

No other work of man—from the days of the pyramids on—ever so suggested vibrant power.

Looking at those skyscrapers against the sky, you can feel the throb of a terrific young giant. In spite of the foundations rooted with steel in the living rock, there is nothing static about the massed hulk of New York. It seems, somehow, tingling with life and power—with the ruthlessness of youth and the eager interest of youth, too.

POETS AND BUSINESS

Raised eyebrows — and amazement because St. Paul has elected a poet to be Mayor of the city.

Although I can't imagine why,

INTRUDER PUTS UP WILD FIGHT

Woman Injured in Struggle to Make Burglar Captive

Housewife Aids Husband and Son in Frenzied Battle

Calls Rouse Neighbors From Slumbers to Lend Aid

Though severely bitten in the left side and painfully scratched about the face Mrs. J. F. Newell heroically battled by the side of her son, Dean, and her husband in subduing a burglar who, early yesterday morning, broke into their home at 2202 South Raymond avenue.

The battle with the intruder lasted for more than half an hour and before it had ended scores of neighbors of the Newell's had gathered in hastily donned kimonas and bathrobes to aid. The burglar, trussed up like a laced Christmas turkey, gave his name as Cosmo Gavan, 21 years of age, and his address as 1845 East Sixtieth street when he was turned over by the Newell family to Officers Alpers and Staughton of the University police division. In his pockets, according to the officers, were several articles of jewelry stolen from Mrs. Newell's bedroom.

SURPRISES INTRUDER

The sensational struggle began when the son Dean, returned home shortly before dawn and surprised the intruder hiding behind the clothes closet door in his bedroom. The burglar had already, it was disclosed, ransacked the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. Newell while they slept.

As the son was about to open the window in his bedroom the burglar sprang from behind the closet door and fled for the front door. Dean at once started after him, crying to his parents that there was a burglar in the house. When the intruder reached the front door he found that the son had locked it when he came in. Before he could force it open the son grabbed him by the collar and pulled him back into the hallway. They were exchanging rapid blows when Mr. and Mrs. Newell, clad only in their night clothes arrived on the scene. At the arrival of reinforcements the intruder broke away from the son and ran toward the rear of the house.

FAMILY IN CHASE

With the Newell family in hot pursuit the burglar fled through the house, dodging and doubling back through the rooms. As the son suddenly switched on the hall light the burglar succeeded in opening the front door, but before he could reach the front steps the Newells were upon his back. Then ensued a second desperate struggle in which the burglar fought furiously, using his fists, feet and teeth. Mrs. Newell was bitten severely in the left side.

For a second time the burglar succeeded in breaking free and fled down the street. Dean Newell proved himself quicker on his feet and again overtook him before he had gone many steps. By this time neighbors began to pour out of the near-by houses attracted by the cries of the Newells.

M. W. Twitchell of 2210 South Raymond avenue, the first to witness the battle, procured a rope, and with help of the Newells and other neighbors finally succeeded in tying up the frenzied Gavan.

St. Andrews Hotel, where they registered as Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gibson, Portland, Or. At 11 o'clock Saturday night the same automobile with the man and woman arrived in Santa Barbara and when questioned, the driver, who investigators said was Ormiston, declared his name was Frank Gibson of Sacramento.

When questioned in Santa Barbara as to the identity of the woman, the man, investigators declared, became enraged and threatened a fistic encounter.

After the entrance of the mysterious pair into Santa Barbara all trace of the car and its occupants was lost and no hotel registers in that city showed that the couple had remained there that night. The route from the Channel City is now being traced.

Before leaving Santa Barbara the driver told investigators that if any further information was wanted from him he would be registered at a Los Angeles hotel last night, but at a late hour he had not appeared.

Mrs. Kennedy said last night she has had no word from Ormiston since she talked to him here Thursday.

She said tentative plans are being made to conduct a memorial service for her daughter one month from the date of her disappearance.

Mrs. Kennedy asked that additional publicity be given the offer of $25,000 reward for the return of the evangelist alive and in good health. She desires this, she said, to stem the flood of rumors of kidnapings and reports the evangelist has been seen at this and the other place.

ROSES STREWN FROM AIR

A profusion of red and white roses was strewn over the quiet waters of the Pacific from an airplane piloted by Art Goebel, who was carrying out a plan laid by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of the evangelist, several days ago. Mrs. Kennedy said the services were not only for the memory of her daughter, but for all others who have lost their lives in the ocean. The flowers were provided by Mrs. Kennedy and other members of Angelus Temple.

While no music or other form of ceremony marked the occasion, a large crowd composed mostly of Mrs. McPherson's followers lined the water's edge while the flowers were dropped from the plane.

While operations of professional divers were suspended for the day, the Angelus Temple patrol was still in evidence.

Another exploration around the piers yesterday at low tide was made by D. H. Alderman, in charge of the temple patrol, and R. D. Hunt, Venice athlete who has been diving for Mrs. McPherson's body but no trace of the evangelist was found, they reported.

A large bed of kelp was in during the morning off the spot where Mrs. McPherson was believed to have drowned, and a temple patrol squad chartered a launch and went out to examine it.

Early this morning R. C. Crawford, deep-sea diver, who has been hired by Mrs. Kennedy to explore beneath the pier, will make another attempt to find the body.

FUNERAL TOMORROW OF DIVER WHO SOUGHT BODY

Funeral services for Capt. Ed Harrison, noted deep-sea diver who died Saturday in a local hospital, will be conducted tomorrow from the chapel in Hollywood Cemetery, with the Masonic and Elk lodges, of which he was a member, in charge.

Capt. Harrison died from a ruptured appendix, and a touch of pneumonia, which, according to physicians, was probably induced by the exertion of his diving work in an attempt to recover the body of Aimee Semple McPherson. Last Monday Capt. Harrison, who was also constable of Catalina, was requested by Sheriff Traeger to make an exploration of the sea bed near the vicinity where Mrs. McPherson was believed drowned. After several trips below the surface he announced there was no body in that section, and declared it useless to do any further searching there.

He leaves a widow and two children.

Part of Osborne Bonds Reported Found in East

United States Secret Service operatives in Chicago have recovered $40,000 more of the $103,000 of bonds stolen from John R. Osborne in the Maryland Hotel, Pasadena, last November, according to information reaching here. The bonds are reported to have turned up in banking circles.

The bonds were stolen from the Vahalla Memorial Park promoter by his companion, Harold J. Whittaker, it was charged. Pinkerton detectives recovered $20,000 at the time of Whittaker's arrest last January. Whittaker since escaped from the jail here and has not been recaptured.

Osborne himself is under Federal court sentence of ten years for asserted use of the mails to defraud. He has appealed from the decision.

FOUR DIE IN AUTO TRAFFIC

Lives of Three Men and One Woman Snuffed Out as Week-End Toll in City and Vicinity

Three men and one woman were killed and others were seriously or fatally injured in traffic accidents reported to police and Sheriff's office yesterday.

The dead are Eugene Nicholson, 22 years of age, a Hawthorne fireman; Mrs. Clara Ridnor, 1730 Pacific avenue, Long Beach; Juan Garcia, 32, a Southern Pacific section hand, 2441 South Alameda street, and F. A. Chavez, 45.

Mrs. Ridnor was injured in an automobile accident on the Ridge Route near Saugus and died later in the San Fernando Hospital.

Nicholson left Hawthorne early yesterday with Joe Thatcher, a friend, to hunt rabbits on the desert. As they were rounding a sharp turn near The Tavern, at Elizabeth Lake, their car collided with a truck and was overturned against an embankment. His body was sent to the Mumaw undertaking rooms at Lancaster. Thatcher received facial injuries, possibly a broken nose.

Toshiko Honma, 2 years of age of 116 South Hewitt street, was struck in the yard of his home by the car of his father, Harry Honma, as the latter was backing it out of a garage. A rear wheel passed over the child's head. He was taken to Receiving Hospital; his condition is critical.

William Makshonaff, 44½, of 907 Whittier Boulevard, was struck while playing in the street near his home by a car driven by George Herndon, 419 Stanford avenue. He suffered concussion of the brain and numerous cuts and bruises and was taken to Receiving Hospital.

William Shadd, about 15, of 5275 Loleta street, Eagle Rock, suffered cuts of the face and neck when his head was driven through the windshield of a car driven by J. B. Patterson, 15, of Glendale, near Venice. The Patterson boy's car struck the rear of one driven by Nat B. Glasser of 529 West Eighth street, which had stopped. Shadd was taken to Culver City Hospital.

Garcia and Chavez were in an automobile containing five persons when it was struck by a San Pedro Pacific Electric train at San Pedro and Twentieth streets yesterday evening, according to the police report.

Rafael Espinoza, 50, suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries and Rafael Soldano, 38, driver of the car, suffered concussion of the brain and was cut and bruised. He was booked on suspicion of manslaughter. Police said he had been drinking. Ganno Redriguez, 18, was uninjured. Police detained him as a material witness. With the exception of Soldano, whose address is 1521 East Twenty-ninth street, all live at the South Alameda-street address.

TRACK-WALKER FOUND MANGLED BY TRAIN

Manuel Castameda, 46 years of age, of Chatsworth, a track-walker employed by the Southern Pacific, was found dead yesterday in the Chatsworth Tunnel after two trains had passed over his body. It was believed Castameda collapsed or fell dead on the tracks and was not killed by a train.

FIVE AUTOS PILE UP; TWO PERSONS INJURED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL MONTE, May 30.—Five cars were wrecked and two persons injured in a pile-up at Garvey and San Gabriel boulevards at 9 p.m. today which tied up traffic for an hour.

C. L. Holton, 607 North Baltimore street, Monterey Park, turned back to recover a tire his car had thrown when he was run into by a machine driven by Bertram Fith, 1277 Redondo Boulevard, Los Angeles, according to the police report. R. L. Johansen, 14210 Victoria Drive, Van Nuys, then crashed into both machines. It was reported, and two more cars piled into the heap.

Holton was pinned under the car and suffered a badly crushed foot. A woman in Johansen's car, police said, was thrown to the pavement and cut and bruised.

Chess Title on Coast Captured by Players Here

Los Angeles county won the Pacific Coast chess championship from San Francisco county last night. San Francisco has held the title for three years.

The game was played by telegraph, an instrument being installed for the occasion in the Chess and Checker Club of Los Angeles here in the Union League Building and one in the Mechanics Institute rooms, San Francisco.

The club and the institute played fifteen boards, the plays continuing from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. when Los Angeles was winner by 9 to 6 games.

The names of the successful local players were announced as C. H. Whipple, M. A. Woodward, D. G. Holt, A. Hart, O. Burnett, H. Drouiard, G. E. Croy, S. O. Long and Dr. E. H. Sawyer.

Thousands View Tom Ton's Body at Funeral Hall

Several thousand persons viewed the body of Tom Ton, 945-pound circus man, at the Remington Funeral Chapel, 133 South Flower street, yesterday. Tom Ton, whose name is Theodore Valenzula, died of heart disease at the General Hospital last Thursday.

Valenzula, who lived at 1336 South Olive street, with his wife and three children, was in a side show at Coney Island, N. Y., when he was taken ill. He made the journey from the East in a baggage car as he was too large to occupy Pullman accommodations.

His coffin is the largest ever made and it was necessary to use a block and fall to place the body in it. He will be buried tomorrow afternoon. A two-ton truck will be used, instead of a hearse.

HAMBURG SAILS ON TRIP NORTH

Only a few papers such as the National Zeitung express the fear of a "conflict between the United States and Germany for one bottle of beer" in scareheads. The Nationalistic press sees an insult to German hospitality in the reports that the prohibition agents were smuggled on the Hamburg after the sailors tried to return Los Angeles' hospitality by offering their friends a glass of beer on board.

Official circles here do not believe the sailors sold the beer, since this is absolutely against orders. It is understood Wilhemstrasse intends to file a protest with Washington should the prohibition agents have smuggled themselves on board and tried to seize the Hamburg's liquor, because it is a battleship and ranks as an extra-territoriality the same as the embassies and legations.

MISSION PLAY PLAN BACKED

Public interest in the project to place the Mission Play at San Gabriel on a sound financial basis and insure its maintenance as a permanent Southern California institution has been abundantly in evidence since the plans of the promoters were announced a few days ago.

On Saturday Mission Play headquarters at the Chamber of Commerce were advised that Henry M. Robinson, president of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, has consented to act as a member of the board of directors of the Mission Playhouse Corporation, recently organized by a group of prominent citizens to promote the project. The information came from George I. Cochran, vice-president of the corporation, who had met Mr. Robinson in San Francisco and there outlined the plan to the banker.

Nearly $50,000 of stock in the corporation was sold the first day the project was announced. Since then Lou Johnson, the secretary of the corporation, has received a flood of inquiries from persons who are interested a large number of them from people with money to invest who wish to be informed in regard to the Mission Play project from a business standpoint.

of the British forces. The British flag was dipped in solemn tribute, while scores of former British officers, enlisted men and nurses stood by.

The dedication of the ground was conducted by Rt. Rev. Frederick R. Graves, D.D., bishop of Shanghai, China. The ground was given by the Victoria Empire Club of Inglewood. Clan Camerons, Caledonians, Daughters of Scotia and other citizens of Los Angeles.

More than 4000 churches conducted services and an address on "Gospel Peace" was broadcast from The Times radio station by Dr. H. C. Culbertson, pastor of the Mesa Congregational Church.

HALL DEDICATED

The dedication of a new hall, which was part of the ceremony at Sawtelle, took place at 2 p.m. The lot was donated by a disabled veteran and the hall erected at a cost of $35,000, obtained through public subscription. A parade by veterans preceded the exercises, from Santa Monica Boulevard at One Hundred and Tenth avenue, to the hall. E. L. Dilbeck, commander of American Legion Post No. 290, acted as grand marshal. By special order of the United States government the firing squad from the Old Soldiers' Home took part in the ceremony, while the music was rendered by the Soldiers' Home Band.

On the municipal playground at Sawtelle the William Courtenay memorial tree was dedicated to the memory of a stricken World War veteran by that name. Mr. Courtenay was a witness. The tree and site were furnished by the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Department.

TODAY'S PROGRAM

Today an elaborate program will be given.

The schools, banks, public offices, all departments of the Federal Building and the courts will suspend activities. The postoffice will be closed as will all the principal stores and business houses.

The parade is scheduled to reach the Coliseum at 1:30 p.m. John R. Quinn, past national commander of the American Legion, is general chairman of the Memorial Day committee and Col. S. M. Saltmarsh will be grand marshal. Col. J. H. Brandt will be chief of staff and Col. H. W. Seager in charge of first aid. Other officers are Clarence Kincaid, secretary; Col. C. F. Derby, treasurer, and H. J. L. Atwood, chairman of the program committee.

Venice will hold its annual Memorial Day services today at 11 a.m. at the Venice Pier, where services will be conducted by patriotic organizations, led by war veterans, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and public officials. Superior Judge William Haslett will speak at the services, during which flowers will be strewn on the waters by a delegation of school children.

Santa Monica will hold an elaborate Memorial Day parade today in charge of John H. Will, who will act as general chairman. Orville Emerson will be grand marshal. The parade will be in three divisions and eleven sections, with all branches of the service, both past and present, represented, together with civic organizations. George H. Helmer is chairman of the program committee.

NAVAL EXERCISES

The Navy will observe Memorial Day at the harbor and at San Diego today. The ships of the Battle Fleet, will remain at anchor all day, with services on each ship.

Special services will be conducted at 10 a.m. on the quarterdeck of the U.S.S. Mississippi in memory of the forty-eight members of the crew who were killed by an explosion in turret No. 2 during long-range battle practice on June 12, 1924.

On the U.S.S. Tennessee special services will be given for the nineteen men who lost their lives when the armored cruiser Tennessee went on the rocks in the West Indies several years ago. Capt. G. L. P. Stone will deliver an address.

The U.S.S. New Mexico will drop a wreath into the sea in memory of the Navy's dead in the nation's wars. The Battle Fleet will be represented at services on land by 150 men from the U.S.S. Colorado who will parade through the harbor district and attend services at Harbor View Cemetery at 10 a.m., Chaplain M. M. Witherspoon officiating.

The Third Coast Artillery at Fort MacArthur will participate in exercises at Long Beach.

In the first place, something must be done with poets. Also the best business men are poets.

The little business man is a grub worm, concerned only with facts; the big business man is a poet. I have never known a magnate of industry who was not intensely imaginative.

For generations little men crossed the deserts of Imperial Valley and saw nothing but jack rabbits and rattlesnakes. A big business man with a poet's imagination came along; and he saw an empire that needed only the trickle of water.

A poet and an engineer would seem to be at the opposite cosmic poles; yet no man could be a really great engineer who was not also a poet.

Two More Held in Dope Net at San Bernardino

Two more dope-ring arrests have been made at San Bernardino by Federal narcotic agents. Nathan S. Thibodeau, said to be known here as "Kid" Bailey, with a police record, and Frank E. Allen are in jail charged with having sold a large quantity of morphine to a woman operative.

Their arrest is said to have resulted from a confession made to Federal agents last week when the officers arrested Special Deputy Sheriff Livingston for dope peddling.

Federal Agents Muroy and Parent made the arrests.

FINAL HEARING ON SEWER SET

Board of Health Calls Meeting June 26

Warren Outfall Plan to be Threshed Out

System Said to be Backed by Noted Authority

The California State Board of Health has called a final hearing at Sacramento June 26 to determine the location of an outfall for the Los Angeles Harbor for a new metropolitan sewer system which A. K. Warren, County Sanitation Engineer, has designed to serve a score of communities east and south of Los Angeles.

The outfall would be five times the size of that at Hyperion, which now serves most of Los Angeles, while the entire system would cover a much larger area, having a population of 1,000,000 now, but intended to care for other millions to come. Its estimated cost ranges from about $10,000,000, already voted by four sanitation districts and partly expended, to about $25,000,000 should other communities join as expected.

Little opposition has arisen to most of the plan. However, Mr. Warren's proposal to build the outfall at White Point or Point Firmin has been sustained fire from the start for more than a year. It is the health board's intention to hear both sides again and decide that the engineer may extend construction already begun and look for another outfall site.

DATES BACK TO 1925

The origin dates back to the engineer's passage of an act in 1925 permitting incorporated areas to form districts for the disposal of sewage. Warren's appointment followed shortly, and in June, 1925, his sewer plan was filed before the State Board of Health for a permit.

In accordance with this plan, sanitation districts one, two, five and six have been created and bond issued of $10,000,000 for trunk lines and their proportion of the cost of the outfall. Three or four other districts are in contemplation.

The trunk sewers were to feed into Harbor City where the sewage was to be put through a treatment plant and the sewage carried in a three-and-one-half-mile tunnel under Palos Verdes Hills to White Point. There the outfall tube was to extend 2300 feet under the bed of the ocean at a depth of sixty feet. San Pedro objected.

TESTS CHALLENGED

Figures assured them wind and ocean currents would eliminate objectionable features from the outfall, and he even offered to change the location to Point Firmin. But San Pedrans were unconvinced. They challenged his tests of currents and declared the odors would prove offensive. They said sewage would be carried over Fort MacArthur and San Pedro. They branded the location as a menace to health and declared it was a nuisance to public property. Dr. Leslie R. Hewitt was employed as their counsel and he has carried their fight before the State Health Board many times since.

They not only fought the outfall, but said that while the bonds run for forty years the system was planned to meet population needs for only twenty years. Should they decried starting construction before the health board gave a permit.

But if the White Point site were unobtainable, the Point Firmin site and more so, to them. They said it would mean tearing up every paved block for two years on the avenue to run a tunnel 120 feet deep; and its proposed extension of only 4000 feet offshore was declared equally unsatisfactory. Some weeks ago the Los Angeles Harbor Commission took the same stand, fearing contamination of the bathing beaches.

FEAR FOR PARK

Then the Park Department and the Playground Commission fell in line. The Park Commission stood for Point Firmin Park and its picturesque ocean frontage as acquired for the city near White Point. The Playground Commission foresaw the doom of Malaga Cove, where a $250,000 municipal beach is projected. Both considered it inadvisable to spend any of the $1,700,000 in contemplated improvements if the outfall is located at either site.

Mr. Warren, however, clung to his convictions. But seeking further expert light, the county brought out Dr. H. G. Goodenow of Boston, the East's most noted sanitation engineer. He sided with Warren. As Warren had declared, the sites were declared the most adaptable in the county for sewage disposal. They were on a mid-bound coast with no possibility of bathing beaches and the currents were favorable to carrying screened sewage outward into the ocean.

HIRE EXPERTS

But still San Pedro's fight, led by its Chamber of Commerce, went on. They hired two experts of national renown—Charles G. Hyde, professor of sewage and sanitation at the University of California, and his assistant, Prof. F. F. Raber. Both have made a survey of the disputed and other areas. Both have reviewed Warren's plan and they are now making an exhaustive study of a proposal to run the outfall several miles offshore from Terminal Island, as suggested by Dr. George H. Parrish, City Health Officer. Last week the Council took all sewer plans out of the hands of the City Engineer and gave it to Dr. Parrish.

Dr. Hyde's report is expected in 30 days, when San Pedro will prepare for the final fight. He is expected to make recommendation for a new outfall site, and Mr. Warren has expressed open-mindedness toward any practical plan. The latter insists his prime desire is to avoid further delay, although he manifestly affirms his plans are not only practical but desirable and bear the approval of the leading sanitation authorities.

The corset section at Bullock's is noted for its special values as well as expert fitting service . . . so when this popular section stages its annual sale, women are alert to the possibilities of saving considerably on high-type foundation garments.

New Suprema Step-in Corsets of Fine Brocade and Elastic . . . A Leading Value at $10.00

Secured for this Annual Event . . . a much finer garment than the regular $10.00 "Suprema." Finer in fabric with wonderful elastic. And Bullock's Suprema is noted for its efficiency in caring for larger figures and producing the slim, supple lines demanded by fashion. This new, June-priced Suprema is 14 inches long and has 6 heavy hose supporters. An insert of silk elastic across the top insures a smooth back. A garment that you must try on to appreciate . . . sizes 28 to 36 at $10.00.

A New Formold Long-line Brassiere at $1.00

These new Formold Brassieres are similar to those Bullock's already featured, but their fabric is different . . . and an improvement we think. Their value is so good that Bullock's feels they should be included in this event. $1.

Non-lacing Suprema Corset 14-inch, $6.95

While this garment is of fine brocade and elastic, its real merit lies in the way it fits and produces the lovely lines that are fashionable this season. A Bullock "Suprema." Sizes 26 to 34 at $6.95.

Towels! Towels! Towels!

Bullock's June Towel Event opened yesterday with hundreds of fortunate shoppers . . . (women who had already heard the news of Bullock's great towel event) . . . An event which is quoting lowest towel prices in years.

More than 100,000 Linen, Cotton and Turkish Towels, Bath Mats and Face Cloths . . . at really sensational prices. This tremendous event began yesterday . . . It continues through Monday, June 7.

Towels at 25c! 35c! 50c!

Towels . . . Bullock's Second Floor

They're superior to the usual dress at $25-!

Their distinction lies in the fact that they are not $25 dresses—though they will be sold Tuesday at $25.

There is a marked difference in the $25 dress—bought in the ordinary way—and the dress that due to careful, thoughtful specialization—may be sold for as little as $25.

You will see this difference in this little group of flat crepe dresses! . . . Slender, beautifully fashioned of heavy silks . . . Most of them achieving a rare decorative quality in the embroideries of their Bishop sleeves . . . In many smart shades . . . In sizes 14 to 44. $25 Tuesday.

TALE OF A TUB
The next time Earl Carroll gives a girl a wine bath he won't make a party of it.

WIRES AND POLES
The new executive of Poland will have to be determined by popular vote. There will first be some pulling of wires on the part of some of the Poles.

NOT SO BLACK
Now it is said that more than 20,000,000 Americans are owners of stock in corporations and are convinced that organized capital is not amalgamated plunder.

MAMMOTH PANTS
The Garment Makers of America give the confident assurance that the balloon trousers affected by our youth have gone. Presumably, being balloons, they have gone up, but it doesn't make much difference as long as the world has seen the last of them.

A SPADE FLUSH
It surely takes a flock of steam shovels to bite the holes made necessary by our tireless program of building construction and highway improvement. In other days the working of one shovel would arouse large interest, but when more than 400 of them are at work the curious loiterer cannot hope to make the rounds.

THE SILK FAMINE
Frost has done much damage to the mulberry trees in Japan and the result is said to be a slump of about 30 per cent in the bill of fare of the silkworms. This is equivalent to a silk shortage of that extent. Some of our chorus girls may be reduced to the extremity of wearing georgette pajamas because of this famine in silk.

OLD MAN STATISTICS
According to correspondents at Rome Mussolini has added the government department of statistics to his vast collection of responsibilities and hereafter statistics will have to behave and perform in manner satisfying to the boss or get slapped. When a man makes not only his country's laws but its statistics he is firmly in the saddle.

THE ENVIOUS HORDE
They all seem envious of our Hollywood. The Florida boomers had to build a town of the name in emulation and it is now noticed that some Chicago promoters are advertising another Hollywood as a beautiful annex to their city. They paint our Hollywood as a little Babylon, yet they strive to duplicate it as well as they can. A glance at the scenic background of the original will prove the folly of imitation.

GIRLS AND CLUBS
The leading women's clubs of the country are organizing junior auxiliaries so that the flapper daughters can be merged into sedate club women while the jazz is still on them. It is said that there are already more than 100,000 members of these junior organizations and they are increasing rapidly. Between these auxiliaries, the Girl Scouts and the frats any popular girl can begin life with a flock of club nights that would dazzle the old man.

FROM CAMP TO TURF
Camp Merritt, N. J., which is near New York and was used for conditioning thousands of young Americans for service in the World War, has been bought by a syndicate of New York sports and will be converted into a race track. This because of its proximity to Gotham and its capacity for crowds. It was sold with all the buildings right after the war for $500,000 and is now taken over by the syndicate for $1,250,000. Some war profits have been made since the war.

PARIS MODELS
The Paris models have fallen on evil days. According to a correspondent, the girls who pose for four hours a day before students at the Ecole des Beaux Arts are only drawing the equivalent of $2 a week. In other times some girls of fine family did not hesitate to pose for artists or classes and they found themselves fairly well paid. But there isn't anything in it now and the only advantage to a girl posing is that she doesn't need much in the way of clothes.

FARMERS AND BANKERS
Col. Frank O. Lowden says that the bankers and the farmers should pull together. He says that the bankers should aid the agriculturists in organizing for salesmanship and export. Between them the surplus products of American farms could be handled to the ultimate advantage of both and at the same time the American people would be protected against excessive prices. Gov. Lowden is strong for bringing various forces into combination for the general welfare and his work toward the organization of American farmers in co-operative marketing is developing.

ALWAYS WITH US
Never at any time have the nations known to modern history been able to escape from industrial discontent. There have always been the favorites and the derelicts of fortune. Those who were blessed—or cursed, as the case might be—with material possessions were in a constant struggle to retain what they possessed and to increase their holdings. Those who possessed nothing sought a little; those who possessed a little sought more; and those who possessed most sought more still. It is the interminable ebb and flow of life. And the aim of just government has been to co-ordinate the independence of the individual with the welfare of the community and the State.

Agrarian troubles marked the rise and fall of the states and empires of the Asiatic and Mediterranean civilizations. They were present in Persia, in India, in China, in Egypt, in Greece and in Rome. And we have had them in this country since the Civil War. They are causing the present session of Congress to drag into the summer days when Senators and Representatives would like to shake the dust of Washington from their shoes and do some political fence building and fence repairing on the home front.

For thirty years there has been discontent in the farming districts of the Middle West. A new civilization has arisen there which can be compared to nothing in the past. In an admirable article in the Scribner's for June William Allen White observes that:

> Discontent was in the air before 1896. Largely the discontent was economical, but somewhat political. And to understand the basis of this discontent it is necessary to review quickly the social and economic history of America during the three decades following the Civil War. Probably the movement of population that settled the Mississippi basin from 1865 to 1895 carried more immigrants farther in three decades—farther in geographical distance and farther in the scale of external civilization—than any other on the globe. More than 25,000,000 people crossed the Allegheny Mountains in those decades, which is of itself a notable feat.
> These immigrants were composed in a large part of foreigners. They came to the Middle West unsupported by the traditions of free America. They had to learn American life, American institutions, American laws. They carried with them hereditary traditions and hereditary superstitions. The Mississippi Valley was the huge caldron that formed what came later to be called the melting pot. Yet there was a leaven of settlers from New England and the Middle Atlantic States. It was the saving grace.
> Most of the foreigners came of sturdy stock. They feared not to labor. The hard life of Europe had taught them the wisdom and the profit of economy. But they were slow to grasp the portent of American governmental institutions. They accomplished wonders in an agricultural way. They reclaimed the fertile prairies, and the district they occupied broke all records for gross agricultural production.
> Most of them came with but little in the form of material wealth. But the investors of the East and of Europe were willing to lend them money, taking their character and their industry for security. During the first decade and most of the second the prosperity of this district was based on borrowed capital. By the time the period known as the "nineties" arrived the mortgages were falling due. Liquid capital ceased to move from the East to the West. The trend was in the other direction. As Mr. White well puts it, pay day had arrived—pay day for the mortgage-holders and the bondholders.
> Money became scarce. There was not enough cash to go 'round; and a political movement was organized to inflate the nation's currency through printing more paper money and the free coinage of silver. These projects became planks in political platforms. Political parties were organized to secure the desired legislation. The political battles twenty and thirty years ago found the East and the South arrayed against the Middle West and later the Far West. It was a kind of wrangle between debtor and creditor groups.
> The conservative forces of the country preserved the gold standard and the political movement took a different form. It partook something of the nature of a radical movement, which Mr. White, who was a part of it, tempers by calling it a liberal movement. There were assaults on the authority of the Federal Supreme Court and on the Constitution itself. Political speculators sought to form a new party which would unite the agriculturists and the workmen in the industrial districts. They sought to organize both for what was termed a war on capital.
> This contest was becoming acute when the World War came. Then all thinking persons realized the reason for the existence of capital, its vital necessity to the life of a nation. By the time the war ended the leaders of the fight against capital found themselves almost without a following. The possession of wealth ceased to be a crime per se, and the public recognized that work-givers are just as necessary to a community and a State as work-takers.
> Now the stage scene has shifted and agrarian troubles are again to the front. The agriculturists insist that they are not receiving just compensation for what they produce, that the city dwellers are reaping where they have not sown. In place of a new political party a farm bloc has been organized to work within both parties. This bloc has made its influence felt at Washington. It possesses the balance of power in most of the agricultural States. The bloc is interested in the Republican and Democratic parties only for what it can get out of them. Trading between the lines has developed into a fine art.
> This year's national campaign will be fought in part along new lines. It will represent a clash between agricultural and industrial groups. Perhaps a way will be found to harmonize these seemingly conflicting interests. But that way is difficult to trace, for we are faced with a renaissance of the ancient agrarian problem.

So He Obeyed That Impulse!

PERHAPS!
Stoutly contending that Christopher Columbus was a Spaniard, a Madrid newspaper is offering a reward of $50,000 to anyone who can prove that the great discoverer was born in Spain. Along with the offer the journal lists the following points to back up its claim that Columbus was of Spanish birth and that Italy is utterly wrong in claiming him as one of her people: "He always spoke Spanish. His handwriting was of pure Spanish character. He gave only Spanish names to lands he discovered. He could not speak Italian. His family name is purely a Spanish name."

After looking over the literature with reference to the records of the lineage and nativity of Columbus one feels safe in saying that the Madrid newspaper never will be called upon to pay over that $50,000. Also that if an Italian journal should make the same offer for really acceptable proof that the discoverer of America was an Italian it would be almost as difficult to provide such proof. Nobody actually knows where or when Columbus was born, but most of his biographers say that the year of his birth was 1446 or 1451, leaving the reader to choose the time for himself and that some unascertained place in Genoese territory was where he first saw the light.

No one ever made a more exhaustive research in regard to this matter than Washington Irving, who dug up every known record in the Italian and Spanish archives bearing upon the subject, and Irving leaves the reader of his voluminous and admittedly valuable and authoritative "Life of Christopher Columbus" quite in the dark as to the points in dispute. Cristobal Colon was the Spanish name of the discoverer and the one he generally gave as his own. Fernando Colon, his son, wrote a life of his father, which, as Irving says, "leaves the question of his parentage in all its original obscurity." Irving concludes that the son knew nothing to boast of about his father's ancestry. Many romantic stories as to the birth and lineage of the great navigator were investigated by Irving, but none was accepted by him as authentic. In a document purporting to be the last will of Columbus he twice refers to being a native of Genoa. He is said to have left a little breviary, on the flyleaf of which is written, "To my beloved country, the republic of Genoa." But in neither case, according to expert testimony, is the handwriting or signature that of Columbus. Many consider the documents forgeries, prepared to satisfy antiquarian interest. Upon this and other evidence of as questionable authenticity biographers have accepted Genoa as his native land, but none of them pretends to know the date of his birth.

According to Irving, Fernando Colon's story of his father's life is full of absurd statements. Fernando sends his father to the University of Pavia, but, according to Columbus's own statement, he went to sea at 14 and so he was a sailor during the time that he should have been a student. Irving says that several honorable families in different parts of Italy claim Columbus as belonging to their houses, but he despaired of tracing out anything resembling acceptable facts in any of their claims or in those of the various Italian cities which claimed honor as his birthplace. This famous and unprejudiced American writer says rather inconclusively, "The investigation as to the lineage of Columbus is involved in particular obscurity, as even his immediate relatives appear to have been in ignorance on the subject."

How, at this late date, anybody is going to come forward with acceptable proof as to whether Columbus was an Italian or a Spaniard and thus be entitled to a reward of $50,000 or 50 cents passes the understanding of antiquarians. And, after all, the question in regard to Columbus, as to any other man whose career is closed, is not what he was, but what he did.

HUMAN SEQUOIAS
While Europe is molding bigger cannon America is growing bigger men. While Europe is humping along under the load of debt accumulated from her fights America is hanging up records of the fastest humans.

While Europe is drinking herself crazy America is sobering up and attacking big problems of health and happiness and making the world a better place in which to live.

Nutrition experts are pulling the American people out a little longer. So a congress that is really doing something, (although not assembled in Washington) recently held its sessions in Atlantic City, N. J.

Miss Marian Birdseye, extension agent in nutrition of the United States Department of Agriculture, addressed the Health Congress as follows:

"Longer and stronger bones, better muscle tone, clearer skin and brighter eyes are some of the results of correct nutrition that we are beginning to observe in child study."

"The gain of an inch in height and a corresponding gain in weight may be looked for in the next generation," said Dr. Samuel Crumbine of Kansas, general executive of the American Child Health Association.

We may not be able to add one cubit to our stature by worry, but it does appear that at least an inch can be gained eating the proper food.

When the slender saplings of Kansas can aspire to an inch more in height, what altitude may not the giant sequoias dream of attaining under the sunlit skies and above the deep soil of California?

"And shall we have Lincoln a little longer?" was the legend under the elongated cartoon of The Emancipator when his election the second time was announced.

Europe is ever drawing Uncle Sam out inordinately in her gibes. Little does she know the recipe for his lengthening personality. Europe spends her time hacking off inches from the stature of her citizens by the sword. It was literally done in the Napoleonic wars; it was done in the last war.

Americans of the future will be able to go over and pick them up bodily and spank them in spite of all their "Big Berthas."

ANOTHER WORLD'S FAIR
The next big world exposition, so far as this country is concerned, is likely to be the Chicago centennial. The preliminary committees of citizens are already at work and it is promised that the show will make the Columbian exposition of honored memory look like a sick baby. The blowout will be in 1933. One hundred years ago at that time the early settlement of Fort Dearborn blossomed into an official Chicago. The village was duly incorporated and thereafter Chicago was on the map. It has been on the map ever since. By 1933 it will invite the world to come and sit in on the glories of a community of nearly 4,000,000 souls. Chicago is capable of doing big things in a large way.

KNIGHTS AT THE BATH
The Union League Club in Chicago has a 100,000-gallon swimming pool on the twenty-first floor of its new building. The water is triple-filtered and an ultraviolet ray apparatus has been installed to keep it pure and wholesome. Whatever else may be said of Chicago, the Union League Club purposes to keep its members sweet and clean.

MAKING PROGRESS
All the women of the world must be set free, declared a speaker in Paris the other day. Well, if that lady will just cast her eyes over the divorce statistics of Los Angeles county she will be mightily encouraged.

PUBLICITY AND SOCIAL ETHICS

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Counsel for Earl Carroll's "wine tub bath defense" was unctuously scornful when he asked newspaper editor and critic witnesses whether they were not at the "party" as guests and therefore, gracelessly violating precious hospitality by writing up the occasion and by now testifying against their host.

And I will wager that every not cynical or sublimated newspaper person that read the report oozed a little scorn on his own account.

Because, you see, half the time it isn't the newspaper writer that is violating any ethics of hospitality. On the contrary. Except among our personal friends we have a hard time analyzing just where the enticing hospitality extended to us begins and ends, just how much is "hospitality" and how much a craving for any complimentary publicity that may be forthcoming.

It must surely be just as "unethical" to extend a flattering personal invitation to a newspaper writer with the sole idea of securing some free publicity (which, if paid for by the inch, would amount to quite an expensive item) as for the newspaper writer to exploit the story for the benefit of his own newspaper, without proper regard for the sensibilities of his host, afterward.

Of course, we newspaper people, like anyone else, prefer to think that we are loved—and flattered—for ourselves alone. When we receive affectionate invitations to attend banquets and parties it is with the utmost reluctance that we suspect ulterior motives. When our hosts hope for free advertising and publicity from our presence we are considerably happier when they are frank about it. There is something peculiarly disconcerting to be invited strictly as a "guest" only to find that it was strictly as a reporter that our social charms were considered. I venture to think that no newspaper writer being invited to an event like Earl Carroll staged, notwithstanding the "hospitality" harped upon, which was so obviously a publicity stunt (which, alas, went wrong,) would have felt that he had earned his supper unless he came through with at least a soupcon of the desired publicity. In a case like that the host's own bad judgment should take any blame that accrues, and he ought to be good sport enough not to squeal about it.

In my own case, for instance, once so fondly innocent in my conceit when affectionate and flattering invitations came to me, I am wont to be a little crude about acceptances.

"Am I a guest or are you expecting me to write a story about it?" I will now ask, with shameless directness, if there is anything about the event which leaves the shadow of a doubt. I don't like the assumption that I am being bought for the price of a meal.

On the other hand, when I have inadvertently accepted one of these fulsome invitations believing I was loved for myself alone, only to discover that the hosts certainly expected a complimentary write-up, I am quite apt to crudely estimate the value of the meal that accidentally consumed and set my obligation at exactly that amount. If it turns out to be a good story of public interest, anyway, I can be fairly forgiving and extend the value of the obligation. If it is just "another publicity stunt"—and not even a clever and interesting one, with precious little beyond the meal to recommend it—I am quite apt to feel victimized and a bit touchy. So they dared to rope me on that, did they?

And on such an occasion my conscience is perfectly clear if any publicity I do concede the affair is not entirely and fulsomely complimentary. I was invited there for the publicity, was I? Very well, they shall have some—but I did not necessarily sell my judgment and opinions for a mess of food.

I can bear up better when the invitation is extended with a "Do come, and if you find us interesting enough, give us a write-up." That's fair enough. Even if it is not quite so attractive as the "Do come. We just want you. Nothing professional about this."

But, whether our hosts are frank or not, we usually know before the affair is over just what was hoped of us.

I was recently invited to a banquet in honor of a distinguished university woman. "We are so anxious for you to meet Dr. So-and-So," read an appended note on the invitation. I enjoyed myself and meeting the lady. But I was quite broken-hearted to be reproached because I had no story about her—and the university—in the morning paper! So even in university circles there can be some very dubious "hospitality." Who was violating it that time? It, however, I had written a story and it had by chance failed to be succulently complimentary, I forsooth should have been "violating the hospitality" of my hosts. It would have been made very plain that I was invited to praise, not to criticise.

I have been affectionately invited to club banquets only to be handed a full list of names and flattering details before leaving. "We thought you would like to have this information for your story." I am afraid I was graceless enough to remark "What story?" in cases like that. And all ideas of "hospitality" are promptly banished.

A quite well-known personage wrote to me recently begging "the privilege of meeting" me. I fell for it. Invited the visiting stranger out to my house. And she lost no time in producing a fund of complimentary information about herself and offering to "co-operate with" me on any story I might be wishing to write about her. And begging me to lunch with her next day!

She really did not leave me a shadow of doubt as to why she had "begged the privilege of meeting me." Ugh! Wistfully, I wish she had.

No, we newspaper people are

...ople say of the explorer, "He had better stay at home, putting up a hair restorer for the bald and shiny dome; he had better be a baker or the village undertaker than plow the fertile acres, planting nutmegs in the loam. Useless things are worth the doing, splitting wood and baling hay, but 'tis folly, this pursuing pipe-dream of visions far away; vain are those who turn their faces to the dim, uncharted places, looking for new tribes or races, for an island, cape or bay. What's the good if they discover land beyond the Arctic pale, if their drifting airships hover over some unchristened wild? None will ever build a dwelling where the polar bears are prowling, and no merchant will be selling produce where there is no sale. None will ever start a village, dot in gas or render lard, and there is no chance of tillage where the ground is frozen hard; lands like these will have no fathers, even gold-brick men and fakers will not deal in frozen acres, where the street-car lines are buried." For the good old world is peopled, towns are seen on every shore, and the synagogues are steepled and the schools dispense their lore, just because brave souls went drifting, following their dreams uplifting, over currents strange and shifting, bending sail and plying oar. "Chris Columbus," said the knockers, waiting for the dinner bell, wallowing in greasy rockers in a Portuguese hotel, "why are you forever thinking of a life across the blinking waste of waves unfit for drinking, to some naked-covered doll? Hugging your dark-sion closer, you've become the village jest; why not be a corner grocer and have money in your vest? You have projects without number; why not let the fool things slumber? Deal in coal and line and lumber and get wealthy with the rest." WALT MASON.

DECORATION DAY

Gather the fairest flowers of May
And bear them with you to the tombs
Of those brave souls who sleep today
And wait the tribute of your blooms.

Utter a prayer for those who sleep
In graves afar or near at hand;
Green in your hearts their memory keep—
Defenders of your home and land!

Still in your midst some mother droops,
Some sister weeps or father sighs
For one who fell with those brave troops—
Show them how much you sympathize!

If in your memory lingers yet
The story of their sacrifice,
Make these small payments on your debt—
Your freedom's cheap—at such a price.

DR. E. H. SMITH.

SUNSET

Sweet day has gone beyond the hill,
But her shining hair streams back ward still,
Gemmed with a crescent and one star,
Over the hushed, rapt world.

She was so bright, so sweet, so fair
We hardly thought about her going
Until, as swift she sank from view,
'Twas all we saw.

But now in each receding hue
We see complete her loveliness,
Her smile, her radiance, her sad blue—
Ah, Mistress Day, we sigh for you!

LEE SHIPPEY.

THE JACARANDA

A myriad banners gayly wave,
A myriad trumpets cry!
The gods are holding carnival,
Their tents are in the sky!
The miracle of purple light that filters on the trees
Is like Parnassian music born to soft Aeolian breeze.
The gods are holding carnival!
Confetti fills the air
When the Jacaranda blossoms in Olympian Mayfair!

LANNIE HAYNES MARTIN.

Something They Didn't Say

She had urged him to study the correspondence course at home, and he had—just as the advertisements said.

At last his salary was raised fifty a month—also just as the advertisement said.

"Darling, I owe it all to you," he said.

"Well, dear," she replied, "don't worry. You won't after today."

Now 3 second relief from Corns

"Gets-It" Brings You World's Fastest Way

WORKS like magic on any kind of corn, no matter how old, where it is, how bad it hurts. One touch and the pain goes. Almost unbelievable. Then the corn shrivels up and lifts. A scientific way that dancers, walkers, actors, doctors and millions use. Beware of imitators. Get the real "Gets-It" at drug stores.

None will ever build a dwelling where the polar bears are prowling, and no merchant will be selling produce where there is no sale. None will ever start a village, dot in gas or render lard, and there is no chance of tillage where the ground is frozen hard; lands like these will have no fathers, even gold-brick men and fakers will not deal in frozen acres, where the street-car lines are buried." For the good old world is peopled, towns are seen on every shore, and the synagogues are steepled and the schools dispense their lore, just because brave souls went drifting, following their dreams uplifting, over currents strange and shifting, bending sail and plying oar. STOP SKIN TROUBLES

Zemo Will Give You Quick Relief

Your skin craves protection from wind and dry air. Sunburn, rash, pimples and prickly heat disappear quickly with Liquid Zemo. Minor skin diseases often disappear overnight.

Zemo is a penetrating antiseptic liquid that soothes, clears and cools the skin. It is inexpensive, dependable and certain, specially adapted to daytime use because it does not show.

For overnight use you need Zemo Soap. As a preventive to keep the skin clear and cool, use Zemo Soap. All druggists have Zemo, 60c to $1.—[Advertisement.

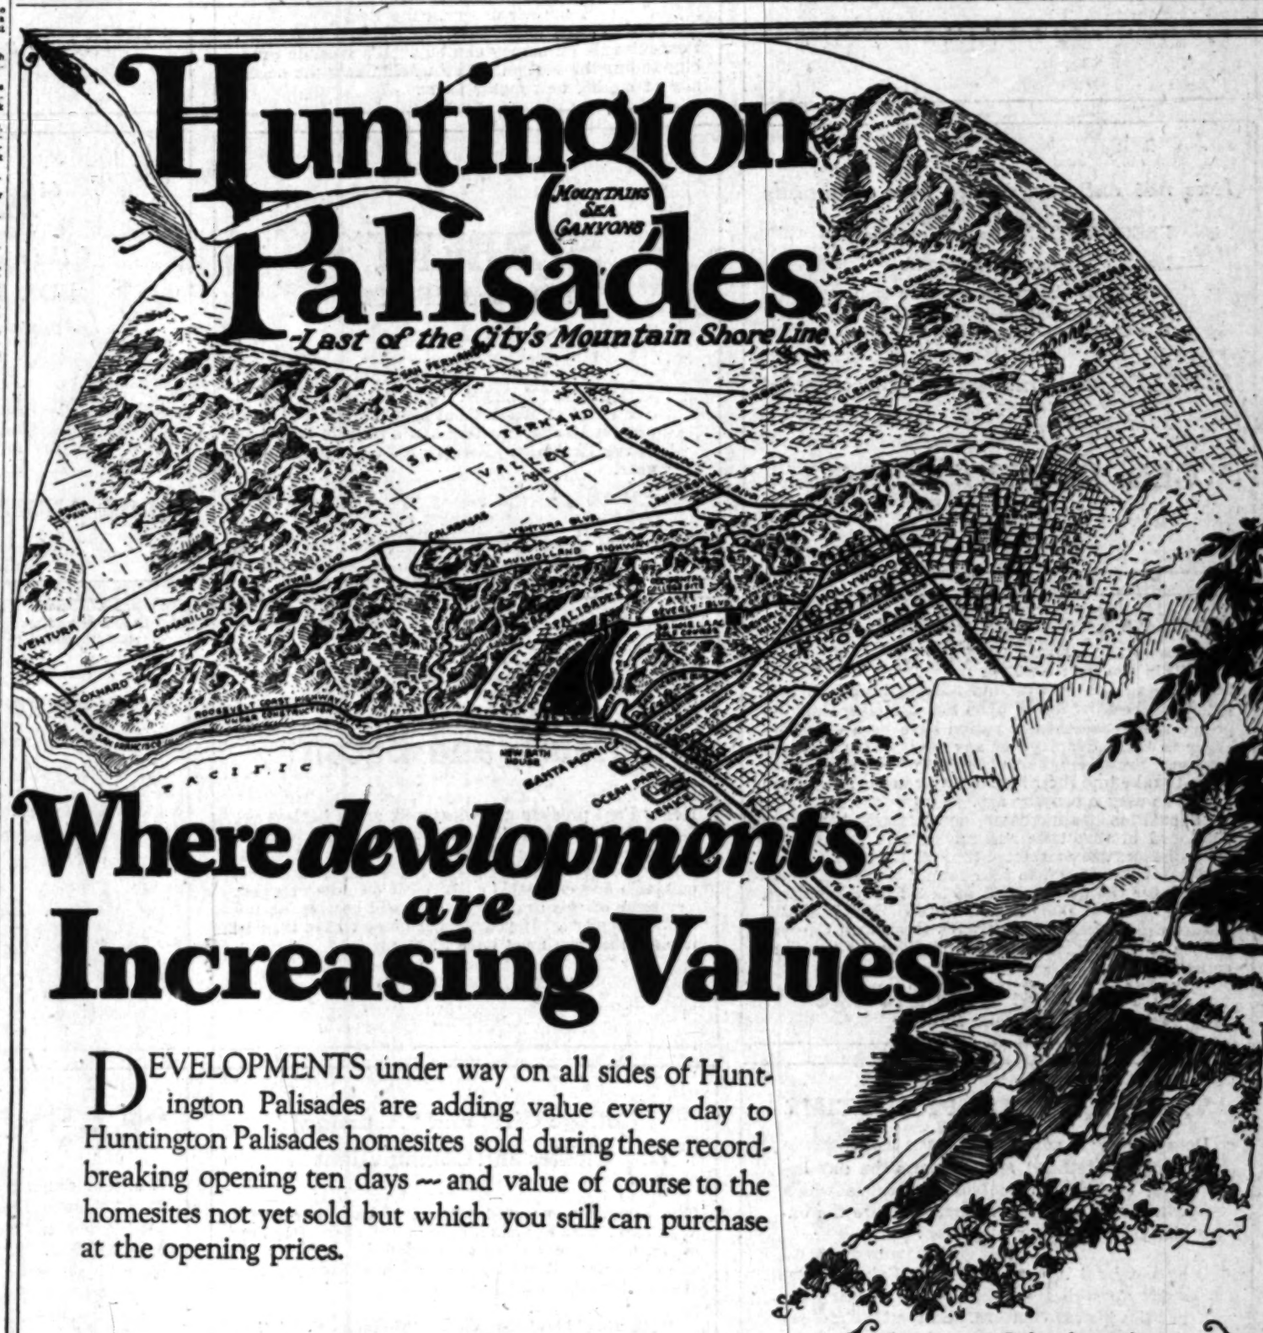
Huntington Palisades
Mountains Sea Canyons
-Last of the City's Mountain Shore Line



Where developments are Increasing Values

DEVELOPMENTS under way on all sides of Huntington Palisades are adding value every day to Huntington Palisades homesites sold during these record-breaking opening ten days — and value of course to the homesites not yet sold but which you still can purchase at the opening prices.

Drive over this property on your beach trip Saturday or Monday. See for yourself the tremendous developments now under way; glimpse the sublime views of ocean, coastline, canyons, mountains and trees; and then decide that NOW is the time when you can best reserve for yourself and family on the expanding city's fast vanishing highland shoreline the homesite that you desire and the homesite that with the completion of developments and the soaring of values must within a few short months become dearly priced, if indeed purchaseable at any price.

Huntington Palisades offers careful restrictions in a highly selective neighborhood. Improvements, to be started immediately, and the cost of which is covered in homesite purchase prices, will be complete and the best obtainable.

Prices—$3,000 to $25,000. Terms, one-fourth cash and three years on the balance with payments annually.

PROGRESS

Within the past century, progress in our United States has been astounding. Everything one can name has been improved upon and the clear-thinking people that represent our nation have been especially eager to take advantage of any means of preventing disease. Yet an enormous per cent of our people continue to take into their bodies water in the same form as it was used a century ago.

Population has increased, new diseases have been developed in that time and science has proven that most diseases are contracted through the mouth. You owe it to yourself and to your family to take this precaution for the preservation of health and happiness —use PURITAS DISTILLED DRINKING WATER, scientifically treated to be always fresh with the fragrance of Springtime and health-giving as the Sunshine.

Efficiency the Order of the Day

Pacific Ready-Cut Homes represent the last word in construction efficiency, producing artistic, well-constructed houses at lower cost. Do you realize that in the construction of a made-to-order home a good percentage of the lumber bought and paid for goes to waste in the process of cutting to size? Each piece of Pacific Ready-Cut lumber is of just the right dimensions, thus saving the builder this unnecessary waste that must be added to the cost of his home.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

Art and music have been holding sway in Paris during the past fortnight, as the spring social campaign gets under way.

One of the largest audiences of the year gathered at the American Women's Club of Paris to hear the program of music given by Mrs. Charles J. Koenig, soprano, wife of Dr. Charles J. Koenig of San Francisco, and M. del Pueyo, pianist. Mrs. Koenig was heard to good effect in songs of De Falla, Faure, Jierne, Nepomiceno and De Lemos, in all of which her interpretative art was admired. Among those who enjoyed the evening were Mrs. Gertrude Ross, Los Angeles composer, and her attractive daughter, Miss Corinne Ross.

In the one hundred thirty-ninth exposition of the Societe des Artistes Francais and Beaux Arts, now being conducted in the Grand Palais des Champs-Elysees, California is well represented.

Miss E. Charlton Fortunes, a native of the sunny State, who has her studios at 47 Mardale Crescent, Edinburgh, Scotland, has two canvases, "Drying Sails at Saint-Tropez," and "The Harbor at Saint-Tropez," and Miss Ellen Scripps Kellogg of Altadena is represented by a flower study. Miss Kellogg, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Kellogg (Florence Scripps) of "Highlawn" makes her home at present at 3 Villa Brune in Paris, with Miss J. S. Dedrick.

Miss Anna Klumpke of San Francisco, a student under Tony-Robert Fleury and Rosa Bonheur, has a canvas entitled "A Corner of My Garden at By." Miss Klumpke lives at Maison de Rosa Bonheur in By-Thomery, in the department of Seine-et-Marne, France.

William P. Silva, a native Georgian, who, however, for the last several years has made his home in Southern California, presents "A Tranquil Hour in Southern California." Mr. Silva studied under Jean-Paul Laurens and Henry Royer. His studio is at 19 Rue Caumartin in Paris. Mr. Silva also has a one-man show under way at the Charpentier Galleries in Paris at the present time, the show drawing comparisons between landscapes of California, South Carolina and Southern France.

In the section of sculpture, Miss Louise Everett of 980 Manhattan Place, Los Angeles, is represented by a bust of "Mademoiselle X" in plaster.

Mrs. J. D. Riddell, who has been traveling in India and Egypt, has arrived in Paris after a motor trip in Italy and a visit to the Italian lakes with Mr. and Mrs. George H. Riddell of Scarsdale, N. Y. Mrs. Riddell is stopping at the Hotel des Champs-Elysees.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Henshaw of California, who have recently arrived in Paris from Spain, were noted entertaining a party of ten at Ciro's during the last gala evening there.

Mrs. Gertrude Ross of Hollywood and her daughter, Miss Corinne Ross, returned to Paris last week after passing five weeks in Spain and Tangiers. They have taken an apartment at 12 Rue Paquet.

Mrs. Frank Pixley of California, who has been at the Hotel de Paris in Monte Carlo during the winter season, expects to pass the summer at Juan-les-Pins. Mrs. Pixley, who has a host of friends in Los Angeles, has resided at the Hotel Plaza-Athenee in Paris for the last two years and probably will go back to the French capital for a few days' visit later in the season.

Among Californians who are enjoying sojourns in the French capital, crossing on the steamship Leviathan, is Allen Hoover, son of Secretary Herbert Hoover of Palo Alto, while from Los Angeles is Miss Elma Bauman, who disembarked at Cherbourg. Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Donnelly were scheduled to dock at Southampton; J. J. Haggarty, with his niece, Miss Marie Haggarty, and Miss Alma Barman left the boat at Cherbourg; Miss George W. Harris, Miss Marjorie Harris and Richford Harris also disembarked at the same French port, while Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Horner and Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Horner left the steamer when she docked at Southampton, as did Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hynes, H. H. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Richards, Miss Muriel Richards, Miss Willa J. Richards and Mrs. Susan Richards.

Among Angelenos who crossed aboard the United States liner Republic were Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Borst and Miss Evelyn Borst, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Davis and Miss Estella Davis, who landed at Bremen, Germany, as did Mr. and Mrs. Adolf W. Salsman, while Mrs. Anna McFaull, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Stineman and Miss Bernice Stineman left the ship at Cherbourg and Mrs. Mildred W. Smith, Miss Eleanor Smith and Miss Mary Smith disembarked at the dock in Plymouth, Eng.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Turner and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Inman and family have been visiting in Montreux, Switzerland, as guests at the Montreux-Palace Hotel, while Mr. and Mrs. Eaton Hubert and Robert Swigart, who have been traveling in Germany, were recent visitors to Munich, stopping at the Regina-Palast Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Bevery Scott of Hollywood have arrived in Naples, Italy, crossing on the Duilio, and are planning to motor to Florence, where they will pass the next month. Later they plan to make a motor trip through Scotland.

Mrs. Thomas J. Fleming of Los Angeles has contributed 3000 francs to the "save the franc" fund now being raised in France. Mrs. Fleming is registered for the nonce at the Hotel Plaza-Athenee in the French capital.

Prominent Angelenos who are registered in Paris include Charles H. Kegley, Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrence Smith and Fred P. Bacon at the Continental; Mr. and Mrs. Phillips Rowan, Miss Lemoir Dula and Shirley Baldwin Perkins at the Wagram; Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Chandler and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hasselman at the Continental; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robey Simons, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Quinlan and Miss Harriet L. Quinlan at 20 Rue Sewandone, while Dr. Nat Greene, Mrs. George C. Guthrie and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Poffer are at the Saint-James et d'Albany and Mrs. May L. Perry and Samuel S. Perry are at the Campbell. Mrs. S. L. De Tar is domiciled at the Gibraltar.

So many Californians were aboard the Leviatnan on its most recent trip to Europe that the ship's passenger list bore striking resemblance to a Los Angeles and San Francisco telephone directory. Practically the entire passenger list of 1200 landed at Cherbourg, the seriousness of the situation in London having reached the ship by radio.

Home Again

Miss Kathleen Murphy, talented and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Murphy of 401 Lafayette Park Place, who for several months has been motoring through the Northwest with her godmother, Miss Florence Flynn, is expected home the first of this week. Miss Murphy, whose hobby is landscape gardening, has been visiting all the beautiful gardens of the Northwest.

Mr. Murphy is commodore of the Catalina and California Yacht clubs and Miss Murphy will no doubt be the gracious young hostess at numerous affairs for the younger set during the coming summer aboard the yacht Westerly.

In France

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius L. Vogel, who left February 22 on a trip around the world, have arrived in Marseilles, France, where they will pass some time before leaving for Hamburg, Germany.

Summer Plans

Mr. and Mrs. C. Eustice Harrell, who have been making a tour of the world now are passing a month in Italy. Their daughter, Miss Constance Harrell, and son, Arthur Harrell, who are studying in the East, will join their parents in the near future and will continue their studies this fall in Paris.

Wedding Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Meade of 1969 West Twenty-third street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret Helen Meade, to Robert Russell Fischer of 1147 West Forty-seventh Place, the ceremony taking place in Vincent's Methodist church. Miss Irene Ingalls and Miss Helen Dressell were bridesmaids at the ceremony. Mrs. Fischer is a member of Theta Omicron sorority, while Mr. Fischer is affiliated with Mu Signa Phi fraternity.

Gone North

Mrs. Louis Vallely left last week for Seattle for an extended visit with Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Kinnear. Mr. and Mrs. Kinnear and Mrs. Vallely are planning several weeks' motor trip to the Canadian Rockies, visiting Banff, Lake Louise and other points of interest in the Northwest. Mrs. Kinnear and Mrs. Vallely are old school friends, having attended Ward-Belmont College in Nashville, Tenn.

Bantam Fighter Gets Jail Term for Knife Play

Arcadio Chavez, diminutive in stature, today will begin serving a sentence of 100 days in the County Jail for assault upon Jesus Acosta, twice his size. Chavez was found guilty by a jury of simple assault, having been tried for assault with a deadly weapon.

When the weapon was produced in Judge Burnell's court the jury was astounded, for the "deadly weapon" was a pen knife, three inches long.

It was charged by the complaining witness that Chavez insulted Mrs. Acosta and when the complaining witness attempted to punish Chavez, the latter drew his trusty knife and slashed Acosta several times on the face. The court sentenced Chavez to pay a fine of $200 or serve 100 days in jail.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

DO YOU KNOW WHAT PROTEINS ARE?

I was surprised the other day when a friend of mine—usually well-informed—asked me what proteins were. She said she knew what fats and carbohydrates were, but was hazy on proteins.

Do you know what proteins are? Perhaps you don't, so I had better explain. Protein is defined as the living substance in plants and animals, in contradistinction to the fats and carbohydrates (starches and sugars) which are more in the nature of storage substances. Protein is also defined as that element which is used to build and to repair living tissue.

When foods are analyzed in the laboratory, it is found that they consist of proteins, fats and carbohydrates, mineral elements and vitamins more or less mixed together. When a food contains a larger percentage of one of these elements it is known by that name. For instance, although bread contains around 10 per cent protein in it and some fat, it is known as a carbohydrate or starchy food, because the largest percentage of its food value is carbohydrates. The food value of egg white is practically pure protein. (The yolk contains fat and protein.) Meat, fish and fowl are known as protein foods, although they all contain some fat also.

The fat of our bodies can be built up from fats, carbohydrates and at least half of the protein molecules may go to make fat, but our protein tissues (the working part of muscles and organs) cannot use fats and carbohydrates to build and repair from, for these food principles have no nitrogen in their molecules, and proteins must have nitrogen, so they have to get it through other proteins. We cannot take nitrogen from the sun, soil and air as do the plants.

The amount of protein necessary depends upon the age and size. Not the activities. The young need very much more in proportion to their size than do the adults. The standard now believed in for adultsis the Chittenden standard—one and one-half calories of protein per pound of normal body weight. At least one-half of the protein calories should be of the complete proteins, so some eggs, milk, cheese, nuts or flesh foods should be taken.

Here's a brief list you can check up from for too much or too little protein are both harmful over any period of time.

PROTEIN VALUES OF FOODS

In 100 C of bread, one slice (one-half inch thick) 12 to 16 C's of protein; cereals, approximately six ounces (oatmeal highest) 10 to 18; macaroni, one small cupful, 15; whole milk, five ounces, 20; skim and buttermilk, ten ounces, 35; cheese, one and one-eighth inch cube, 25; cottage cheese, three heaping tablespoonfuls, 75; eggs, one and one-third, 36; very lean meat and fish (2 to 3 ounces) 50 to 75; peanuts, ten to twelve double, 20; almonds, twelve, 13; walnuts, four to six, 10; asparagus, twenty large stalks, 30; beans, one-third cupful average, 20; green peas, three-quarter cupful, 28; corn, one-third cupful, 10; onions, three to four medium, 13; potato, one medium, 10; tomatoes, one pound, 16.

(Most other vegetables in the quantities that would be eaten, not sufficient protein to count.)

Berries, currants and rhubarb, 10. (Other fresh fruits have too small an amount of protein to count—2 to 5 C per 100 C.)

Tomorrow: Children Need a Lot of Protein.

My Dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must inclose 15 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the columns as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Buy It in Quantities

Buy soap by the quantity. First of all it will be found much more reasonable in larger lots and then it lasts longer when older and dryer.

Easily Identified

Before starting on a journey it is wise to see if you have some sort of identification fastened on your clothing. A visiting card in your handbag is not enough, as in an accident the bag may be separated from you. Have your name and address right on you.

Timely Tips

Sprinkle salt over the matting or grass rugs before sweeping.

Equal portions of water and ammonia will remove varnish from furniture.

PROGRAM FOR "Y" GIRLS

Mrs. Dorothy Nicolson will present a musical program at the Blue Triangle Club of the Y.W.C.A. at 631 South Spring street Thursday at 12 o'clock. Mrs. Nicolson was formerly a teacher of music in the public schools.

DON'T FAIL DEAD PLEA OF LEGION

Three Commanders Tell Why Veterans Should Join

Organization Taking "Ex" Out of ex-Service

Loved Ones of War Heroes Must Not Suffer

The American Legion of California is making an effort to increase the membership of the various posts. To this end it proposed to acquaint every veteran of the World War with the advantages of membership in the Legion. In co-operation with this endeavor The Times has been publishing a series of articles by officials of the Legion which are; in effect, messages of invitation to ex-service men not now members of the Legion, messages presenting cogent reasons why they should join that organization.

BY DR. W. J. LAKEY

Commander, Owensmouth Post, No. 343, Owensmouth

This liberty which we enjoy today we owe to our departed comrades. We cannot fail the dead. Their last thoughts were that we would carry on where they left off. To carry on we must have the help and support of all ex-service men of the World War from the American armies.

The dead have left a heritage to all their comrades. Each must do his part. Will you do yours or won't you? If you feel, as you must, that it is your sacred duty to carry on and finish the work of your fallen comrades, then you must join the American Legion.

The Legion is trying with all its strength to live up to the obligations to its silent members. It is trying to prove by daily act and deed that their supreme sacrifice was not in vain. We, who have already joined the American Legion, have this thought and realise that any deviation from this path of duty cannot but be a violation of the confidence reposed in us.

Duty is not all you will get out of the Legion. It is only the foremost consideration. If you would be a better citizen, join us. If you desire a real part in the activities of your community, if you desire the hand of fellowship and comradeship, join us. Education, knowledge and entertainment in addition to the usual advantages offered in fraternal organizations and a more respected standing in your community are yours for the joining.

Confident now in a record of accomplishment second to no other organization in the short period of its life, the Legion is marching forward and onward. Fighting for American ideals and principles, as our forefathers willed that we should, we can better attain our objective with your help. The dead have left us a duty. Can we fail them?

BY FRANK MASON

Adjutant, Orange County Interpost Council

A review of the accomplishments of the American Legion indicates endless possibilities for the future. The national and State departments, with the co-operation of the local posts, have achieved great results. It is the small but endless things done by the remote posts themselves in their own little communities that ought to make a strong appeal to ex-service men who don't belong.

Legion membership offers an opportunity to take actual and active part in those forms of community service that are visible and tangible because the Legion is not narrowly organized to promote the interests of ex-service men alone. Every problem in every part of the country is a problem for the Legionnaires in that locality, and when they tackle it they are supported by the full strength of the surrounding Legion posts as well as the State and national departments. The Legion is determined to take the "ex" out of "ex-service" man and put the accent on "service."

Commander, Stanislaus and Merced County Council

No greater tragedy could be recorded than that the loved ones of a defender of the republic should suffer in this land of ours. Such tragedies the American Legion would avert. The success of this great effort has been assured and today thousands of disabled men are being cared for by an appreciative government. During 1917 and 1918, you fought valiantly to protect and sustain the principles for which the Legion now stands. Now, in time of peace, with conscientious objectors developing into seditious authors and with foreign parasites tearing at the very vitals of our democratic government, it becomes most imperative that the defenders of the republic again associate themselves for the purpose of safeguarding and transmitting to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy.

The LAST WORD

By ALMA WHITAKER

HER $1000 MOUTH

Amy says that a $1000 mouth is nothing to preen over. At present it chiefly represents a mortgage on the house and an exceedingly ungallant husband.

It was over a year ago that Amy and her husband had a jolly little celebration party because the final payments on the house had been made and the last big debt lifted from their shoulders. So that night they hired a nice woman to mind the children and went off to a saucy dinner-dance like a couple of lovers, pretending they were still enjoying their courting days. On that occasion hubby was quite adorable, and he credited his dearest Amy with making the victory possible. Dear, unselfish, economical girl, wonderful manager, finest wife a fellow ever had. Exactly.

But too disgustingly soon after that Amy's tooth began to act up—exposed nerves, swellings, cavities. Reluctantly, she hied her to a dentist. And then her real troubles began.

AMY "ONE OF THE FOUR"

She was under the painful and staggering necessity of going home to tell hubby that her teeth were wrong about $300 worth. He simply would not believe it—advised getting estimates elsewhere. The "elsewheres" all seemed to be in horrid agreement—even an "advertising dentist" which is the kind that is described by its professional confreres as being "unethical") looked portentous and guessed that nothing less than $295.50 would cover the cost of restoration.

So, after that, they braced themselves for $300 worth of dental burden and Amy had them "fixed." Even then Amy felt hubby's eyes appraising her and wondering if she could possibly be $300 worth improved. Amy, modest girl, doubted it herself.

It developed that the trouble was "pyorrhea." (Amy says she doesn't care if she has spelled the nasty name wrong, it doesn't deserve to be spelled right!) That entailed X-rays and experts and specialists and waiting ages in stylish waiting-rooms, and hiring the woman to mind the babies while Amy was away, and getting hasty meals when she arrived home late, and feeling like the very dickens, and giving hubby snip for snip when he came home tired and touchy, too.

A STAGGERING BILL

And now, after a year's agony, the bill is just about $1000. And poor Amy hasn't an original tooth in her head and she hates the acquired ones, and hubby can't talk about anything else but this awful debt that has set them back about four years in their finances.

"In fact, every time he looks at me I feel like a punk $1000 investment, someone who has defrauded him out of his life's savings. And I know he feels that way, too. If I had deliberately done it for meanness, he could not act much different. If I could only feel superior with my $1000 mouth, like some women feel about their diamonds! But for the life of me, I can't feel like anything but a wopping big liability," says Amy.

"Of course, it might help," adds Amy, who evidently has not entirely lost her sense of humor, "if I could radiate $1000 smiles like the beauty competition girls. But I may as well admit I am no beauty. Have you any recipe, dear lady, for transforming a $1000 mouth into an asset instead of a liability?"

Rotten luck, Amy, dear. But really, now, anyone who can write as sprightly a letter about such a drab calamity already has the magic recipe. I can see where you are still "the finest wife a fellow ever had," and you can tell hubby so from me. It is high time he did consider yours a $1000 smile.

The Woman and Her Job

BY VALERIE WATROUS

(Questions concerning the problems of women will be answered in this column if addressed to Mrs. Watrous at The Times.)

DAUGHTER AND THE COLLEGE COURSE

Three times a year, these letters come and each echoes the same cry: "Mother wants me to go to college."

Sometimes it varies; the writer wants to go into a secretarial school; learn a trade; enter a store. Each one says she'll abide by my decision, but they never tell me whether they really do.

It isn't easy to accept an opinion contrary to your own, and somehow these girls think I'm going to tell them to pass up the university training.

"There's plenty of money," writes Edna, "and it isn't that I need to go to work. I dropped out of high school in my third year and worked in a store for a year. I just loved it. But my family fussed so that I went back to high school. I have my credits now and can enter any university. But what's the use in store work? Mother has lots of faith in you, and if you say I'm right, she has agreed to let it stand."

You want a reason why; isn't that it?

Well, to begin with there are colleges and colleges. Ancient history will help you to be a broad-minded, understanding woman, but it will not specifically help you to become a buyer.

But why not go to some of the industrial arts colleges? You could take two years of designing, interior decoration, costume design, textiles and photography as your science course. You'd have English, modern history, psychology and some math, perhaps; those for your cultural side. But you would be getting a sound foundation for the work you wish to do.

With your sophomore credits in your hand, why not go to New York University and take the merchandising course?

Three years more and you would have invaluable training on which to build your experience. You would have the fundamentals that you would never acquire in a department store. Not only that, you will have developed self-confidence, poise, and have been trained in leadership.

You don't want to be a saleswoman all your life, Edna. You want to be equipped to accept promotions when they come. Executives are not born, they are made, and a whole lot of men and women land in swivel chairs who have no ability to direct a staff.

The wise executive develops his men; he doesn't sit back and say: "I'm running a department store." But he does say: "How can I best train these people to be more valuable in making bigger profits?"

Another phase of the merchandising course is training the student for personnel work. There are schools that specialize in this particular branch and which graduate the college sophomore in one year. They do ask two years' college work, however.

You can accomplish in five years in college what would take ten years of experience in a store. And the college training will better fit you for the big job when it comes.

Your mother is right, Edna. College doesn't mean teaching, which you say you hate; it means scientific training in almost any profession you elect to follow.

ACTION AT HAND ON INCINERATOR

Dunn Returns Tomorrow With Data from East

Commissioner Ends Study of Various Types

Fund of $400,000 Left for Building Plant

Public Works Commissioner Dunn will return to Los Angeles tomorrow from a trip through Southern and Eastern cities on a tour of inspection of various municipal incinerator types, and the Board of Public Works will then take up the matter of selecting an incinerator from the six competing firms that submitted bids April 7, last.

Commissioner Eldridge accompanied Dunn on the trip but returned last week in order to provide the board with a quorum during the illness of Commissioner Horn.

Three years ago Los Angeles voted $600,000 in bonds to acquire land and build an incinerator plant. Approximately $200,000 has been expended on the site and other expenses, leaving $400,000 with which to construct the plant.

ASK ALTERNATIVE BIDS

The board called for two alternative bids, one a plant capable of consuming 200 tons in twelve hours, and the other burning 400 tons in twelve hours.

At the present time all the garbage is dispatched to hog ranches, and the rubbish, street sweepings and waste paper is burned on the city's dumps. Commissioner Eldridge said that it was planned to consume the dry waste in the incinerator, but to build a plant large enough to take care of the garbage in case of an "emergency." The present daily tonnage of rubbish, paper and trash is about 200, he said, and the garbage tonnage is about 400 daily. In the melon season this is increased to about 600 tons, and the peak load for all types of waste is nearly 1000 tons daily.

ANALYSIS NEEDED

Commissioner Eldridge said he had arrived at no conclusion as to the best type of incinerator for Los Angeles, and that the figures he has assembled must be tabulated and analyzed before a decision can be made. A host of elements enter into the question, such as cost of maintenance and operation and durability. All incinerators are more or less alike in principle, he said, each being a large furnace with forced draft, operated without fuel, and stoked from above. If wet garbage is burned it is first dried out on drying racks, he said.

Incinerators in Fort Worth, Dallas, New Orleans, Philadelphia, New York, Wilmington, Del., and other cities were examined. Each type of incinerator upon which a bid was submitted was investigated.

Rubber Maker Leaves Estate of $500,000

An estate worth $500,000 was left by Joseph Oliver Stokes, rubber manufacturer, who died the 10th inst., according to his will, filed for probate. He left his fortune to his widow, except for minor bequests to relatives. He was 60 years of age at the time of his death.

The will is to come up for probate before Judge Reeves June 14, next.

Important further steps toward standardization in purchasing that will affect the conduct of business throughout the nation, are to be taken at the convention. Two thousand delegates, representing a buying power of more than $3,000,000 annually, are to attend.

On his arrival in this city, Mr. Chandler's first request was to be taken to see the port of Los Angeles. He said that commercial circles in New York, and the Atlantic seaboard generally, have been deeply impressed by the shipping totals of Los Angeles Harbor, and the steadily increasing volume of exports.

"I have no doubt but that this convention, bringing to Los Angeles some of the world's biggest buyers, will result in definite increases in the market for Los Angeles and Southern California products," said Mr. Chandler. "Practically every delegate is a potential customer for Los Angeles goods. A large percentage of the buyers are making their first visit to the Coast, and I am certain that the magnitude of the manufacturing industries that have sprung up here will amaze them."

Mr. Chandler said that the bulk of the delegates will arrive on June 8, in special trains from Chicago. Robert M. Segewick, national president, will head the delegation of easterners. Special trains are like-

CHIEF WILL ASK CITIZENS TO AVERT POLICE CRISIS

Seeks Authority to Enlist Support of Civic Bodies in Finding Funds to Prevent Cutting Down Force

The gravest situation in its history is confronting the Los Angeles Police Department and unless some means are found immediately to preserve and continue the remarkable progress recorded in the last few years, the city will suffer an irreparable loss.

This, in brief, is what Chief of Police Davis plans to tell the Police Commission tomorrow morning when he will appear before that body and ask for authority to enlist the support of all city organizations in working out with the City Council some measures for maintaining the police department at its present efficiency.

Chief Davis will address the commission at its regular Tuesday meeting and will submit data to show that the contemplated cut in the budget allowance for the police department, if enforced, will not only cripple and disorganize the force, but also will cause a financial loss many times in excess of the amount involved, he made known yesterday.

Chief Davis's present plan includes a thorough discussion of the situation before the Chamber of Commerce, women's clubs, commercial and civic organizations and all other elements interested in municipal affairs. If granted permission, Chief Davis personally and a number of other high police officials plan to present to the people problems and dangers of the police department in this crisis, with the view of having the community leaders help the City Council and the budget officials work out some solution.

SHORTAGE $900,000

After all possible reductions in expenses and upkeep of the department, nearly $900,000 still remains to be sliced off the police budget, as drawn. To accomplish this reduction it will be necessary to dismiss from service two captains, two assistant captains of detectives, four lieutenants of police, ten lieutenant detectives, eight sergeants, four policewomen, eight motorcycle men and 313 patrolmen.

"I am going to ask for permission to make a desperate fight to save these men. Most of them have spent the best years of their lives in the service of the police department and cannot be replaced for years," Chief Davis declared, discussing the situation.

"We cannot afford to deliberately tear down what has taken so many years and so much expenditure of money and community support to build up. We cannot afford to calmly wreck the department, especially at a time when we need it the most. The lives and property of the citizens are at stake. The city's commercial and civic progress will be hampered. We have the traffic problem, the national crime wave, the rapid growth of Los Angeles, with its many additional problems to handle. We need help, not hindrance, and I feel certain that when the situation is thoroughly understood, the community will get behind the City Council and help," the Chief said.

CITY UNDERPOLICED

Los Angeles, he pointed out, is underpoliced. It has a vast territory. Cleveland, nearest in size, has eighteen policemen per square mile, Boston has forty-three, New York forty-two and Chicago forty-eight. Los Angeles, in its "congested" district of 200 square miles, has but eleven. In greater Los Angeles the average is only 5.6 men per square mile.

In 1924, Chief Davis said, Chief Vollmer was granted 800 men to bring the city up to the minimum requirement. The people indicated their stand by voting bonds for the new stations and equipment. Only 744 men were turned out by the police school. But since 1924 nearly a quarter of a million in population and many new districts were added to Los Angeles, with no increase in the force.

"Our traffic problems have increased 15 per cent. The threatened reduction will decrease the traffic force 25 per cent. Traffic control has a commercial value as well as the protection of lives. The main roads are already underpoliced. Highways like the Cahuenga Pass will become clogged, causing delays and accidents. The cuts already made in our budget will necessitate the sale of all horses. The mounted squads will be disbanded. We cannot purchase any new equipment during the year. The cars will become worn out and this alone will bring an economic loss much greater than anticipated. Hundreds of thousands in new equipment will have to be purchased the year after, or the department will become paralyzed.

ECONOMIC WASTE

"But men," Chief Davis continued, "cannot be computed like automobiles. Some of the veterans who will have to be let out cannot be replaced. From a purely commercial computation it is safe to say that a captain, with years of service, is worth $100,000 to the city, in money expended on his training and in his future value as an important part of the whole. A corresponding scale applies to the others.

It has cost the city approximately $500 to train every new policeman. More than 300 of these men will have to be dismissed. This is nothing short of economic and criminal waste, Chief Davis pointed out.

"It is not fair to the new men," he said. "The city, in giving them training and a civil service examination, has practically made a contract. The men have carried out their part of this contract. They trained for three months, they purchased $170 worth of equipment, most of them on credit. The Los Angeles police school, under Inspector Finlinson, is recognized as one of the most outstanding in the world. It is unthinkable that we must deliberately wreck it."

Most of the city officials handling the budget are in thorough sympathy with Chief Davis, but frankly state that there are no funds, and some means must be found for creating them. "My plan is to enlist the interest, sympathy and support of the people so that they can help the City Council find some way," Chief Davis declared.

OCCUPATIONAL TAX BEFORE COUNCIL TOMORROW

Mayor Cryer tomorrow will place before the Council his tentative budget of the general municipal government, amounting to $31,535,000, whereupon the Council will proceed to struggle with the question of whether or not to impose an occupational license tax which it is estimated will bring in between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000.

The trimming the Mayor has given the budget will result in the discharge of about 800 city employees, nearly 400 of whom are policemen.

The Council will refer the budget to its Finance Committee or committee of the whole, and hearings will be instituted as soon as is possible, as the Council must fix the budget by June 20. Councilmen have been instructed to investigate the needs of the various departments under their jurisdiction, and they will report their findings at the committee hearings.

The members of the Council are divided in respect to the wisdom of imposing the occupational tax. They would welcome any plan whereby the personnel of the city departments will not be cut without placing the occupational tax.

Among the reductions in the budget made by the Mayor was $575,000 for water. This is for water used by various departments, such as fire and engineering, and was to be paid to the Water Bureau to be used on its interest and sinking fund charges. Chief Engineer Mulholland of the Water Bureau conferred with the Mayor last week on the subject, and the Mayor said that it will result in the placing of a "small tax" to make up the deficit for the Water Bureau.

GAS PERMIT RECOMMENDED

The report of the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation recommending that the application of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation for a permit to lay a gas main across the Los Angeles River to the Buena Vista Reservoir be granted, has been received by the Council.

JUDGE ASKS ACTION TO PAVE TRACK

Construction of 50-Foot Crossover at College and Spring Streets Urged

Calling attention to "deplorable conditions" on North Spring street from College street north to the bridge, Superior Court Judge Collier yesterday wrote to the Board of Public Works asking that action be taken to persuade the Southern Pacific to pave between its tracks and to construct a fifty-foot cross-over.

"During the rush hours morning and evening there is a tremendous traffic flowing along this stretch of roadway," reads a part of Judge Collier's letter. "The Southern Pacific tracks for a considerable distance are unpaved, though they are clearly a part of the street; finally the roadway assumes the center shape of an hour-glass, where it crosses the tracks. The street up to that point is wide, being upward of sixty to 100 feet at points south of the tracks, and a good fifty feet wide north of the cross-over. But at the crossing it narrows down to not over fifteen feet."

In closing, Judge Collier's letter to the board declares that "certainly there is no good reason why a cross-over at least fifty feet wide should not be made across these tracks, and there is no legal reason why the company should not pave its tracks."

DAIRY GOODS TESTING TO BE SHOWN

Measures of Safety Taken to Protect Public Will be Exhibited at Fair

All the many measures of safety taken by the State to guarantee the public against unclean and unhealthy dairy products and methods of testing dairy products will be demonstrated by the California Dairy Council in an exposition of dairy products of the Southland at the Los Angeles County Fair this fall, according to Jay Dutter, Southern California secretary of the Dairy Council.

Mr. Dutter appeared before the directors of the fair at this last regular meeting and outlined plans for the operation of a complete laboratory in connection with the exhibit, making tests of milk, cheese, butter and other dairy products, for quality, cleanliness, sanitation and other points. The exhibit will be the first of its kind in Southern California and will rival the annual dairy show held in Oakland.

A special feature of the show each year is the judging contest for high school boys. Mr. Dutter expects seventy-five students to enter from all parts of Southern California this year.

In addition to the cup for the best team score, medals will be awarded the highest individual scores. The dairy products exhibit will be one of the major educational features of the fair.

Judge Hazlett to Enter Race for Short Term

Judge Hazlett of Superior Court yesterday announced he will be a candidate at the August primaries to fill the unexpired term of Judge York, rather than seek one of the long-term vacancies to be created by the retirement of Judges Monroe and Willis.

Previously it had been reported at the Courthouse that Judge Hazlett would be one of the candidates on the long-term ticket, but the jurist stated he will seek to be elected to Judge York's four-year term as he was appointed by Gov. Richardson to take Judge York's place on the bench. Judge York was appointed to the District Court of Appeals.

Prior to his appointment to the bench, Judge Hazlett was the senior member of the law firm of Hazlett & Albee. He also served for six years as City Attorney of South Pasadena and is a former president of the City Attorneys' Association of Southern California. Judge Hazlett also served as chairman of the legal ethics committee of the Los Angeles County Bar Association.

ADVERTISING CLUB TO HEAR ABOUT ORANGES

Paul S. Armstrong, assistant general manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, will give an address on "How the Golden Fruit Brings the Gold of the World to California," at noon tomorrow before the Advertising Club at the Biltmore. Emery E. Olson will be chairman of the meeting and a musical program will be given by Dennis Newahall.

Goodcell Will Have Busy Week of Campaigning

At the beginning of a busy week that will include addresses both in Los Angeles and a short tour of the San Joaquin Valley, Rex B. Goodcell, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, today will give the Memorial Day address at Santa Barbara. He will be a guest at a veterans' luncheon in that city at noon and speak at the Memorial Day mass meeting in the afternoon at the Recreation Center.

Tuesday and and Wednesday, announces Chairman Bariett of the State campaign committee, Goodcell will be back in Los Angeles, while Thursday will find him campaigning in the San Joaquin Valley.

Saturday evening he spoke at the formal opening of the Malibu Lake Club, while yesterday was spent in quiet at that outing spot, the first day of real rest Mr. Goodcell has had since opening his campaign the first week in April.

CLAUSEN ASSIGNED TO GENERAL STAFF DUTY

Capt. Walter B. Clausen, Military Intelligence Reserve, of Pacific Palisades and Los Angeles, leaves today for a tour of duty with the War Department General Staff, office of Chief of Military Intelligence. Capt. Clausen is reserve intelligence officer for Los Angeles, and chairman of the committee on information of the Los Angeles sector of the Association of the Army of the United States.

Grunion Take Beach Strolls These Nights

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, May 30.—"It's a fish story," some folks insist, when they are told of the silvery little grunion and their quaint custom of flapping out of the water and onto the shore for their honeymooning.

Those who go down to the sea with baskets when the grunion are running, however, have seen these shore flappers and sheiks with their own eyes, and the best way to get at the facts of the case will be to visit the beaches when the grunion run table says the fish will appear.

Dates and hours next on the grunion schedule are tonight at 11 o'clock and tomorrow at 11:58 p.m.

WEEK'S PRIZE ADS PUBLISHED

Two Full Pages Appear in Today's Issue

Ne[illegible] of 202 Awards for Period Ending Tuesday

Contestants Testify to Ease of Writing Publicity

This morning The Times is again printing two full pages of advertisements written by prize winners in The Times-Zain Ad-Writing Contest. On still another page appears a list of rules and the names of the forty firms which are co-operating with the paper in the competition.

The advertisements which appear this morning are from the group of forty which received prizes for advertisements submitted up to last Tuesday night. The awards were printed in yesterday's Times. But there are more prizes to be awarded this week—and there are just forty-eight hours left to get entries in.

The sample advertisements should cause aspirants to say to themselves: "Gee, I can do better than that!" That's all that contestants are asked to do—do better—and be prize winners, too.

202 PRIZES ON LIST

For all advertisements submitted up until Tuesday night, there will be 202 prizes. The first prize will be an order on the George D. Davidson Company's new store at 645 South Hill street for $100 worth of any merchandise in the place. This will be given for the best advertisement of all. For the second best The Times will give $50 in cash, and there will be 200 other prizes as well—fountain pens, gold and silver pencils and candy.

People like this contest. In the words of Mrs. Z. F. Zealear of Encinitas, it is "interesting, instructive and easy and satisfies more people because there are so many more prizes. It really is disappointing to work in a contest and have not even a line of thanks for your efforts."

And if one wins a prize—listen to Jennie M. Dow, Pacific Palisades: "When my husband waved the big blue envelope and said: 'You have taken a prize,' I can tell you it gave me a happy surprise and a thrill. I hope you will know that same happiness some day."

NO HARASSING RULES

It gives many Times readers an unusual opportunity. The Times has received many letters like that of Estelle Campbell of Orange, thanking "for the chance to do something I had always wanted to do—write an ad!" Readers like its simplicity; there are no harassing rules to cover each step—merely the jotting down of ideas on a piece of paper with a bit of a pencil and sending them to The Times.

And so today readers are urged to sit down and write a few. Try your luck—it isn't hard. And by the time you've written the first one you'll write more. Why—some of our readers have been sending in advertisements every day since the contest began more than five weeks ago!

Read the rules, think a moment—and win a real prize! Don't be missing something.

Los Angeles Times-Zain $10,000 Ad-Writing Contest

(Copyright, 1926, Z. A. S.)

Five prizes will be given each week for the best ads written for each concern listed below. Winners announced each Sunday. Contest lasts eight weeks, closing June 22.

In addition to above, a $50 prize will be awarded weekly for the best ad of all submitted each week.

SPECIAL PRIZE THIS WEEK, $100 MERCHANDISE ORDER

In addition to the regular prizes, there will be a $100 merchandise order on George D. Davidson Company, Jewelers, for the week beginning May 26 and ending at 6 p.m. Tuesday June 1, making a total of 201 prizes to be given for this week's contest.

A grand prize of $500 cash will be paid for the best ad of all ads submitted during the campaign.

Each week's contest will close at 6 p.m. each Tuesday and ads arriving too late will be automatically entered in the following week's contest.

Ads submitted for the grand prize must be received prior to 6 p.m., June 22, 1926.

Everyone may compete except professional advertising writers and newspaper employees. A person may win more than one prize. The contest may be entered at any time. You may write about any one or all of the concerns or products listed and submit as many ads as you wish. An ad may consist of a word, phrase, slogan, poem, letter, essay or regular advertisement.

Each ad must be written on a separate piece of paper, at least postcard size. Any number may be inclosed in the same envelope. Put name of advertiser on top of the ad, and your name and address on the back. Ads will be judged by a committee of Los Angeles advertising men and women. Illustrations, layouts, etc., do not count; all ads judged strictly according to the advertising merit of the idea expressed. All ads sent in become the property of the advertiser, to be used as he sees fit. No advertisements returned.

Mail ads to Ad-Writing Contest, Los Angeles Times, Los Angeles, Cal., or deposit them in special box in lobby of Times Building, Broadway and First street.

WALTER CATLETT TO BE WITH FOX

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Walter Catlett, who has been appearing in "Patsy" up in San Francisco, is going into pictures.

The noted comedian, star of various Ziegfeld Follies and other New York shows, spent a couple of days in Los Angeles over Friday and Saturday and left yesterday for New York.

The comedian will return within a few weeks, following the winding up of some business in the East, and will star in a Fox picture.

It was on the cards that Catlett was to play the comedy lead in the eastern and San Francisco productions of "Nancy," Nancy Welford's vehicle now playing the Playhouse here, but plans are changed, and Catlett will cast his lot with the films.

Catlett was former comedian here with the Morosco company and with Freels Hartman and appeared in a number of productions at the Burbank Theater and at the old Grand Operahouse.

Since then he has attained international fame in various musical-comedy productions, appearing in London and Paris as well as New York.

The comedian shows no results of the recent ruckus which he had in New York with Louis Calhern at one of the night clubs, when each dared the other to come on, and both did.

BELLE BENNETT TO BE WITH UNIVERSAL

All doubts as to what Belle Bennett would do next were set at rest when it became known that the star of "Stella Dallas" would portray a featured role in Emory Johnson's first big Universal production, "The Fifth Commandment."

BELLE BENNETT.

If you chance to have forgotten your Bible lore, this commandment bids us to honor our father and our mother. In the picture Miss Bennett will have some such role as she played in "Stella Dallas." She plays the part of the mother. A notable cast is to support her in the picture. Mary Carr will have an important role.

The story is on the order of "Over the Hill," which made so much money for Fox.

This is the first of the nine pictures which Johnson will make for Universal at the rate of three each year.

Mrs. Emilie Johnson, Emory's mother, will write the stories and the scripts, just as she did when Johnson was connected with F. B. O.

Several of the stories will accentuate patriotism, and three will be made around the Army, the Navy and the Marines. While Ziegfeld is busy glorifying the American girl, Johnson's pictures will, as heretofore, glorify the American workingman.

Carewe to Film "Pocahontas"

Edwin Carewe, having completed his contract with First National, is uncertain as to his future plans. He has an offer from an important English firm to make a picture abroad, but isn't at all sure he will accept, especially as he has also a number of offers here.

Edwin Carewe

Of one thing the director is certain. He expects to make some big features. Among others he expects to make a story around the life of Pocahontas, whom everybody will remember as the heroine of his early American history school days, the Indian maiden who saved John Smith's life. The actress who will portray the part is Dolores Del Rio, who should admirably suit the part. She is, indeed, retaining her long raven locks in anticipation of playing the role.

Fortune-Telling Note

Having just completed "The Better 'Ole" for Warner Brothers, Sydney Chaplin isn't just sure what he will do next in the way of a film for the Warner Brothers.

It is known that he favors making a film version of the farce, "The Cuckoo in the Nest," but the Warners are a little afraid, as Syd put it, that the picture may be "too bedroomy." It is, in fact, all bedroom at present, having to do with a couple of assorted sexes, both married, but not too each other, who are forced to spend the night in the same room.

However, the fact of the matter is, they are both highly indignant over the situation, so that the play is devoted to the night spent in trying to devise some means for getting away from each other.

Mrs. Syd Chaplin's Plans

Speaking of the famous Chaplin family, Mrs. Syd is going to leave for New York within a day or two, and thence she will travel to London and Paris, spending several weeks abroad.

Larry Semon's Next

And, speaking of famous comedians, Larry Semon is going to follow up "Spuds," his brilliant last-made comedy of the Army, with one having to do with the Navy, in which Larry will appear as a gob.

"Spuds" has been previewed by many notables in the film world and is considered one of the big things of the year.

Universal's "Taxi, Taxi"

Universal's "Taxi, Taxi," is being started with Mel Brown directing. In the cast are Edward Everett Horton, Claude Gillingwater, Marion Nixon and William V. Mong.

Lilyan Tashman to Work

Lilyan Tashman isn't to have much time to spend fixing up that new house of hers in Beverly Hills.

Corinne Griffith's Contract

While no official confirmation could be obtained yesterday in the matter from First National, it is reported on good authority that Corinne Griffith's contract with E. M. Asher, Edward Small and Charles Rogers will probably be bought up by First National.

It is said that under the new contract First National will pay Miss Griffith $7500 a week for the first year, raising the amount $1500 a week each year until the salary reaches $12,000 a week.

Robert Leonard's New One

Robert Leonard's next picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will be "The Gray Hat," adapted from a French farce. Lew Cody and Joan Crawford will have the leading roles. This is the first time these two players have been assigned to opposite roles.

Pat O'Malley Home

Pat O'Malley has returned from a five weeks' vacation in the East. While in New York O'Malley witnessed the opening of "The Midnight Sun," and later made personal appearances in Boston, where jammed theatres greeted him.

With Pat on his trip were his wife and three youngsters, who were getting their first glimpse of the metropolis.

William S. Hart to Travel

William S. Hart has acceded to the request of the State of Montana to be present at the semi-centennial anniversary celebration of the Custer battle.

A signal honor, it is probably dearer to Mr. Hart than any honor which could be conferred upon him, inasmuch as his affection for the real West, its peoples and its problems has always been of more importance to him than all else.

The celebration is to be held fifty miles south of Billings, on the exact spot of the battle, now a government park in the Crow Indian Reservation, on June 24, 25 and 26, the three days of the Custer battle.

Gen. E. S. Godfrey, United States Army, retired, the biggest personage in connection with the celebration and himself in charge of the pack train with the Custer forces, has requested and prevailed upon Mr. Hart not only to appear but to deliver an address both in English and in Sioux to the Americans and the many Sioux Indians who will be present from the three reservations of the five tribes in the Dakotas. Many of these Indians, as well as some Cheyennes, who will be present from Wyoming, were actual combatants in 1876.

Mr. Hart is one of the few white men living away from the Sioux tribes who can speak to any affluent degree the Sioux language both by word of mouth and sign language. Charles McLaughlin, son of the late Maj. McLaughlin, who was for decades the Indian agent in the Dakotas, and D. F. Barry, government interpreter of the Sioux for many years, will be the only other Sioux talkers present.

In addition to appearing personally, at the request of the committee and Gen. Godfrey, Mr. Hart's latest feature, "Tumbleweed," was selected to be a feature of the anniversary celebration, and will be shown one night, the only picture of the occasion,

WORTHY WAR FILM

"UNKOWN SOLDIER" HAS HUMAN, HEART APPEAL

By Edwin Schallert

By degrees the sentiment, the humor and pathos of the World War are being discovered on the screen. The first and pioneering achievement was "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," which limned its story of romantic renunciation. Then, more recently, "The Big Parade," with its epical swing of martial humor and thrilling realism. Again, too, "The Dark Angel," with its delicate weaving of a sympathetic theme of sacrifice.

Another very worthy achievement may be numbered among these now, and that is "The Unknown Soldier," which is showing this week at the Figueroa Theater. It is a production of touching appeal that promises to reach the hearts of the majority of its audiences. It blends sentiment and humor with something that is more closely akin to tragedy. And though in a technical way it is deficient as a big picture, it merits tokens of admiration for its evident quality.

This feature was produced and directed by Renaud Hoffman. There are shades and differences that distinguish it sufficiently from the other war features to make it stand as an individual achievement, and it is played with fervor of feeling by Marguerite De La Motte, Charles Emmett Mack and Henry Walthall. Miss De la Motte is easily the star. There are moments when Mack and Walthall fall a little short of absolute conviction in their portrayals, but Miss De la Motte's is one of remarkable pathos.

In general plan and outline it may be said that "The Unknown Soldier" somewhat resembles "The Big Parade." It fact, at times, it might seem to echo this picture too closely.

The early portion is largely devoted to the experiences of soldiers entering the war, and the happenings are abundantly mirthful. The show given by the soldiers, the bayonet drill, the poker game played under fire are among the most joyous moments, although this last episode culminates tragically.

The romance between the hero and the girl of a wealthy family who has joined the service of entertainment, is distinctly a departure, and the twist that is given to this after their presumed marriage is exceedingly effective.

The culmination of "The Unknown Soldier" is a tearful one, but it involves some very serene elements of beauty—the strangely spiritual marriage ceremony and the reconciliation of the girl and her father.

Miss De la Motte has given a performance of much emotional charm. It is by far the best work that she has ever done, and contributes importantly to the appeal of the picture. The scene where she tries to call to the departing soldier would be a most effective one for her, were it not too reminiscent of "The Big Parade."

Mack sustains very excellently the sequence in No Man's Land, this being well carried out in photography and effects. Walthall is splendid in the closing episode. George Cooper—his pantomime of a meal at the Ritz is almost worthy of Chaplin—Syd Crossley and Jess Devorska form a trio for humor. Ethel Wales and Claire McDowell are others.

Jack Laughlin's prologue, "Memories," is appropriate and very entertaining, and does not indulge in repetitious as have some of the prologues at the theater.

PARISIAN SETTING IN "MASKED BRIDE" AT LOEW'S STATE

The combination of setting, plot and personality of the star makes for attractive screen entertainment. There is a melodramatic aspect to the story, that of a cabaret dancer leading a millionaire to the altar in order to obtain a priceless necklace for her sweetheart, but the "rough edges" are effectually trimmed by the excellent quality of the production as a whole.

Miss Murray reveals flashes of her "Merry Widow" self, although they are just——flashes. Most of the time she is the dancing spasmodic, lightly-tripping Mae of old, performing in the traditional Murray fashion.

Roy D'Arcy makes a splendid Prefect of Police and shares honors only with the star in the matter of acting. Others appearing are Basil Rathbone, Francis X. Bushman, Pauline Neff and Fred Warren.

On the stage this week Fanchon and Marco, in conjunction with Charlie Melson and his band, present one of the most attractive divertisements that has appeared at Loew's in a long while.

It is termed the "Aztec Idea," and in addition to offering some excellent ensemble dance numbers, gives Melson an opportunity to break forth with a medley of war songs that boost one's patriotic fervor right up to 100 per cent again.

The entire number has a real "idea" in back of it and is one of the most engaging features of the bill.

RAY HITCHCOCK ARRIVES

Raymond Hitchcock arrived in town last night from the East and went immediately to Hollywood where he was a guest at the performance of Charlot's Revue at El Capitan.

CLARENCE BURTON SIGNED

Al Christie, now producing Owen Davis's celebrated stage play "The Nervous Wreck," with Scott Sidney at the directorial helm, has added Clarence Burton to the cast, which is headed by Harrison Ford and Phyllis Haver.

Whimsical "Bride" of Comedy

Charlotte Treadway

Popular leading lady of the Morosco Players who is delighting theatergoers with her clever work in "The Bride," the mystery comedy now playing at the Morosco.

SNAPPY PATTER AMUSES

Dear to the hearts of vaudeville audiences are the types typical of that profession. This amazing fidelity was shown again yesterday afternoon at the Broadway Palace when Rice and Cady, patter dispensers, drew the lion's share of the applause.

Not that the hard-working gentlemen didn't deserve it. For a series of clever discussions of pseudo labor and civic problems, with an assortment of humorously mispronounced words, aroused a perpetual chuckle from the hearers.

Hilan's "wonder birds" are amazingly well trained, gifted with more poise than many human performers. These intelligent cockatoos enter into the spirit of the season and fire cannons, wave flags and march in the military manner with great zeal. Their trainer is to be commended.

The one mediocre number is that presented by Fred C. Hagan & Co., a sketch dealing with that ancient triangle . . . husband, wife and mother-in-law. Each player apparently is attempting to shriek a bit louder than the others and the entire number is delivered at a shrill pitch. The jokes are as old as the theme.

Him Marks, with his imitations is another proof of human versatility. This obliging youth manages to imitate, with laughable success, an airplane, a steamboat, a buzzy bumblebee. The audience gleefully approved of Mr. Marks.

Rosemary and Noel offer an elaborately staged act, with some excellent dancing and singing. The pianist is a competent person, also, and the entire number is most enjoyable, particularly the acrobatics of the diminutive blond.

In conclusion, the Eight Blue Devils whirl and tumble with such rapidity and dexterity that no one is able to depart until the curtain has fallen on these talented acrobats.

For the film feature, the Palace offers "The Ranger of the Big Pines," an impossible and uninteresting story of the great outdoors, with Kenneth Harlan and Helene Costello. Neither player achieves any particular glory.

FREDERICK WARDE APPEARS ON STAGE

Alec B. Francis Gives Fine Performance in "Thank You" at Criterion

Frederick Warde is appearing at the Criterion Theater this week.

The distinguished American actor plays the role in which he is so widely known, that of Fra Junipero Serra, in a sketch entitled "Restored to the Fold."

He is supported by Ruth Helen Davis as the Indian girl who is brought back to her people by the priest, saved from the lure of grandeur. It is quite unnecessary to say that the number is perfectly done.

"Thank you," Mr. John Ford, for Alec B. Francis. For without him as the quizzically gentle minister, the William Fox production of the John Golden stage hit, "Thank You," would have little to recommend it.

George O'Brien as the technical hero does his engaging best with a very slim role, while Jacqueline Logan is totally unconvincing as the girl from Paris, unless the author intended her to be shallow and unappealing.

In a small part, J. Farrell MacDonald contributes enormously to the humor and interest of the film, while James Neill, Cyril Chadwick and Marion Harlan manage clear-cut and interesting portrayals in even less footage.

"Thank You" deals with the adventures of the story-book type of rich youngster, sent to a quiet village to grow up. In this regulation hamlet, duly equipped with shady streets and dowdy gossips, lives the parson, David Lee, whose flock prefers to support the shepherd by donations of food rather than of checks.

Arrives a niece from Paris, a bland young woman who wears decollete black lace evening gowns when she appears for the "donated" dinner, who smokes cigarettes, in long holders, too, but who obligingly "reforms" when she realizes her uncle's discomfort.

The rich youth, duly enamored of the girl, also reforms. Yes, indeed, fetchingly clad in the latest in sport outfits, he nobly casts a number of bottles into the brook. Though the bottles are resurrected by another, his duty is done. Of course, the village needs some reforming, too, and this also, is accomplished.

"Thank You" is supplied with some humor, though little action, but it is not ideal screen material and George O'Brien, for all his charm, is wasted in such a role. Francis is excellent throughout, refusing to be pious, and remaining utterly human and delightful.

ACTRESS IS SIGNED BY CORPER

Gretchen Thomas to Play Leading Role in "Kempy" at the Majestic

Miss Gretchen Thomas was signed yesterday by Michael Corper for the leading feminine role in "Kempy," which is to follow Marjorie Rambeau in "They Knew They Wanted."

Miss Thomas, who has been in Los Angeles only several days spending a quiet vacation after having put in a busy season on the New York stage as leading lady for Raymond Hitchcock, Fred Stone and Willie Collier in several of the latest Gotham hits, had not intended to accept any local engagement. But, due to the fact that she has had a desire to play the role of Kate in "Kempy," immediately consented when Corper offered her the lead in the new play.

The noted New Yorker has not been in Los Angeles since she played the original feminine lead in "The Bat" three years ago, and in coming here at this time was to enjoy a short vacation prior to another season on the Gotham stage.

Rumors that Vivian Martin was to have played the role of Kate in "Kempy," according to Corper, were without foundation as the Majestic producer has been negotiating with Miss Thomas for the role with no other feminine player in mind.

And while there will be no particular artist starred, it is believed that William Buress will be cast in the title role. Harland Tucker has also been retained by Corper to play an important male lead in the production, which is scheduled to open at the Majestic Sunday evening.

Bohemian Night is Successful Experiment

"Bohemian Night" at the Orange Grove was a success and it must have been a most satisfying one to Will Morrissey and his company.

The theater was packed to its capacity with an interesting and extremely interested audience, mostly of the theater and newspaper world. Certainly it was the most enthusiastic audience that has attended the Musical Hall Revue.

The regular program was presented up to the intermission, when it was whispered about that Morrissey was to stage a "bath-tub" scene in the last half.

The curtains parting, revealed a white-enameled bath-tub. Eddie Borden led a white-wigged young lady wearing a Spanish shawl to the tub and she stepped into it. Just then the police wagon's siren sounded out in front and the audience awaited for the denouement.

It came with the "arrest" of Morrissey and in the excitement the young lady jumped out of the tub revealing none other than—Eddie Lambert of the big shoes. It was all cleverly done and a riot of fun.

The affair was such a success Morrissey announced last night that he would hold another Bohemian night Saturday.

Irene Bordoni Opens Tonight at Biltmore

Irene Bordoni, whose appearance here has been looked forward to with interest, comes to the Biltmore tonight in "Naughty Cinderella" for a limited engagement.

She is said to bring a splendid company headed by Henry Kendall, the English actor, as leading man. This occasion marks his first visit to the Coast as he has been in America only since last August.

"THE BRIDE" KEEPS AUDIENCE LAUGHING

Another Mystery Comedy Proves Good Springtime Fare at Morosco

Charlotte Treadway is having a lot of fun this week at the Morosco keeping the entire cast in a state of anxiety and the audiences guessing—until the end of the third act.

Maurice Foster provides the incentive for much laughter and Gavin Gordon entertains with his share in the romantic element of the action.

"The Bride" is the vehicle in which the Morosco players troupe to another success. It was written by Stuart Oliver and George M. Middleton and is good springtime fare. The players contribute no small share of the success with their clever performances.

It has no heavy problems, no sermons—just a bit of fiction dramatized—nothing more, nothing less. There are the jewels, the operatives from "headquarters," the notes thrown from the window, the disguises, the innocent bystanders, romance—and mystery. It isn't a new plot. It is simply handled in a different manner, that's all.

Its chief entertainment value lies in the surprises in its unfoldment and for that reason the details should not be set forth in the review. It is all humorously unbelievable and what it lacks in gripping situations and thrilling suspense it balances in the amusement it affords.

The locale is New York and the setting is the apartment of Gavin Gordon and Maurice Foster, wealthy sons of an old Washington Square family. Over the rooftops on a stormy night Charlotte comes in on the scene clad in bridal gown and veil and looking very lovely.

From this point on the action runs along at a fair pace, which will speed up a bit, no doubt, when the players become accustomed to their roles.

Jane Morgan, spinster aunt of the two brothers, breezes in and out of the scenes, always bringing an amusing note that fits harmoniously into the plot.

Frank Dawson, as the butler, gives a good performance and Richard La Salle as the inspector is sufficiently hard-boiled to be convincing, while being, concurrently, the butt of some of the comedy that keeps the audience tittering.

Potpourri of Effects in Film at Metropolitan

Race-track thrills, dance-hall brawls, and a last-minute rescue of the heroine from the wages of an epidemic of illness in a western oil camp serve to make a varied potpourri of happenings in "The Rainmaker," which is showing this week at the Metropolitan Theater. The picture heads the bill of which a revue sponsored by Eddie Peabody, the ultra jazz specialist, and a very good Mack Sennett comedy are the other high lights. The dancing numbers in the revue, and Peabody's banjo-playing prove diverting.

Principals in the cast of "The Rainmaker" are William Collier, Jr., Ernest Torrence and Georgia Hale, who appeared as the girl in Chaplin's "The Gold Rush." Miss Hale appears again as a dance-hall girl in several sequences of the picture. Collier plays a race-track jockey, who is nursed back to health after an accident on the turf by the heroine, and falls in love with her.

Nancy Welford is Hostess to 200 Children

It was the first time some of the children had ever been to a theater, and their enjoyment was evident many times during the performance.

Most enjoyable, however, was Miss Welford's announcement at the end of the first act that they were to be her guests at a party on the stage after the matinee. Each one was presented with a gift.

Forestry Center Flies Westward

The center of the forestry industry has been traveling rapidly westward for some time and it is now approaching the Pacific Coast. At the same time there are millions of acres of idle land east of the Mississippi River which is entirely suitable for the growth of timber and should be put to work according to those who are agitating the subject of forest preservation. The population of this country is approaching 120,000,000 and the subject is of the most vital interest and in order to interest the coming generation in the subject, the American Tree Association has in recent times distributed more than 2,000,000 pamphlets to the school teachers of the country calling attention to the urgency of the situation and the value of interesting the scholars.

Africa's Babel of Dialects

Travelers and explorers in Africa have much difficulty because of the great number of languages and dialects. Of the latter there is anywhere from 450 to 800, according to different authorities. Porters often have to be changed every twenty miles or so because one set would not understand the dialect of the next district.

WORLD PEACE SINCEREST MEMORIAL TO WAR DEAD

Decoration Day Inspires Appeal to KHJ Audience to Keep Faith With Nation's Martyrs

"Keeping faith with our beloved who died to make a better world, let us, on this Memorial Day, highly dedicate ourselves to the proposition that war, with its butchery of our bravest and best, its wholesale murder of innocents, its destruction of homes, starvation of babes, violation of women and its frenzy of hate and lies, shall be swept out of the world."

That is the plea voiced yesterday by Dr. Henry C. Culbertson, pastor of Mesa Congregational Church, in his sermon to the KHJ audience from The Times broadcasting station. Preaching on "The Gospel of Peace," Dr. Culbertson spoke in part as follows:

"Jesus said, 'blessed are the peacemakers.' Grant said, 'Let us have peace.' Lincoln said, 'Let us strive to do all which may achieve a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations.' The greatest political undertaking of our time and the next step upward in social progress is the getting rid of war, even as we have already virtually gotten rid of polygamy, dueling, monarchical despotism and slavery.

"High ideals have always animated our country's military struggles. In the Revolution our forefathers fought to secure that independence which has made possible the rich, splendid vitality of our national life and our distinctive American contributions to world experience in government, business, invention and social progress. In spite of all just criticism of our policy in the Mexican war, there was also in that conflict a certain pioneering spirit that was part of the exploration and settlement of the West.

"The vital issue in our Civil War was the question whether the republican form of government should exist and enforce the rule of the majority, or whether States and sections can withdraw whenever laws are passed which displease them. Those were days of noble thinking and devoted sacrifice, when some of the grandest personalities ever produced upon this continent, Lincoln and Grant, Lee and Stonewall Jackson, strove with heart-breaking earnestness, those of the North for the Union and the emancipation of the slaves, and those of the South for the freedom and independence of the States. It was brother against brother in what each considered a righteous war, and we honor the heroes of both blue and gray this day, thanking God that the blue was victorious, and that we are now and forever an undivided nation, consecrated, as we verily believe, to world service and to leadership in the cause of truth and right.

WARS FOR RIGHT

"In the Spanish-American War we fought in defense of a weaker nation, Cuba; and Europe was thrilled with astonishment to find that we neither coveted territory nor sought for any selfish gain in our victory. When we acquired the Philippines we became the servants, helpers and educators of the people of those islands and not their exploiters. In the dreadful calamity of the World War we fought to defend our nation and our civilization, to make the world safe for democracy, and there was not a throb of selfish interest in the hearts of the men who marched away on 'the long, long trail.' The slogan which rang in the souls of the heroes who fell beneath the Stars and Stripes in France was that this was 'a war to end war.' In the mud of the trenches and dug-outs, in the fiery horror of 'No-Man's Land,' blasted by the clouds of poison gas or tolling in the terrible drudgery of the service of supply, our boys were exalted and ennobled by the determination that through their efforts the horrible evil of war itself should be blotted out of human history forever.

"War wreaks more evil than it cures, in almost every case that history has recorded. Napoleon, out of his abundant experiences, said, 'I doubt if war ever really settled anything. It unsettles everything. The more I study the world, the more I am convinced of the inability of brute force to create anything durable.' The World War cost 40,000,000 lives and $337,000,000,000. We burned up $3,000,000 per hour, in that struggle, for all of which we have to pay, and all of which might have been put to nobler uses. Eighty-five per cent of our taxes to the national government go to pay for wars, past and future. Infinitely worse than the cost in lives is the moral cost in lowered moral standards, ravished women, the letting loose of brutal instincts, training our sons in ferocity and the cultivating of a carnival of hate in 100,000,000 hearts. It will take generations to overcome the bitterness, the revenge, the brutish lawlessness which remain as wreckage of that terrible conflict.

"Many a noble young American soldier understands full well what one of his comrades said, when, after his return to this country, his father was reproaching him for not talking more about his experiences at the front, 'Just one thing I will tell you. One night I was on patrol in no man's land, and suddenly I came face to face with a German boy about my own age. It was a question of his life or mine. We fought like wild beasts. When I came back that night I was covered from head to foot with the blood and brains of that young German boy. We had nothing personal against each other. He did not want to kill me any more than I wanted to kill him. That is war. I did my duty in it, but for God's sake do not ask me to talk about it. I want to forget it.' Do you wonder that our finest American manhood, amid such experiences, clung passionately to the dream, the hope, the purpose, that wars must cease?

JESUS ON WAR

"As Christians we are accustomed to turn to Jesus for His teaching and example. Jesus lived in a conquered country, harried and oppressed more cruelly than we today can possibly realize. Roman armies held Palestine and every prisoner of war was sold as a slave. During Jesus's boyhood He had seen the entire population of Sepphoris, a near-by town, sold as slaves. Fifty years before the Romans had carried away 30,000 Jews and sold them into slavery. Every man who could not pay his taxes knew that some member of his family would be taken as a slave in payment. A debt thirty days overdue threw the debtor into slavery. Roman nobles coveted positions in the provinces where they might rob the people and make themselves rich. No woman was safe from the lust of officials and soldiers. Is there significance in the fact that we have only the briefest mention of the sisters of Jesus? Poverty was unspeakable in that land, where the wages were a penny a day and labor was in competition with slaves who were sold on the block sometimes for only 80 cents a head.

"The proud and patriotic Jews of Jesus's day passionately resented this cruel and lawless exploitation by their conquerors. Again and again they rebelled, and the revolts were punished with torture and shame. Pilate massacred a company of Galileans who were praying in the temple courts. On one day 2000 Jews were crucified about the walls of Jerusalem and on another day 800 met that awful fate. In every heart was a fierce longing for some Messiah who would lead them in battle, set them free and establish a Jewish kingdom for the loyal people of Jehovah. Jesus refused. Terrible as their sufferings were, Jesus saw that war would only make them worse, would add to the total sum of evil in the world instead of lessening it.

"War adds reprisals to hate, vengeance to cruelty, license to depravity. Jesus exhorted His people to turn the other cheek. He bade them not to be overcome of evil, but to overcome evil with good. He was the mightiest and most effective fighter the world has ever seen, but His weapons were love for His enemies, good will to His persecutors, forgiveness for His crucifiers. In this He was centuries ahead of the time when men would have sanity enough to appreciate the power of His methods and see that these are in truth the only methods that have enduring value. You cannot imagine Jesus working a machine gun to mow down His foes, nor dropping bombs, poison gas and deadly disease germs upon a city, nor plunging a bayonet into the bosom of His enemy. With heavenly wisdom He bade His followers go forth as sheep in the midst of wolves, knowing that without ferocity, but on the basis of service and good will, sheep will survive wolves in the evolution of history. If we have but the courage and spiritual wisdom to see it, the future belongs to Christ-like men and not to those who follow the policy of wolves.

GERMS OF CONFLICT

"War is like disease. It comes from germs. The wise physician seeks to prevent disease by destroying the germs. The germs of war are hate, racial antagonisms and misunderstandings; the desire for selfish national aggrandizement; brandishing the mailed fist; competition in armaments; unwillingness to recognize the supreme truth of the brotherhood of all mankind. Whenever and wherever you hate, you are sowing the seeds of character that lead to war. Rivalries and antagonisms between churches, doctrinal controversies and religious intolerances cripple the followers of Jesus in striving for a peaceful and righteous world. If the churches cannot get along together with mutual respect and kindliness, how can we expect the nations and the politicians to do any better? The misunderstandings between class and class, between capitalist and laborer, held in them the germs of such chaos as has made Russia a wilderness of war and tyranny. International co-operation and good will are no more inconsistent with true patriotism than patriotism itself is inconsistent with love of one's State or native city, or family and home.

"Swashbuckling militarists who urge huge armaments for the sake of making their own nations dominant in the rapidly crowding world and who speak contemptuously of other races than their own, are as great a peril as the fool who would give a juggling exhibition with bottles of nitroglycerine. Another world war, with modern deadly devices, bombs that can wipe out our largest cities in a few hours' time, the scattering of pestilent germs over wide areas, the pouring forth of fearful quantities of poison gas, would destroy our present civilization and obliterate the leadership of those races which are now in the forefront of human progress.

"A true realization of the comparative inadequacy of any preparedness against modern scientific methods of destruction should awaken us to spend more money in cultivating international friendships than we spend in building battleships, more resources in teaching our people the value of brotherliness and good will between various races than we spend in war planes and machine guns. If chambers of commerce in our most enterprising cities find it to their business advantage to send visiting parties out through the neighboring towns to cultivate acquaintance and good will, surely it will pay the nations to send peace expeditions to bring about a better understanding, and learn a mutual respect for the virtues and aspirations of one another and of all peoples.

DOUBLE PREPAREDNESS

"I do not oppose preparedness, but I beseech every man who is preaching preparedness to preach even more strenuously the duties of international kindliness, justice and good will, and to show his sincerity and high-mindedness by working even harder for a world court or some international league or agreement to take the place of war, than he now is working for the weapons of material force. The hour of opportunity is upon us. More important than eradicating the germs of yellow fever, conquering tuberculosis or wiping out typhus is the task of getting rid of the germs of hate, fear and misunderstanding that lead to war and the building up of a constructive spirit of world brotherhood and international good will."

"Let us set ourselves determinedly to bring about the settling of international problems on the basis of sanity, justice and reason instead of through hate and colossal enterprises of wholesale woe, murder and destruction. Mankind must choose between the methods of Christ and the methods of Mars. The holiest monument we can raise to our beloved and ever-living dead is the monument of world peace."

"RUTH" CALLED ONE OF WORLD'S BEST STORIES

Rabbi Mayer Winkler preached at Sinai Congregation last Saturday on "The Book of Ruth." He said in part:

"The little book of Ruth is recognized as one of the best short stories in literature. In fact, it is a charming idyl illustrating one of the finest sentiments of humanity—loyalty. Ruth means 'Friendship.' True friendship stands the tests of time, of sorrow and distress. In hours when everything is gloomy, when the horizon of our life is dark and cloudy the true friends will stand at our side as Ruth stood and cleaved to Naomi. It is refreshing to read of the firm character of a woman who shared her faith and the splendid opportunities of her young life with the mother of her dead husband. Naomi and Ruth, these two luminous figures of glorious womanhood, convey a message to posterity and stand as living monuments of loyalty, faithfulness and friendship."

PARENTS REBUKED FOR IRRESPONSIBILITY

Manly P. Hall, pastor of the Church of the People, preached at Trinity Auditorium yesterday on "Murder." He said in part:

"Our present civilization encourages criminals. Society is as much to blame for murder as the individual who actually commits the crime. Not only should the man be tried for his crime but the environments in which he grew up should be tried also, for they are generally as stunted and distorted as the soul which is their product. The home in America has become a mere name. All too many children are allowed to learn the important questions of life in gutters and alleys.

War is wholesale murder. We recognize it as an international institution. Little children are given tin swords, cap pistols and military hats. These children grow up with the idea that it is perfectly right to shoot enemies of any kind, and we should not be surprised if the grown-up child, mature in body, but seldom mature in mind, suddenly looses a fusillade of revolver shots in a community.

"I believe in the life sentence as being surer in its effect than the extreme penalty. When the laws are enforced the same for the rich and the poor, and when the life penalty means many long years, it will be feared more than the death penalty — for in those years the murderer must think, and most people are miserable when alone with their thoughts. But out of that thinking may rise a deeper and fuller understanding; the criminal may see the error of his ways."

PREPAREDNESS HELD ESSENTIAL TO PEACE

Dr. Bruce Brown of South Park Christian Church preached yesterday on "Adequate Defense." He said in part:

"All the arguments against military training of citizens and of pupils in the public schools rests upon one assumption, and that is that our nation would abuse the misure military power when it is at its command. If this power would only be used as it has been in the past, for the protection of the weak and helpless, used only in the service of justice and liberty, then its possession would be an advantage. If it can be believed that our nation would use military and naval power as a drunken bully would use a revolver, then of course it would be a dangerous thing. I leave such a belief to such minds as are capable of accepting it.

"Preparedness for the nation means no more than an adequate police force does for a city. Plenty of police officers does not mean that the city is going to shoot up the homes of its citizens or begin war on a neighbor city. As long as there are national or civic criminals and anarchists we had better be ready for them. The bulldog is the quietest, gentlest and the friendliest of all animals and is bothered the least, for he is prepared, and most creatures have learned that when imposed on he will defend his rights. The way to keep away from trouble is to keep trouble away from you by letting trouble know that it will meet with plenty of trouble whenever it tries to jimmy the neighbor's door. The government was having mail trains held up every week until it got prepared and the thing stopped. All this does not mean that the nation should be a bully or should refuse to meet other nations even more than half way in any reasonable limitation of armies and navies.

"The greatest danger in church and State is that people will not heed sober warnings regarding the fakirs. Let the preacher speak out boldly against someone who is preaching false doctrines and making merchandise of religion and he is accused of intolerance. Then, when the swindle is exposed, the same people who would not listen will say 'The church is filled with hypocrites and there is nothing in religion.' It is best in politics and religion to be careful about people who make great claims and are going to do wonderful things."

SAYS WAR STARTED WORLD DEMOCRACY

Rev. William C. Isett, pastor of Amanda Chapel, preached yesterday on "In Memoriam." He said in part:

"The Civil War in the United States has been so overshadowed by the World War that Memorial Day has almost lost its significance. If it were not for the schools and churches America would fast lose most of its patriotism. The bent forms, clad in their blue and gray, are men of a past generation, relics of an almost forgotten age. The sound of the fife and drum announcing the passing of a few feeble folk in martial array starts a cheer from the middle-aged, echoed faintly by the young, almost wondering what they are cheering for. Overshadowed by the events of the World War, too, is the cause for which they fought. A few slaves were set free from masters good and bad, but what matters it when we are thinking of freeing a world for united action?

"Just as the Revolutionary War was the beginning of world democracy, although fought by a paltry little army clad in rags, so the Civil War startled the world into the comprehension of the value of an individual. Since that time individualism has been the thought uppermost in the minds of men. It has not yet reached its climax. China, Japan and India are yet to come to that state; then the pendulum will begin to swing back to nationalism. It has already begun in the Occident and Europe and America are now thinking again as nations and national unity is the order of the day. The question of States' rights will be the dominating political issue of the next generation in America, and the United States of Europe will be that of Europe. What has the church to do with it? All wars are religious wars. Whatever other elements may enter in the world is fighting upward to God. The high ideal God has set before us is the God-likeness of man. Never until universal brotherhood is attained will the voice of the church be silenced. All oppression must cease, whether national, international, or individual."

MASONS TO INSTITUTE NEW LODGE

H. F. Starbuck Will Serve as First Master of Foshay Fraternal Group

James A. Foshay Lodge, F. and A. M., will be instituted by Past Master and Inspector of the Seventy-eighth Masonic District, William A. Cehreider at Sunset Masonic Temple, Pico and Orchard streets Wednesday evening.

The personnel of this lodge include in the majority members of Yerba Buena Lodge, No. 403, F. and A. M., of Oakland, Cal., who for the past two years have been meeting as a club, and at last have given proof to Grand Master of Masons for California, Albert E. Boynton, of their ability to carry on as a regular lodge. Henry F. Starbuck, first Master and organizer of Yerbo Buena Lodge, has been selected to serve as first Master of James A. Foshay Lodge, with Ernest L. Riley as Senior Warden, and Vernon C. Wear as Junior Warden. The other officers chosen are Ernest B. Leidholt, Treasurer; Wesley J. Schneider, Secretary; Benjamin A. Coates, Senior Deacon; Theodore R. Pfalsgraf, Junior Deacon; Andrew Wistrand, Marshall; William H. Gribble, Senior Steward, and Lee E. Greene, Junior Steward.

James A. Foshay served as Grand Master of Masons for California in 1900, and was active in Masonic circles in Southern California. He was a leader in educational circles for many years in Los Angeles, serving as Superintendent of Schools.

ACCUSED BANK CLERK TAKEN TO BAY CITY

Isidor Zeelinsky, clerk at the San Francisco office of the Bank of Italy, left here for San Francisco yesterday in custody of Detective Lieutenant Maher of that city, to face embezzlement charges. It is asserted he took $200 of the bank's money. Zeelinsky said before leaving that the charge is a mistake and that he will explain everything satisfactorily when he arrives in San Francisco. He was arrested Thursday at 2651 South Raymond avenue.
